CARE OF THE EYES

If school teachers would drill their pupils daily in calisthenics for the eyes, as well as the rest of the body, the proportion of school children wearing glasses would be greatly lessened.

Take care of your general health. Get plenty of sleep, and as regularly as possible. Remember, the eyes draw their nourishment from the same source as the rest of the body, viz, the blood.

Always close the eyes for a few seconds when changing suddenly to a bright light. Do not face a light to read, write or work by.

Do not sleep facing a light; not even moonlight.

When your eyes are very tired, bathe them in hot and cold water alternately; first hot, then cold. Apply the hot and cold water also to the back of the head and neck, at the base of the brain. The hot application relieves congestion; the cold stimulates the blood and nerve vessels to renewed activity.

Massage the back of the head and neck, and along the spine. Notice the course of the optic nerve.

Cultivate a cheerful, happy frame of mind; with kindness and love in the heart. The eyes express the emotions. They are indeed "the windows of the soul." From a phrenological standpoint, this is readily understood.

Hold some small object in your hand (a pin will do); look at the head of it and change the focusing distance by bringing it to your nose; then extending as far as you can reach; varying from right to left; high to low; and vice versa, describing circles in different directions. While at this exercise glance upward, raising up with some object at a distance. Vary the distance and direction.—Dr. R. W. Travis in Medical Talk for the Home.

"What Dost Thou Here?"

(From Goodwin's Salt Lake Weekly.)

And behold, the Lord passed by and a great and strong wind rent the mountains, and broke in pieces the rocks before the Lord; but the Lord was not in the wind; and after the wind an earthquake; but the Lord was not in the earthquake.

And after the earthquake a fire; but the Lord was not in the fire; and after the fire a still small voice.

And it was so, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, stood in the entering in of the cave. And behold, there came a voice unto him and said: What dost thou here, Elijah?

At the sea port of Norddetch of the Frisian Islands, a tower is being erected, to be completed in the coming summer, where is to be probably the most important wireless telegraph station in the world. Germany is alert to place guards about her dominions. From this station she can talk to half the world.

There may be winds to rend the mountains and break in pieces the rocks; there may be earthquakes; there may be fires; but after the winds, the earthquakes and the fires, the still small

GOVERNOR PRESENTS AWARDS

The presentation of the awards to the expert riflemen of Company M, O. N. G., was witnessed by a large number of friends last evening. Only two members of the company were absent, and the drill which the men were put through was one of the best ever seen at the armory. The roll of honor was read by Governor Chamberlain, and the 30 militia men stepped forward to receive the decorations. The governor made an address, in which he paid a high compliment to the Oregon National Guard, in general, and to Company M, in particular.

The men then returned to the ranks and were addressed by Adjutant-General Finzer, who urged the men to prepare themselves for the tournament to be held at Sea Girt, New Jersey, and expressed the hope that the local company would send more than two men to take part in this year's contest.

As soon as dismissed the militia men gave three rousing cheers for the visiting officers, who expressed themselves as particularly well pleased with Salem's contingent of the Oregon National Guard. The men decorated were as follows:

Expert Riflemen. Corporal U. S. Rider, Sergeant Ralph White.

Sharpshooter. Private Walter Pearmine.

Marksmen. Corporal Chester Abrams, Private Karl McReynolds, Private Roy Bailey, Private Clyde Rumbaugh, Sergeant R. M. Duncan, Lieutenant Carl Abrams, Private Archie Humphreys, Private Floyd McReynolds, Sergeant Earl J. Sperry, Private Clarence H. Roberts, Sergeant Lewis E. Judson, Private Herman Glenn, Captain Chas. A. Murphy, Private Herbert Nutter, Private Ernest Haas, Private Roscoe Shelton, Leroy C. Bullifson, Perry W. Jones, Lieutenant Richard W. Holman, Private Robert Judson, George W. Hiron, Frank Jory, Sergeant Fred Kress, Sergeant Harry H. Lucas, Private Hewitt, Corporal A. France, Musician R. D. Goodwin, Private Frank M. Mapes, Private Clyde Laughhead.

Is the Moon Inhabited? Science has proven that the moon has an atmosphere, which makes life in some form possible on that satellite; but not for human beings who have a hard enough time on this earth of ours; especially those who don't know that Electric Bitters cure headache, biliousness, malaria, chills and fever, jaundice, dyspepsia, dizziness, torpid liver, kidney complaints, general debility and female weakness. Unequaled as a general tonic and appetizer for weak persons, especially for the aged. It induces sound sleep. Fully guaranteed by J. C. Perry, Druggist. Price only 50c.

For the Elderly Home. A crew of men is employed getting the grounds in condition for the excavation to be made for the new Elk building. Some of the apple trees planted when Salem was in its infancy, and Mount Hood was a hole in the ground, are being cut down to make room for the stately home of the local herd.

X-RAYS

Virgil's fiery lake of Avernus was probably located on Vesuvius.

The two things that remain and abide with a man are a dog and a jag.

Might as well begin practicing on that sample ballot—you will need the education.

Even Ann Shaw would not be so anxious to vote, if she could see that sample blanket ballot.

It would hardly be classed as bad taste, when one thinks of the mass of cinders and ashes being vomited by Vesuvius, to say that the old volcano was just raising hell.

J. G. Kelley yesterday filed a claim on Marion lake. He wants the water for municipal, domestic and irrigating purposes. The lake does not belong to Vesuvius, to say that the old volcano was just raising hell.

Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Immediately relieves hoarse, croupy cough; oppressed, rattling, rasping and difficult breathing. Henry C. Stearns, druggist, Shullsburg, Wis., writes, May 20, 1902: "I have been selling Ballard's Horehound Syrup for two years, and have never had a preparation that has given better satisfaction. I notice that when I sell a bottle they come back for more. I can honestly recommend it." 25c, 50c and $1. Sold by D. J. Fry.

Donated $2000. President Coleman, at the first chapel gathering of the new term, which began yesterday, made the announcement of a gift of $2000 to the University. The name of the donor is withheld, but $1000 is to provide a loan fund for the needy and deserving students, while the other $1000 is to serve as a nucleus for the establishment of an electrical engineering department. It looks as though the attendance for the term would be much larger than that of a year ago.

During the Record Race.
The dark-goggled, leather-jacketed chauffeur lowered his head like a ram and chucked with glee.
"We are now going at 100 miles an hour!" he shrieked.
"Great heavens!" gasped the novice at his side. "Isn't there chance of an accident?"
"Fear not! Don't you see that we carry emergency tires?"
"I—I know, but I—I'd feel better if we had a few emergency arms and legs along."
But the chauffeur laughed demoniacally and turned the curve on one wheel.

A TERRIFIC HIT
San Francisco pays unusual tribute to the art of Creston Clarke in "Monsieur Beaucaire".
What one well-known critic says: "Creston Clarke's performance of 'Beaucaire' is only equaled by Mansfield's 'Beau Brummell.' He is the only other actor who can ever touch that old-fashioned comedy. He has the grace, the polish, the ease which made affectations of that society accomplishments. He has a repose which is rare among actors nowadays, and in this part his assumption of the French manner and speech is almost perfect. The audience last night was very enthusiastic. Mr. Clarke is reminiscent of Edwin Booth, with a pair of merry eyes, when his uncle had the melancholy. His voice is magnetic; his personality even more so. There is thought in the face, and no other actor has such persuasive power."
