Washington, Feb. 16.—The police arrangements for the wedding were perfected today. Major Sylvester, commander of the city police, will detail a squad of mounted men to regulate the carriage and foot procession, and officers will guard the gates. Not even the chief of police has been taken into the secret of the couple's destination after the ceremony. There is much speculation, but none are sure. Many think they will go south after a week at Mrs. Roosevelt's Virginia cottage.

Grave Trouble Foreseen.

It needs but little foresight to tell that when your stomach and liver are badly affected grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee by J. C. ### Another Democrat Files.

Hon. Chas. W. Galloway, of McMinnville, today filed his declaration of intention to become a Democratic candidate for congress. Governor Chamberlain and James H. Mr. Galloway would like to have printed on the ballot with his name: "For supremacy and enforcement of law and against favors to special interests."

KREB'S HOUSE BURNED

The Krebs family home, near Brooks, caught fire about 3 o'clock this morning, and was totally destroyed with all its contents. The fire was discovered by a man sleeping in the house, and was then at such a stage as to prevent anything from saving it.
The loss is in the neighborhood of $2000, partly covered by insurance. There are several large buildings near the house, but, owing to the wind being favorable, the Chinamen employed on the place were able to save them.

The Chinese Tea Trade.

There was a day when the only good tea was supposed to be that which came from China, but that is not so now. For instance, Great Britain used only 5,600,000 pounds in 1905 against 9,900,000 pounds in 1904, and 12,700,000 pounds in 1903. In like manner American imports of Chinese tea decreased from 55,000,000 pounds in 1903 and 53,000,000 pounds in 1904 to 43,000,000 pounds in 1905. At the same time American imports of Japanese tea increased from 37,000,000 pounds in 1903 to 42,000,000 each in 1904 and 1905. American imports of East India tea, chiefly from Ceylon, also increased from 6,700,000 pounds in 1903 to 7,600,000 pounds in 1904 and 7,800,000 pounds in 1905. The past ten months Great Britain took 123,500,000 pounds of Indian tea, 74,500,000 pounds of Ceylon tea and 10,400,000 pounds of Java tea.
Japan exports 40,000,000 pounds of tea this season, against 47,000,000 pounds last season nearly all of which was used in the United States and Canada. Japanese tea is not popular in Great Britain. The lessened use of Chinese tea is due to two causes: First, a deterioration in its quality; second, the difficulty of obtaining any considerable quantity of good Chinese black tea. A correspondent of the London Times says: "One important result of the lower cost of production has been that, whereas in the beginning India and Ceylon teas displaced Chinese tea by virtue of superiority alone, now they have almost driven it out of the market here by being able to be sold at a price with which the Chinese cannot compete."

Advertising Creates Value

One of the receivers of the National Salt company testified in court that a certain trademark was considered "a valuable asset," as it was the brand of salt that brought the highest price and had a good market.

Asked how this salt was different from other salts sold by the company, the receiver, testifying, admitted that there was no difference; that they all came out of the same kettle. When the court then inquired what caused the high price and good market for this particular product the witness replied:

"Simply the extensive and attractive advertising the brand got."

One thought suggested by this curious confession is the testimony it bears as to the efficacy of advertising to create "a valuable asset," even where, as in this—let us hope exceptional—instance, the advertiser was not quite candid about the quality of the goods.—New York Herald.
