X-RAYS

The search for the north pole is somewhat like the Democratic pursuit of the presidency—laughable but foolish.

Francis Burton Harrison says "the Panama canal is being constructed with honesty, efficiency and intelligence." But he forgot to mention the money.

If Oregon can't get a million by 1909 after all our Lewis and Clark blow out, without the one million club and a lot of "Labor," we had better stay way back and keep a sitting.

Croup

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is a chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a croupy cough, apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat. Mrs. A. Vliet, New Castle, Colo. writes, March 18, 1902: I think Ballard's Horehound Syrup a wonderful remedy and so pleasant to take. For sale by D. J. Fry, Salem, Oregon.

STRANGE THINGS HAPPEN

Thugs Evidently Get Cold Feet Early in Their Own Scrimmage

Rev. Paul Rader, of Portland, state organizer of the Anti-Saloon League, made complaint to the sheriff last night that he had been attacked by persons, evidently seeking his life. His story is in substance as follows: "While on his way to the Methodist church, and on the east corner of Chemeketa and Summer streets two individuals followed him. When they had crossed the street at the point where foundations for a new house are being laid, one of the men asked him: 'Partner, where's the way to the depot?' Not being very familiar with Salem, Rader hesitated an instant, raised his umbrella and pointed in the direction of the depot. At the same instant he was hit on the back of the head, and his questioner struck at him with a knife, aiming for his heart. Fortunately, a card case, which Mr. Rader carried in his vest pocket, prevented the blow from taking effect. Rader, seeing that an attempt on his life was planned, with his right hand repulsed his assailant, and, in warding off the blow of the knife, his left hand was seriously cut. The wound was such that it made it necessary for physicians to take several stitches. Rader never lost his head, and grasped his man by the coat-tail, to which he clung desperately, until he stumbled over an old fence in an alley near Governor Moody's barn, and through which the two men made their escape. Rader called for assistance by yelling, but no one was near. He went to 374 Summer street, where he is staying with his brother, Ralph, to get a gun. Several of the college boys, who are boarding there, got on the trail and started to chase the murderous thugs, but found no clues.

Paul Rader went to Sheriff Culver's office and related the story of the assault, which is identically the same as told the newspaper men who interviewed him last evening. Mr. Rader narrated the event without the least excitement. He is a brother of Ralph Rader, Willamette University's great full back and athlete, and is himself of athletic build and makeup, and able to cope with any single adversary. He described his assailant as a man about five feet six inches tall, with a black mustache, wearing a slouch felt hat and black coat. To him, the man had the appearance of an Italian. Mr. Rader believed he would recognize his man were he to see him again, because he remembered having seen him on the train coming to Salem, and again in the afternoon on the street. When asked if he thought the man was hired by the saloon element to assault him, he said he did not think so.

Last night's Telegram says: Warrants for the arrest of Paul Rader, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and Acting Detective Tom Kay, of the police department, were issued out of the municipal court yesterday afternoon upon complaints given by Deputy District Attorney Adams, sworn to by A. Crofton, manager for the Brewers' and Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association. Kay and Rader are charged with sending a minor into a disorderly house, namely, the Peerless, 210 Abier street, and McCabe is charged with being a minor and entering such place. The arrests are the result of a raid made on the Peerless house recently by Acting Detectives Kay and White after McCabe had secured evidence of violations of law there, and spent Anti-Saloon League funds to purchase liquor for women.

Conflicting Statements.

Ed Journal: Rev. Paul Rader, for whom a warrant of arrest was issued in Portland, charging him with hiring a minor, named H. L. McCabe, to enter saloons and other houses, claims to have been assaulted on the streets of Salem by thugs, for the purpose of doing him bodily injury. Comparing the account of the assault as given to the sheriff, presumably by Mr. Rader, with the one given by Mr. Rader later on the newspapers, one cannot help but notice a considerable difference. According to the first account, Mr. Rader grappled with his assailant after the attack, and the two rolled in the mud in a lively struggle, the thug finally escaping from his (Rader's) grasp, and running away. Mr. Rader at once repaired to Sheriff Culver's office, and reported the assault, etc.

Mr. Rader further states, according to this account, that he "could give only a meager description of his assailant, who, he thinks, came on the train with him from Portland, and for the very purpose of doing him up. He describes him as being about five feet, six inches tall, about 30 years old, with black mustache and slouch appearance, wearing a black felt hat and a square cut coat, having the general appearance of an Italian."

