

Vinol THE COD LIVER PREPARATION WITHOUT OIL

Vinol is fast superseding old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions because, without a drop of oil or disagreeable feature, it contains all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers. By our process the oil, having no value either as a medicine or food, is separated from the medicinal elements and thrown away. Unlike old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions, Vinol is deliciously palatable, agreeable to the weakest stomach, and therefore unequalled as a body builder and strength creator for old people, puny children, weak, run-down men and women, after sickness, and for all pulmonary diseases. Everything Vinol contains is named on the label.

OUR GUARANTEE—We have such faith in VINOL that if you will take it we promise if it does not benefit or cure you we will return you your money without question. We take all the risk.

F. S. Senn's Address.
Address of welcome by F. S. Senn of Silverton, delivered before the Willamette Valley Development league at Silverton, Oregon, Wednesday afternoon, February 14, 1906:

It is an exceedingly great pleasure to welcome so large a number of happy people to our town. We feel that, for its size, Silverton is the most prosperous town in the state except, perhaps, the towns and cities from which you come; and I might add a word or two by saying that it is a pleasure to welcome such a fine body of intelligent men, but I am reminded, gentlemen, of that saying of Lord Chesterfield to his son, "In giving flattery, always give it the very opposite of medicine—the strongest doses to the weakest patients."

We welcome and thank the members and officers of the Willamette Valley Development league who have made this meeting possible, and who will make it a success.

We believe there is no more beneficial form of association than these boards of trade, chambers of commerce and development leagues, which are established all over the country. It is but a few years since they existed only in the large cities. Now they have been created in almost every hamlet and village in the land. They are something more than boards of trade. They concentrate the energy, the business tact and progressive spirit which develop the village and make the town. They invite capital, they stimulate enterprise they create the conditions which attract populations. They can do more; while in no sense political, they can perform the highest public duties. They know that extravagance or corruption increases taxes; that taxes make it more expensive to transact business and that the town in which business can be most cheaply done will defeat its rivals. They can become good government clubs, and enforce efficiency in the public service and purity and ability in public office. They are the sources of commercial union, and can become the schools, academies and colleges for the study and teaching of sound political principles and economic doctrines.

We welcome the candidates for the various state, district and county offices. A candidate who understands nothing of agriculture, of trade, or of the needs of the people of his district is a mere empiric in political legislation. It is becoming of the candidates who are here that they are willing to come before the people and be judged by them as to their fitness and competency for office, instead of being compelled to bow, in humble submission, to some party organization or machine for their nomination. Thanks to the direct primary nominating system.

We welcome the farmers, the tillers of the soil, upon whom, after all, we are dependent for our prosperity

Formerly the farmers' capacity for raising grain and other products was limited to the necessities of his family for food and seedling purposes. The miller ground his grain into flour for home consumption merely. Then no one could rob the farmer but the cheerful plump and lusty miller—and in those days he wouldn't.

Modern invention has developed the farmer's capacity for cultivating the field, so that now he feeds the world. He no longer takes the result of the harvest to the miller in a long bag, on horseback, grain on one side and stone ballast on the other, but to the advance agent of the miller and produce merchant, and he in turn to that mysterious structure by the railroad track that elevates the product but not the price.

We are glad to note so many farmers in the meeting. You show by your presence that you are interested in this matter and that you are willing to do your part in the development of our state. We of the towns and cities are justly credited with knowing very little about farming. However, some times we do observe a few points about the subject.

Two years ago I had the good fortune to spend six months among the farmers of Wisconsin and Michigan. I noticed that the farmer there raised from his farm almost everything that he consumed. When he went to town all he purchased was his tea, coffee and sugar and what he wore on his back, and even for this he was not obliged to pay money. Every time he went to town he took eggs, butter or produce with him and he exchanged this for the things he bought. He had no use for money. It was a mere matter of barter and trade with him. He realized sufficient from his cows, chickens and produce to defray his running expenses, and in the fall of the year he sold his grain and corn crop and deposited this money in the bank, or invested it in some enterprise. It appealed to me that this is the secret of the eastern farmer's success. But let us get back to Oregon.

It's the only neat mounting which will stay on in warm weather. No trouble to show it. It's our business to fit glasses, and we do it correctly.

I feel that we are on the threshold of a new era of prosperity. The progressive spirit of the New Oregon so prevalent here today, must not be allowed to recede. We may truthfully say with Shakespeare that "there is a tide in the affairs of states, as well as of men, which taken at the flood leads us on to fortune; omitted, all the voyage will be in shallow waters. We must take the current when it serves, or lose our venture." Let us take advantage of the opportunity that presents itself at this time.

We of Silverton would indeed be blind if we did not see the good that is to come from this conviction. We need these reunions to stimulate and arouse us from our lethargy. We are with this league heart and soul, in its struggle for the betterment of the laws and the development of the resources of our state. Already its labors are bringing results. Its efforts to secure a revision of our taxation laws so that the bulk, if not all, the state tax will be secured from indirect taxation is receiving the approbation of our citizens. Our present method of assessment and collection of taxes is a relic of a bygone day. Let us fall in line with the other progressive states of the union and adopt the system of taxation championed by the Willamette Valley Development League. Let us have the assessment roll published so that Farmer Smith can see the assessment of Farmer Jones. We are not averse to paying our just tax when we know that every one else is paying his just share. Let publicity in on this matter and many of the inequalities now existing in our taxation laws will disappear.

The numerous initiative petitions that are being circulated are indicative of the good results of the work accomplished by the league and other organizations of a kindred nature. We have trusted to the legislature to do something, but the legislature has been busy selecting U. S. senators and sometimes they did not even accomplish that. Of course, if there are any aspirants for the legislature present, we are satisfied that when elected they will do better, and if there are any here who have already Contain no "brick dust-like sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills will do this for you. They watch the kidneys and cure them when you're sick. Olof Johnson, who is a gardener by occupation, living at the corner of 15th and B streets, North Salem, says: "Kidney complaint is no new thing to me. I have been bothered off and on for tenor twelve years. I did not suffer so much from backache as most people do who have kidney complaint, but the principal annoyance was a weakness of the kidney secretions, which was both distressing and aggravating. There was a scalding sensation in passing, and a heavy brick-dust like sediment appeared after standing in the vessel over night. I had attacks of dizziness in my head and oftentimes a blurring would appear before my eyes and I could scarcely see. I tried numerous remedies, but all in vain, until I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended for just such troubles and procured them at Dr. Stone's drug store. Now, I don't want to tell the people something that is not true, but I will say that in all my experience with doctors' prescriptions and different kidney remedies nothing has given me the amount of relief that I have received from Doan's Kidney Pills."

serviced they no doubt were in the hopeless minority.

Through the initiative and referendum the people can make their own laws, and by insisting that every candidate for the legislature take and abide by the pledge to support the people's nominee for U. S. senator we will have very little use for a legislature.

And I believe that when it comes to such a point, when the only function of the legislature will be to meet at Salem, in a sort of electoral college, and deposit their ballot for the people's nominee for U. S. senator, and then immediately adjourn, the people will be the better for it. But I will not detain you longer.

Gentlemen, you are welcome to our town. You are welcome to everything in sight, and let no one interfere with your welcome. We realize the importance of your coming, and wish your stay might be longer. We realize that you occupy responsible positions in the community from which you came, we know it. We bid you thrice welcome to all that our town affords, and trust that you will all take away pleasant recollections of Silverton.
