Last day for filing certificates of nomination May 5.

General election June 4.

MONEY FOR THE WARDS.

The poll tax collected should be expended in the wards where it is paid.

The outlying wards especially HAVE RECEIVED VERY LITTLE IN THE WAY OF IMPROVEMENTS.

If the poll tax collected in each of them is expended there some good work can be done.

The city council should see to it that the money collected from each ward is expended there.

Beyond a few lights, the outside wards have got very little for the taxes paid.

THIS IS A PRINCIPLE OF TAXATION THAT SHOULD BE MORE OBSERVED IN CITY AND COUNTY MATTERS.

Road supervisors should be elected by the people in the precinct they are to serve.

All the money collected in a precinct or ward for roads and highways should be spent there.

HOW TO EMPLOY IDLE LABOR.

If there is going to be any idle labor it could be well expended on public highways.

The prospects are that California refugees will be absorbed by the ordinary industries.

The way everything is growing in the hop yards, THERE IS GOING TO BE THOUSANDS OF HANDS NEEDED.

But if there be idle and unemployed laborers, the city and county should give them employment.

Building highways in city and county is the greatest source of beneficial employment.

It would benefit the country and benefit the city and town that employs these laborers.

THERE SHOULD NOT BE AN UNEMPLOYED MAN WANDERING ABOUT THE COUNTRY SO LONG AS THERE IS WORK TO DO.

If fifty men are idle there is a positive loss to the men and the community and to public morals.

MR. TOOZE IS GRATEFUL.

(Eugene Register.)

Lane county friends of Walter Tooze have reason to feel gratified at the wonderful campaign he made against great odds. In reality, Tooze was the people's candidate, and stood for every thing which the people have been hungering for all these years. Had he obtained the nomination, he would have been rewarded, as was his due, for the many years of loyalty to the Republican party. In a letter to the Register, Mr. Tooze desires to have us thank all his loyal friends for their support and to assure them their friendship for his campaign is deeply appreciated.

Mr. Tooze was the first in the field of defeated candidates to offer congratulations to his successful opponent and assured him of loyal support and help in the campaign. Actions of this sort are the best index of a man's character, and Mr. Tooze has lost no friends in Oregon by his promptness in acknowledging defeat and declaring his fealty.

The first lesson a man learns when he enrolls in the school which qualifies for success is to put by a part of his earnings every week.

The truest friend in the times of adversity is the bank account, and the surest foundation upon which to build a fortune, is the accumulated savings of months and years.

The habit of putting away money is reflex in its action. The money in itself is a valuable accessory, and the quality of mind and character developed through this habit makes for ultimate success.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his muscles would soon fail. Physical strength is derived from food. If a man has insufficient food he loses strength. If he has no food he dies. Food is converted into nutrition through the stomach and bowels. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food eaten is digested and assimilated. People can die of starvation who have abundant food to eat, when the stomach and its associate organs of digestion and nutrition do not perform their duty. Thus the stomach is really the vital organ of the body. If the stomach is "weak" the body will be weak also, because it is upon the stomach the body relies for its strength. And as the body, considered as a whole, is made up of its several members and organs, so the weakness of the body as a consequence of "weak" stomach will be distributed among the organs which compose the body. If the body is weak because it is ill-nourished that physical weakness will be found in all the organs—heart, liver, kidneys, etc. The liver will be torpid and inactive, giving rise to biliousness, loss of appetite, weak nerves, feeble or irregular action of heart, palpitation, dizziness, headache, backache and kidney disturbances and weaknesses.

Mr. Louis Pare of Quebec, writes: "For years after my health began to fail, my head grew dizzy, eyes pained me, and my stomach was sore all the time, while everything I would eat would seem to lie heavy like lead on my stomach. The doctors claimed that it was sympathetic trouble due to dyspepsia, and prescribed for me, and although I took their powders regularly yet I felt no better. My wife advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—and stop taking the doctor's medicine. She bought me a bottle and we soon found that I began to improve, so I kept up the treatment. I took on flesh, my stomach became normal, the digestive organs worked perfectly and I soon began to look like a different person. I can never cease to be grateful for what your medicine has done for me and I certainly give it highest praise."

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good."

