THE BANK HABIT.

Possibly you who read this have never kept a bank account. If not, let us suggest that you try the experiment. You will find it helpful in many ways. Aside from the fact that your money will be safe from theft and fire, such a habit tends to thrift, economy, discipline, and a general understanding of business principles, all of which are essential to success. It also affords a convenient method for the payment of bills; and, as the checks are always preserved and returned to you, they serve as receipts for the amounts paid.

Sometimes a man wins when he loses.

Bourne will be a bitter pill to the grafters.

Out of 280 votes registered at North Bend 122 were in evidence at the primary. What will the silent vote do in June?

A good loser never loses. More men make fools of themselves when they win in politics than act wisely when they lose.

'Frisco will become the Mecca of men in the building trades. Even common laborers will do well there when rebuilding begins—say a month hence.

The church vote has learned how to concentrate. Look out for the church vote. N. B.—A number of prominent has-beens will now become devout church-goers.

Joseph Meyers, whose old wooden building on Court street was damaged by fire the other day, has the proper conception of civic pride, as he says no such building should be repaired, by consent of the council or otherwise.

Roseburg Review: The people of Douglas county, irrespective of party, are glad that Frank Benson won the Republican nomination for secretary of state. It was a close shave, but to win at all, considering his location in the state and that of his principal opponent was itself a big victory.

It is all very easy for one to say after the votes are counted: "It is just as I predicted and expected all the time," but the only person in this state who dared to predict the result of the state Republican primary ticket, in public print, three weeks before election, was Albert Tozier, secretary of the Oregon Press Association. This prediction was published: Senator, Bourne, with Cake a close second; congressman, first district, Hawley, with Tozier second; second district, Ellis, with Shepard second; governor, Withycombe, with Geer second, secretary Gatch, with Benson close second doubtful; treasurer, Steel, with Hoyt a close second; labor commissioner, Hoff; school superintendent, Ackerman; supreme judge, Eakin.

THINGS COMING OUR WAY.

Smith's Daring Escapades Rival Dime Novel Heroes.

Frank Smith's escapades, before and after leaving the city jail at Portland without notice, would make material for a dime novel. Sunday morning he robbed the postoffice and store at Troutdale. Sunday he was arrested by Detectives Snow and Resing. Monday he escaped from custody. Tuesday morning he robbed a jewelry store at Oregon City; shot and killed Policeman Hanlon, who tried to capture him, and made his escape. Poses from Oregon City searched all day Tuesday and failed to capture him. Yesterday he broke into the postoffice and store at Canby, stole provisions and razors, and again escaped. Two posers are now after him.

Elks, Attention!

Initiation of Yamhill delegation tonight. Big time. Plenty of "chop suey and tea."

Spend It in the Wards.

As the primary election is now over there will begin the collection of poll-tax in the various wards of the city. The money thus collected should be expended in the various wards of the city for street improvements, and should not be dumped into the general fund, and then be doled out by the city council. The street commissioner should be authorized to expend it in the various wards, and the wards should have the benefit of exactly what they pay in the way of poll tax or street tax or county poll tax, and then the people there would feel more like paying.

THE JENNINGS TRIAL.

Second Trial of Dora Jennings on Charge of Murdering Her Father.

On Wednesday last, after much difficulty, a jury was secured for the trial of Dora Jennings. The first panel, after five jurors had been chosen, was discharged by Judge Hanna, and an order was issued for the calling of a venire of 50. These were summoned on Tuesday, and on Wednesday the full complement of the trial jury was made up. It is composed as follows:

J. B. Barnett, Alex. George, C. L. Epperly, W. F. Grimmer, Roy Craig, Samuel Alderson, Joseph Conner, L. W. Carson, T. Mott, J. F. Sparlin, J. B. White and M. W. Gates.

When the selection of the jury was completed Judge Hanna adjourned the court till Monday, the jury visiting Granite Hill on Thursday to view the scene of the murder, and, Friday being election day, and therefore a holiday.

Court resumed on Monday. The case of Dora Jennings was taken up, and is still in progress. The evidence is practically the same as at the former trial, and it is expected that it will be completed by tomorrow night.—Oregon Observer.

Industrial Education in Belgium.

In no country in the world does the government attach more importance to the industrial and professional education of its people than in Belgium. While some of the industrial and professional institutions are maintained by the grace of the central government, the majority are subsidized by the provincial or communal administrations. The city of Liege supports one large industrial school and nine professional schools.

The industrial school is one of the best in Belgium, and has at present an attendance of 650 pupils. Many of the graduates have become noted in the industrial world.

The professional schools include one for tailors, where the lectures and practical work of a tailor are taught in conjunction are free. The course is five years. The school of horticulture is free, with a course of three years.

The commercial and consular high school is intended to offer an advanced education, both theoretical and practical, and is open to those contemplating the profession of banking, commerce, industry or a consular career. The government usually drafts from the graduates the young men wanted in the various consulates throughout the world, where they remain without compensation during a preliminary prescribed period.

The firearm school was established in 1897, and like the other schools the applicant for admission must have had a primary education. Every detail from the stock making to the barrel is taught, and the boys must pass an apprenticeship in every branch of the gun making industry. The lectures include both the theory and practical information of firearm making.

The remaining schools embrace tanning, house painting, mechanics plumbing and carpenter work. The mechanical school includes the study of political economy, hygiene, arithmetic, geometry, drawing (mechanical), physics, chemistry, mechanics, wood and iron work, bicycle and automobile making.

Plumbing is the only school in which an entrance fee is demanded.—Consul McNally of Liege.

Official Conscientiousness.

