

Piles Cured Quickly at Home

Why Suffer Agony Any Longer When You Can Get a Quick, Sure Cure For Your Piles by Simply Sending Your Name and Address.

Trial Package is Absolutely Free, in Plain Wrapper to Everyone Who Writes.

Surgeons themselves consider a permanent cure of piles by a surgical operation as very doubtful, and resort to it only when the patient has become desperate from long continued pain and agony. But the operation itself is every bit as excruciating and nerve-racking as the disease. Besides, it is humiliating and expensive, and rarely a success.

The wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure makes an operation unnecessary. You cure yourself with perfect ease, in your own home, and for little expense.

Pyramid Pile Cure gives you instant relief. It immediately heals all sores and ulcers, reduces congestion and inflammation, and takes away all pain, itching and irritation. Just a little of the treatment is usually sufficient to give a permanent cure.

Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared in the form of suppositories so they can be applied directly to the parts without inconvenience, or interrupting your work in any way.

We are sending a trial treatment free of charge, to every one who sends name and address. We do this to prove what we say about this wonderful remedy is true.

After you have tried the sample treatment, and are satisfied, you can get a full-sized treatment of Pyramid Pile Cure at your druggist's for 50 cents. If he hasn't it, send us the money and we will send you the treatment at once, by mail, in plain sealed package.

Send your name and address at once for a trial of this marvelous quick cure. Address Pyramid Drug Co., 1107 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich.

Rev. Carlisle B. P. Martin, I. L. D. Of Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a phlegm and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horsehead Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat and lung trouble." Sold by D. J. Fry.

Excursions Every Hour. In order to give the people of Salem an opportunity to see the beautiful country south of Salem, and to see the development being made by the company, the Citizens' Light & Traction Company will run excursion cars to the rock quarry, south of Odd Fellows' cemetery, leaving the Willamette hotel on even hours. Enjoy a pleasant ride, and see for yourself.

BEN BLAIR

THIS is a picture of the young ranchman who came out of the West—like another Lochinvar—after the girl he loved.

He looks as if nothing could stop him—which is the quality that we like best in the hero of a story, after all.

"Ben Blair" is making a tremendous stir. Five editions—thirty thousand copies—have been printed.

Nothing more vigorous, fresh, and exciting, or more Western has been published in years. Ask your bookseller if this is not so.

LIEU CHOU THUGS

Murderers of Missionaries are Tried and Punished, Three Decapitated

New York, Jan. 29.—The first report of the commission of inquiry into the Lien Chou massacre reached New York today from Canton, China, whence it was sent by the Rev. Dr. Henry V. Noyes. He reports to the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, under which all the murdered missionaries had been working, that the commission has returned to Canton. But that the numbers would have to go again to Lien Chou, as there are more criminals to be arrested when they can be found. The United States commission, he says, is not judicial, and the measure of guilt or punishment is fixed solely by the Chinese government, although the American officers assist in the examination of witnesses, which is thorough and persistent. Dr. Noyes says the whole investigation seems to have been conducted with great carelessness and impartiality both on the part of the United States government and the Chinese. Wen Tsotai, who represents the viceroy, is an intelligent man, and it was he who fixed the following sentences:

Three—actual murderers—to be decapitated. This sentence was executed before the commissioners left Lien Chou.
Four—to be imprisoned for five years, two for three years, two for one, and one for six months.
Four—to be imprisoned for five years, two for three years, two for one, and one for six months.
Two to be castrated.
Five to be banished.
As to the criminals who have so far eluded capture and justice, they also are to be punished after arrest. A full report of the trial has not yet been received in this country.

Dr. Noyes speaks of the recognition given by the United States commission and by the missionaries to the invaluable services of the man who saved Miss Patterson's life. It was the brave act of a hero. As Consul General Lay said in an address to him: "Your brave, noble deed was the one bright spot in that dark day."

This man went with the murderers into the cave to try to save at least some of the missionaries. He could be of no help to Mrs. Machie, Amy, Dr. Chennut or Mr. and Mrs. Peale. But farther back in the cave he found Miss Patterson and said to her: "I am a believer in Jesus. Follow me and I will save you." He took her to a deep pit like a well, and helped her down into it, concealing her under an over hanging rock. The searchers threw wisps of lighted straw into the pit, but failed to discover them. Miss Patterson asked him while they were hiding, whether he was really a believer in Jesus. He said he was not. "Then why did you say so?" she asked. "I feared that otherwise you could not have trusted me and I could not have saved you."

Dr. Noyes also tells the story of a little boy, a scholar in the mission school, who came to see Dr. Machie with a scar showing that he had received an ugly gash on the head, which had healed. He said that he had followed the missionaries to the cave and there received the cut, and that Dr. Chennut, while at the tree before she was killed, tore off a portion of the skirt of his dress and bound up the wound. It was the last patient she ever treated.

In a letter also received today by the Presbyterian board, from the Rev. A. A. Patton, it is stated that the losses by burning and looting of the Lien Chou station will probably aggregate $50,000 Mexican, and the claims will be quickly paid.

Important Railroad Change

A well posted railroad man informs the Guard that the R. P. railroad bridge over the South Santiam, on the Woodburn-Springfield branch, the longest bridge in Oregon, will either be condemned or abandoned soon.