AN "IMMUNITY BATH" ECHO.

President Roosevelt hit the nail squarely on the head when declaring in his message to congress that Judge Humphrey's decision in the "beef trust" case "came measurably near making the law a farce." In all the trials of late years there has never been a more marked miscarriage of justice than that decision, because it established a precedent by which prosecution of trust corporations are perpetually barred unless congress clears up the situation. The president makes his point plain in the following paragraph:

"But Judge Humphrey holds that if the commissioner of corporations (and therefore if the interstate commerce commission) in the course of any investigations prescribed by congress, asks any questions of a person, not called as a witness, or asks any questions of an officer of a corporation not called as a witness, with regard to the action of the corporation on a subject of which prosecutions may subsequently arise, then the fact of such questions having been asked operates as a bar to the prosecution of that person or of that officer of the corporation for his own misdeeds. Such interpretation of the law comes measurably near making the law a farce, and I therefore recommend that the congress pass a declaratory act stating its real intention."

NEW FRENCH PRESIDENT.

Armand Fallieres went through the local schools with no credit, and was sent up to Paris to study law. A year of jolly idleness in the Latin quarter failed to get him through his examinations and he went back to the south. A few years later he was admitted to the bar at Toulouse; but the old father predicted: "He will never amount to anything." A few local cases in which he pleaded showed that he had a kind of eloquence, and the politicians took him up. From the fall of the Second Empire he went steadily up in the republican hierarchy; mayor of Nérac, deputy, minister, senator, his advance was uninterrupted; when Monsieur Loubet became president, he succeeded to the presidency of the senate. His entrance to the Elysee was the logical conclusion of a career which has not been without a kind of plain usefulness. This good natured, corpulent old man, with love for a good dinner and the wine of Lorraine, with his Gascon stories, and loud roaring laughter, is a type of much that is good in French public life. That kind of a man never runs the risk of getting himself burned as a martyr or hated as a reformer; and his concession to political necessity are not liable to be of a bad sort. He brings into politics the same friendly give-and-take that makes him beloved by his neighbors. Down in Gascony, Monsieur Fallieres lives in Loupillon, the house built by his father. There, dressed like a peasant, he comes and goes among his vines. His door is always open, his tables always set. It is a large and patriarchal life. A dozen or a score of his neighbors may come casually to the midday meal. There is always room. And the repasts are always ample; two or three meats, a roast turkey, Gascon pies or cakes, the wine from his vineyard. It is life raised to the ninth power of simple enjoyment, broad in comfort and good fellowship. In Paris he lives the same way. For the last seven years he has inhabited the Luxembourg, by right of his presidency in the senate. Any morning of all these years you might have met him in the streets, for he combats his obesity by long walks. At eight o'clock it has been his custom to set out for the Luxembourg, an umbrella under his arm, an old felt hat on his head, his antique "polka-dot" scarf floating under his chin; at a smart little pace he marched away to the Arc de Triomphe or the Parc Montsouris and back again—weighing quite as much as ever, and with an appetite that promised more weight.—Vance Thompson in Everybody's Magazine for May.

THE TRUE METHOD OF ENJOYMENT.

There are many better ways of devoting one's efforts than in a struggle for wealth. Any pursuit that abnormally develops a passion for greed must necessarily prove disappointing and harmful. The glutton invariably falls a victim to his appetite. A criminal sooner or later comes to grief because of his own indiscretions. A drunkard loses control of himself and dies from the effects of his excesses. This same line of reasoning applies to money mad men of wealth. Their greed for riches in time changes to an uncontrollable passion, and then they become selfish miserly, money maniacs.

The true enjoyment of life is found in an endeavor to do good in the world. First, it is essential that a person should try to be good, and then work of scattering sunshine is easy. Grabbing money may have its allurements, but they are as nothing as compared to the contentment good deeds bring to those who do them. A ceaseless struggle after wealth puts a life of good deeds beyond the reach of rich people. They have neither the sympathy nor the training to help those in need, and the only method open to their narrow view of philanthropy is to build churches, colleges and libraries with their money.

WOODEN STRUCTURES PASSING.

