COD LIVER OIL.

It almost makes you sick to think of it, but it isn't nearly as bad as it used to be. The improved method of refining it makes it much easier to take, and when made into Scott's Emulsion almost every one can take it. Most children like it and all children that are not robust are benefited by it. When the doctor says "Take cod liver oil," he generally means Scott's Emulsion; ask him if he doesn't. They know it is more easily digested and better than the plain oil.

W. SCOTT TAYLOR DEAD

Prominent Citizen of Gervais Passes Away

Winfield Scott Taylor, a pioneer citizen of Gervais, died this morning at 1 o'clock. He was ill but a short time, suffering a stroke of apoplexy last night about 9 o'clock. He was 54 years of age, and leaves a wife and son to mourn his untimely death. He was one of the most useful citizens of the county, serving for many years in the humble capacity of notary public and register of voters, and having the confidence of the community in every respect. He was one man to whom all went with troubles of every description. He was a man of fine education, great natural ability, was kind and patient, and yet possessed of great firmness and vigor when the exigency required. Mr. Taylor was also an auctioneer, and his business was that of harness-maker. He leaves his family provided for. The funeral will be held Friday at 11 o'clock.

Doctors Are Puzzled.

The remarkable recovery of Kenneth McIver of Vanceboro, Me., is the subject of much interest to the medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends. He says of this case: "Owing to severe inflammation of the throat and congestion of the lungs, three doctors gave me up to die, when, as a last resort, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and I am happy to say it saved my life." Cures the worst coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, weak lungs, hoarseness and influenza. Guaranteed at J. C. Perry's drug store, Salem, Oregon, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Kicked by a Horse.

(Albany Herald.)

John Cooper, manager of the Cooper hop yard, near this city, and one of the owners of the property, met with a serious accident last evening, one that same near proving fatal, when a horse kicked him in the left temple, cutting the temple artery.

Mr. Cooper was in the act of leading his team of horses to water when one of them, in a playful mood, wheeled and kicked, the sharp shoe of the horse striking the luckless owner in the temple. Mr. Cooper sank to the ground in an unconscious condition, bleeding freely, and remained there for a time. When he regained consciousness he dragged himself to the house and undertook to telephone for help, being alone at the farm, and it was some little time before he could make himself understood. Dr. W. H. Davis was quickly notified of the accident, and went to the Cooper farm. He found that Mr. Cooper had lost a great deal of blood, and was weak as a result of this.

Ligaments were at once applied, and the unfortunate hop grower passed into the care of his brother, E. W. Cooper, of this city, who hastened to the farm when informed of the accident. Dr. W. H. Davis reported late last evening that Mr. Cooper was resting easily, and that he would soon recover, but that he had a narrow escape from most serious consequences.

Mr. Cooper is the brother of Representative J. C. Cooper, of Independence.

BORN OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME

How a Confirmed Dyspeptic Developed an Appetite Like a Corn-husker's and Cleaned Out Everything in Sight.

The wife of a leading druggist of Des Moines tells how her brother was changed from a dyspeptic without appetite to a prodigious eater.

"My brother, who is a lawyer in Chicago, came to visit me and I hardly knew him on his arrival, he was so thin and run down. I had not seen him for years and was much alarmed at his appearance. He told me not to worry as he had been in this condition for years as a result of chronic dyspepsia. I asked him what he had done for it, and he said he had done everything taken every remedy he had ever heard of and consulted doctors without number, none of them helped him. I asked him if he ever took Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and he said he hadn't and what was more he wouldn't. He had sworn off taking medicines of any kind.

"I had my husband bring home a box from the store and I actually made him take one or two of the tablets after he had eaten. They made him feel so much better that he offered no further objection. He had not taken the one box before he was greatly improved and three or four boxes cured him of dyspepsia and gave him a wonderful appetite.

He came near eating us out of house and home. My, but it did me good to see him eat. He gained fifteen pounds before he returned home, and he writes me that he has not been troubled with dyspepsia since."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of their work of digestive action.

Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unusual or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by thus relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. One box will frequently effect a perfect cure.

Mr. Brownback (in the bosom of his family)—Dey's got a new steam whistle at de sawmill out at Possum Trot, and it's so pow'ful prodigious dat w'en it blows its howl kin be heard mighty night two miles.