According to Mr. Rader's later account it appears that, after the assault, "Rader grabbed the fellow in front, who eluded him, and both assailants ran west to the alley, Rader chasing them and yelling. Turning into the alley, Rader grabbed the fellow's coat-tail, but fell over a broken rail, and the fellow escaped him. "Rader says he saw the fellow on the train and met him on the street here yesterday afternoon. He does not think the man was hired to assault him; that it was of his own motion, and that it was because of Rader's activity in the anti-saloon work."

The writer being from Missouri, sincerely hopes that this matter will be probed to the bottom, and that in the end no guilty man may escape. Without desiring or intending to cast any reflections on the statements made by Mr. Rader, one cannot help but realize that he is in a very delicate situation, and that any act of his at the present time, owing to the grave position he is in relative to his Portland scandal, will naturally be received with some question. Mr. Rader is accused of hiring minors to break the statutes of the state, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest. It is hard to imagine what benefit the liquor interests could possibly gain in an assault upon Mr. Rader. The writer sincerely hopes this matter may be probed to the very bottom, and whoever is guilty be punished accordingly. FAIR PLAY.

ONE WEAK SPOT. Most Salem People Have a Weak Part and Too Often It's the Back. Everyone has a weak spot. To often it's a bad back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching pains keep up day and night. Tells you the kidneys need help—For backache is really kidney-ache. A kidney cure is what you need. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys. Cures backache and all urinary ills. Salem people recommend the remedy.

F. A. Sutton, of 1125 Waller street, Salem, Or., says: "For ten or 12 years rheumatism and kidney trouble was the scourge of my life, and two or three times I was down on my back on account of the pain being so severe I could hardly move, owing to the lameness, and had to leave my farm and come into the city to doctor for the trouble, but nothing seemed to bring me more than temporary relief. I was in bad shape just before I went to Dr. Stone's drug store and procured Doan's Kidney Pills. My limbs would scarcely support me, and I could only get around at times with the greatest difficulty. Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me at once, and when I had used three boxes I was absolutely free from every symptom of my old trouble, and my health was better than it had been for 14 years. I can conscientiously say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy of the kind I ever used or knew of."

CHAINED TO A CORPSE.

Deleful Punishment of the Ancient Duplicated in Our Modern Life. The Romans used to punish a murderer by chaining to his body the corpse of his victim. Wherever he went he dragged behind him the debris of his crime, the stony cancer, revolting thing that was man. Every day you see people dragged around with them the corpse of their sins. They can't get away from them. And many of them have come so intimate with these corpses that they become corpses themselves. The misery of these poor unfortunate has become constitutional with them. It is to them like an old shoe. They have become accustomed to it. And there are thousands of human beings who are walking the earth today with corpses attached to them.—dyspeptic stomachs they can't get rid of. They have to get along the best they can with the stomachs they have. The owners of said dyspeptic stomachs are to be found in every walk of life suffering from some form of indigestion, first cousin to dyspepsia. They wear that forlorn appearance, their energy is at zero, nothing interests them, and they interest none, their faces are shrunk, their nerves are wilted and their shoulders sag. Are you one of the myriads who are dandle and gratify their palates, the sacrifice of their stomachs? Are you one of those who allow the senses to run riot, eating too much, drinking too much, eating at wrong time, eating the half-cooked and the impossible? Are you bloated after eating, imagine that it is your food that you? Do you have nausea when you look upon this or that, rebel at things and be hungry for it, too at same time? And have you got whole lot of other things that you do with your stomach that you do about, but nobody else does, and explain? If so, you have dyspepsia, real dyspepsia. And the chances you have had it a long time. Your stomach is overworked, abused, fagged out. The gastric digestive juices are weak, the muscles of the stomach are jaded, and whole business needs new life. Needs something which will take the food as it comes in and do digesting, and let your stomach rest. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do a very thing. They contain a powerful ingredient which helps stomach in the process of digestion, cures dyspepsia, sour stomach, indigestion, heart-burn, eructations, flatulence or fermentation. They invigorate the stomach, increase the flow of gastric juice, and do two-thirds of the stomach would have to do without them. That gives the stomach some rest, and a chance to get again. You will feel the change first in your mind and heart and then in your whole body. You'll feel fresher and sweeter. That's the object. You can get these effective little tablets almost anywhere on earth for a package. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the name.
