SALEM GIVES GLADLY

Money and Food and All That Oregon's Capital Has She Offers

Willing Hands Aid in Work, Those Who "Asked for Bread" Got No Stone

The local relief committee is busy gathering up money and provisions, and the work is being pushed with great vigor. The list of subscriptions is given, as far as it is possible to get it, as several lists are still scattered in the hands of committeemen. It is now proposed to make the rounds again for a dollar donation from everybody who can give that much more. All are urged to bake more bread, as another carload will be shipped tomorrow.

The following dispatch was sent to General Funston this morning: "Notify San Francisco relief committee that the citizens of Salem, Oregon forwarded on train leaving here Friday evening one car potatoes, one car flour and one car containing provisions and bread. Another car of provisions and bread leaves tonight. Kindly wire me what is needed most."

"F. W. WATERS, Mayor Salem, Oregon." Nobody can get into San Francisco, and not even residents can go back after they have left. Mr. Ottenheimer has word that his people are all safe. Twenty-five people slept in his people's home at the Presidio last night.

All Worked Hard. John Gantenbein, the baker at Fuller & Douglas', had a strenuous day yesterday. The bakery ran at its full capacity, and nearly 1200 loaves of bread were turned out. Lloyd Hauser of Hauser Bros., who at one time was a baker, volunteered to assist Mr. Gantenbein, working for hours, and making this large output possible.

Hopman Killed in the Quake. Gus Donovan, the hopman, has received word from his brother C. C. Donovan, who left here Thursday for San Francisco, to look after relatives. The telegram was dated Sacramento, as it was as far as he could go: "Folks all well; Joseph Wood killed; Santa Rosa entirely demolished; have no news from folks in San Francisco; think they are safe." Mr. Wood was the firm's expert, and known to many here.

Aurora Is all Right. Aurora, Or., April 21.—Aurora's contribution to the San Francisco relief fund up to date is one carload of potatoes, that went from here last night; a carload of mixed provisions that go today, and $300 in money. Many people here had relatives in the stricken city, and much anxiety has been felt regarding their safety. More relief provisions are to follow.

The Chemawa Indian school volunteers to bake 650 loaves of bread every other day. The reform school will also bake all that its facilities will permit, and the penitentiary will supply 1000 loaves daily.

There is no limit to the amount of hams and all kinds of provisions coming from farmers and citizens generally. The committee is unable to thank all in person, but things are being done so generously that no such formality is to be expected.

Shaw Comes in, Too. W. H. Downing, of Shaw, arrived in the city this morning, and states that the people of his neighborhood are anxious to help the relief fund. Agent Houston promised him a car, and tomorrow the farmers of that locality will gather provisions for San Francisco. Arrangements have been made to have the car leave for California Monday. The contribution will consist of potatoes, prunes, hams, bacon, flour and other supplies.

Fishing Tackle Galore

We are speaking only to the man who finds pleasure in the woods and by the babbling brook—the fisherman.

HOW ABOUT THAT TACKLE?

WILL IT STAND THE STRAIN?

WHAT ABOUT THAT POLE?

Is it just the thing you want? If not, come in. We are showing the finest things in lines, poles, hooks, in fact everything to make the angler complete. Come in and look over our line before buying.

THE BICYCLE MAN

TRANSPLANTED STRIPED BASS.

California Waters Have Produced Some Remarkably Fine Specimens.

The capture of a 60 pound striped bass in the San Joaquin river near Bouldin island, emphasizes the great value of this transplanted food fish, as well as its remarkable growth, since the first fry imported from the east were released, as an experiment in California pisciculture, in the brackish waters of Suisun bay. Two shipments, aggregating 450 fish, were imported by the California fish commission in 879 and 1882. From this small beginning the great schools now inhabiting the salt and brackish waters in San Francisco and neighboring bays, and for a long distance along the coast north and south of the entrance to the Golden Gate, have sprung.

For some years after these importations were planted the taking of striped bass was wisely prohibited. And when it became lawful to take them it was provided that none under one pound weight should be taken. This provision assured the perpetual propagation of the species. Striped bass is, therefore, almost, if not quite, as plentiful now as the transplanted Eastern shad has become, and it constitutes an item in the fish food supply of the state as valuable, probably, as salmon.

In the light of the development of food and striped bass in the tidal waters of this state, which are free and accessible to everybody, and the fact that the angling clubs are endeavoring to convert the trout streams of the state into private preserves, it would seem to be good policy to devote the state and federal hatcheries to the propagation of only migratory food fishes and those which inhabit the navigable waters, from which the public cannot be excluded under any pretense. If the sportsmen's clubs can monopolize the trout streams and exclude the public from them, it is obviously the height of folly to devote the public funds to the propagation of trout to keep up the stock in the streams for the benefit of a few gentlemen of means and ample leisure. We do not anticipate, however, that these organizations will succeed in accomplishing their selfish object, for there are signs of indignant public awakening to defend its rights. The people of Santa Cruz are already organizing to resist the attempt to close the trout streams and to make preserves of striped bass fishing grounds in that county.

Health is Youth.
Disease and Sickness Bring Old Age.
Herbina, taken every morning before breakfast, will keep you in robust health, fit you to ward off disease. It cures constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, fever skin, liver and kidney complaints. It purifies the blood and clears the complexion.

Mrs. W. D. Smith, Whitney, Tex., writes April 3, 1902: "I have used Herbina, and find it the best medicine for constipation and liver troubles. It does all you claim for it. I can highly recommend it." 50c. Sold by D. J. Fry.

Ran Over a Cat.
Redd—I ran over a cat with my automobile today.
Greene—Didn't kill it, of course.
Redd—No. I thought it was dead. It was very still after the wheels had passed over it, but as soon as I blew my horn it got frightened and got up and ran away.—Yonkers Statesman.

A Brute.
Doctor—Yes, ma'am, I simply adore January. One can eat bonbons then.
Doctor—Why, doctor, I didn't know you had a sweet tooth.
Doctor (chuckling)—Nor have I. It's the other fellows' indigestion I like so well.—Translated for Tales from La Sans Gene.

Her Way.
"When a young man tries to kiss you, you should give him a good smack on the ear."
"Charlie tried it last evening, mamma, and I gave him a good smack on the mouth; at least, I think it was a good one, because he teased me for another."—Houston Post.