Ababu in charge of the documents of a certain town in India found that they were being seriously damaged by rats. He wrote to the government to provide him weekly rations for two cats to destroy the rats. The request was granted and the two cats were installed—one, the larger of the two, receiving slightly better rations than the other. All went well for a few weeks when the supreme government of India received the following dispatch: "I have the honor to inform you that the senior cat is absent without leave. What shall I do?"

This problem seemed to baffle the supreme government, for the babu received no answer. After waiting a few days he sent off a proposal: "In re Absentee Cat. I propose to promote the junior cat, and in the meantime to take into government service a probationer cat on full rations."—The Argonaut.

Practice Pops.

He—Miss de Jones—Clara—I never loved any one but you. Will you be my wife?

She—But I've been told that you proposed to four girls within a month.

He—True, darling, but I did it merely for practice, so that I wouldn't blunder in proposing to you.—Tit-Bits

NINE HUNDRED KEPT

New York, April 26.—A resume just made of the work of foreign missions carried on by the Presbyterian church in the United States, north, shows that the board is maintaining about 900 missionaries in sixteen different countries, besides 2500 native helpers in the various fields. There are close to 60,000 native Christians under its supervision, representing some 200,000 adherents.

The board also maintains 932 schools and colleges, 110 hospitals and dispensaries in which were treated last year 423,019 patients. In addition to these there are eight printing establishments which are turning out in the neighborhood of 125,000,000 pages of printed matter a year.

With the exception of the Church Missionary Society of England, the Presbyterian board has had committed to it the largest work among Protestant missions in the world. The cost of administration of this work is less than 5 per cent.

Regarding the financial support of this great work it may be said that during this year contributions from the home churches have steadily increased, but the success of the missionaries abroad has been so remarkable that the work on the field has gone beyond the income of the board, and this in spite of the fact that no money whatever has been appropriated for new property or buildings, excepting such amounts as have been given to the board especially designated for that purpose.

Unless some $240,000 are received between this date and May 1 the board will be obliged to close its fiscal year with a deficit of between five and ten thousand dollars, and this in spite of having refused earnest appeals from the field which have constantly come in for further extension of the work. Such a deficit is exceedingly undesirable, but in view of operations involving an expenditure of a million and a quarter dollars, such a small deficit is evidence of great care and restraint in management. In addition to the sum mentioned, the board is sending out an appeal for $40,000 to take care of a deficit of the last two years.

BROWN'S EXAMPLE.

"There," said Brown, with a shake of his head,

"I've painted the houses and the barn and the shed!"

The fence has been fixed and the lawn's been mowed,

But I do wish the town would fix up the road.

It's a shame, I call it, just plain and flat,

That we have to drive over roads like that!

I'll wait no longer, I'll start today

And fix my part of it anyway."

Now Brown was one of those fellows who,

When they start a thing, just rush it through.

And a week or two after as Neighbor Jones

Was driving home with his pair of roans,

Brown's road was dry, while his own, next door,

Was mud to the the depth of a foot or more.

"By George," said Jones, "I'll let Brown see

That I can build roads as well as he!"

Now, Neighbor Smith, who lived below,

Saw Jones repairing his road and so

He fixed his, to be "in the game,"

And Neighbor Robinson did the same.

And soon every householder in town

Was trying his best to "beat out Brown."

And now, when the town committee meets

It has caused more laughs and dried more tears,

Wiped away diseases and driven away more fevers than any other medicine in the world.

AFTER THE POOR HEATHEN

New York, April 26.—The revivals which have stirred some of the cities in the past year or two, which is now stirring the city of Philadelphia, is matched by similar missions on the foreign missions. Among these is a revival in Yang, Korea. These meetings held during the Korean holidays in the four Presbyterian churches in the city nearly 1200 persons declared their intentions to be Christians. Principal meetings were held in the evenings, and there were classes workers in the afternoons, and a house visitation was made all by native helpers. In this connection it may be said that while missions sent out by the Presbyterian Board were at the meetings, the preaching was done almost wholly by native Korean leaders.

At the same time as the revival in the Korean city there were meetings in the country round about with the result that at Nong Kung the church of thirty people has grown to 130. At Ko Chang a group of 150 has grown to 200. At Morak a congregation of 150 has grown to 200. Similar increase of numbers is reported from scores of places. An interesting phase of the Korean revival is the fact that many natives are doing days' work to the cause instead of money. These days are spent in house work.

Baseball.

The grammar school baseball team organized a week or so ago, arranged a schedule of games for the first and second teams. It is the intention to present a pennant to the winner either class that will make the average in their series of games scheduled. Each member of the team will be charged a fee of 10 cents, to defray any expenses that may arise during the season. The games are to be played on the Woolen Mills grounds, the Yew Park flat and the New school grounds. The last game of the series will be played between the New school and the Lincoln schools, and the first teams June 7th, and the contest among the second teams will be played June 5th between the New school and Lincoln schools.

Members of the league will be required to keep their school work above the average, and swearing and vulgar talk will not be permitted to be indulged in by the players.

Y. M. C. A. Swimming Pool.

The interest in the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool continues unabated. Yesterday contributions amounting to $127 were received, and an effort is being made to raise the remainder, $400, during the coming week.

Company Is Generous.

The Spaulding lumber mills of this city today sent to San Francisco a carload of mixed lumber. Two carloads of lumber were also sent from the mill at Newberg. This will doubtless prove one of the appreciated gifts sent from Oregon.

The Gardiner Gazette has this: Guaranteed forest reserve script for sale in large or small quantities, by Frank E. Alley, up-stairs over land office, Roseburg, Oregon.

Maybe it is all right, but opening an office for the collection of taxes in Oakland looks to a man up this way like rubbing it in.

Medical College Closed.

The Medical College closed its work for the present school year today, with one of the stiffest examinations ever put before embryo physicians, as the boys who had to answer the questions.
