Let it be clear at the outset that the presence of "the ladies, once our superiors, now our equals," has had no especial effect upon the kind of order and decorum maintained at polling places ever since the introduction of the secret or Australian ballot, Men possibly swear a little less, but they wear their bats and use tobacco as freely in all forms about the polls as

At the general election in November, 1904, for example, the presence of women as voters and as members of election boards did not prevent a Republican "woman worker" from being 'thrown out' of a polling place in Denver, literally "by the neck," and shoved up against a fence; it did not prevent fights, acts of intimidation and the arrest of workers and voters of both sexes, of the opposite political faith, by partisan police and sheriffs' officers in various parts of the state; it did not prevent gross insults being At the city convention Friday night offered, in a few cases, to women, nor

Despite the efforts of both parties up the interest of women in political affairs, the ratio of female voters to male voters seems to be decreasing.