The river is continually shifting its course, and bridge after bridge has been built, to be again washed out by the floods. At the present time a flood would leave the bridge over dry land and three more spans would be necessary, so the railroad company has decided to make no more repairs on the bridge.

At first it was decided to cross the river several miles further up, but this has been abandoned and when ever the bridge goes out or is condemned, which must be soon, on the south end of the line trains will be run between Springfield and Albany,

Sickening, Shivering Fits.

Of ague and malaria can be relieved, and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine, of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to quinine, having none of the drug's bad after effects. E. S. Munday, of Henrietta, Texas, writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I had him take Electric Bitters, which saved his life." At J. C. Perry's drug store; price 50c, guaranteed.

The Best Insurance

William Boyd of the Curtis Publishing company addressed the Manufacturers' Advertising club at the Hotel Euclid, says the Cleveland (O.) Plain Dealer, on "The Preparations Necessary to a Successful Advertising Campaign." Mr. Boyd opened with the statement that unless a business organization is responsive to changing trade conditions it cannot be successful. He cited the growth of advertising to show it one of the new business conditions which every concern must meet.

Travel advertisements are a waste of money, according to Mr. Boyd, and he likened the trial advertiser to the tradesman who sends out traveling salesmen once and then discharges them, expecting that results from the single effort will warrant engagement of other salesmen for a like single trip.

Mr. Boyd likened advertising to a business insurance. If an advertiser's place of business burns down, even though he has no fire insurance, he can at once rebuild and continue to do a profitable business because he has advertised, thereby creating a demand for his goods.

It is of course just as important that your ad. should be in the right paper as it is to have your insurance in a good company. Keep it in these columns.

Identifying Towns.

A Worcester, Mass., newspaper comments that one can ride in a trolley car through all the cities, towns and villages from Boston to New York without learning the names of any of them from a legend placed by the wayside to attract the traveler's attention, says the Philadelphia Ledger. The statement is a little exaggerated. The great towns are readily identified, but the case is different with respect to every electric line which runs to the country side.

Scarcely any of these alluring little settlements can be identified unless one happens to pass the post office or the steam railway station or is fortunate enough to be riding with a knowing and communicative conductor. One of these officials, employed on a street railway line running out of Philadelphia, had such slight knowledge of the territory through which his car was passing that he was unable to give to an interested passenger the name of a fine stream spanned by a graceful old fashioned stone arched bridge, over which the tracks were laid.

Fortunately this dense ignorance of local geography, of the names of historic buildings and scenic features generally, as to which the alert traveler wishes to be informed, is not common among trolley car conductors. The rider who was so lucky as to find a place with the loquacious driver in the old stage coach days needed no better guide book, but he is gone, and the casual traveler must seek elsewhere if he would discover his latitude and longitude.

Our pretty little towns and villages should be more self assertive and blow their trumpets louder for the sake of the wayfarer who speeds through them in the "broomstick train." A readable sign at the boundary line would be helpful. Buildings along the wayside which have interesting historical associations should be appropriately labeled. In one of the New England towns a tablet is placed on a fence which it informs the visitor that it is near the spot where certain unfortunate were hanged for practicing witchcraft. In this way we read history as we fly.

Many churches bear no name upon their walls. It would be satisfactory to know what denomination worships in such an inviting place. There may be scores of business signs along the route and none giving the most important information at all, the name of the settlement. One may travel through a long succession of villages without learning their name. Property owners are too modest. We wish to know who lives in the commanding residence on the hill or in the attractive cottage embowered in roses. The trolley lines have done much to waken up our villages, but they have not learned how to advertise themselves.

The hair of rabbits and other animals in Russia is converted into bows, dishes and plates, which are valued for their strength, durability and lightness. The articles are similar in appearance to varnished leather.

Kind Words for Huston.

(Bandon Recorder.)

Mr. S. B. Huston, of Hillsboro, who is one of the candidates for the congressional nomination on the Republican ticket, is visiting Bandon in the interest of his candidacy, and called upon the Recorder office.

Mr. Huston is a native of Indiana, but has lived in Oregon for about 23 years. His father was a soldier in the 18th Indiana Volunteers, and was one of those who gave up his life that the country might be preserved. He left a widow with three small children, of which Mr. Huston was the oldest, being five years old. He was raised on a farm and was compelled to do all kinds of labor in order to assist in making a living. When only 7 years old he went to mill on horseback, and the young man who ran the mill was Hon. W. T. Durbin, late governor of the state of Indiana. He earned the money to pay his education by working for wages and teaching. He was admitted to the bar and came to Oregon in 1882. He was employed at various kinds of labor until January, 1884, when he began the practice of law in Hillsboro. For the last 15 years he has been recognized as one of the leading lawyers of the state. He has never held but one political office to wit: state senator. He is now serving his fourth consecutive term as school director at Hillsboro. He was married in 1884, and has three children, a daughter 20 years old, and two sons, 18 and 16 respectively. His daughter is attending the State University at Eugene, and the son is attending the University at Forest Grove. He comes out squarely in his platform in favor of the maximum rate bill advocated by President Roosevelt, and claims that his opponents are not willing to do so, but dodge the question. He is a man of good appearance and one who will make friends wherever he goes, and would, we think, make a capable representative in congress. We predict that visit to Bandon will be appreciated by the people of the town and vicinity.