Structures of any architectural design to be erected, so to speak, in a day, and ready in a few hours for the installation of the plumbing and heating apparatus, and to be much cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter than anything now known, and to cost but a tenth of what anything of like accommodation costs now, is the sample program announced by Thomas A. Edison. It's not a secret. It is to be accomplished with concrete cement and movable molds. Easy as pouring pancakes into a griddle. Mr. Edison is the inventor of a new kind of cement, and has established works in Jersey, where that cement is being made according to his formula and sold like

WENT ON CRUTCHES

UNTIL DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS CURED HIS RHEUMATISM.

A Printer Tells of the Accidental Way In Which He Learned of the Remedy That He Praises.

"Some years ago," says Mr. W. H. Clark, a printer, living at 612 Buchanan street, Topeka, Kan., "I had a bad attack of rheumatism and could not seem to get over it. All sorts of medicines failed to do me any good and my trouble kept getting worse. My feet were so swollen that I could not wear shoes and I had to go on crutches. The pain was terrible."

"One day I was setting the type of an article for the paper telling what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done for a man afflicted as I was, and I was so impressed with it that I determined to give the medicine a trial. For a year my rheumatism had been growing worse, but after taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I began to improve. The pain and swelling all disappeared and I can truthfully say that I haven't felt better in the past 20 years than I do right now. I could name, off hand, a half dozen people who have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at my suggestion and who have received good results from them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism because they make rich, red blood and no man or woman can have healthy blood and rheumatism at the same time. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood and to cure it you must treat it in the blood. Every part and every tissue of the body is dependent on the blood for health. That is why they have cured so many cases of anæmia, neuralgia, sciatica, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia and other diseases that have not yielded to ordinary treatment.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

A GOOD NIGHT'S REST

"Speak for it" she cried to doggie. For she knew in her little heart, That German Syrup, home's great treasure, Could health and joy impart.

QThe greatest tonic on earth is a good night's rest. Restless nights and the terrible exhaustion of a hacking cough are dread dangers of the poor consumptive. QBut why this fear of the night, when a few doses of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup will insure refreshing sleep, entirely free from cough or night sweat? Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by taking German Syrup. QWe know by the experience of over thirty-five years that one 75-cent bottle of German Syrup will speedily relieve or cure the worst coughs, colds, bronchial or lung troubles—and that, even in bad cases of consumption, one large bottle of German Syrup will work wonders. QTwo sizes, 25c and 75c. All druggists Sold in Salem by S. C. Stone.

the proverbial hot cakes referred to. He isn't booming the sale of the cement to any appreciable degree, because it is selling now faster than it can be made. But on the subject of cement houses he is full of enthusiasm and wants somebody to get at it quick being himself too busy with other things.

In effect, Mr. Edison asserts that a series of movable, interchangeable molds for houses of varying designs and all the paraphernalia for using it, would be easily within the compass of a corporation or firm with a capital of $100,000. From these molds, and with semifluid concrete made with cement and poured into the molds, houses could be built within a few hours ready to have all the windows, heating pipes and water and illuminating fixtures put in place. A day would be ample time, economically utilized. And as to the cost, in this estimation $350 would be sufficient to build a good, artistic, comfortable little house of seven rooms. Another feature which he incidentally mentions is that such a house simply could not burn, would not require repairs, as walls, floors, stairs, roof, cellar, and, in short, everything but the doors and windows, would be of cement. In point of beauty, such a structure would be as readily of artistic design as any other. In durability it would literally defy the gnawing tooth of time.

"Just say for me, says Mr. Edison, that I have tried it and know it will work, and that I would do it myself as a business if I had the time, which I haven't. I've been working all day and all night, a few odd hours excepted, for 40 years, and I can't begin to get through with my own work. But such houses as I have outlined would unquestionably be the very thing for the man earning small pay. The rich man might at first look askance at such houses, but the time will come when they will live in them too. I will see this innovation a commonplace fact, even though I am in my 60th year, for I ought, accidents barred, to live 20 years more, at least, and inside of 10 years you will be living in a cement house."

Extraordinary Fix.

"Good morning, Mr. Ryetop," greeted the clerk in the big city hotel. "I hope you enjoyed that old Scotch I left in your room while you were out."

"It was pretty fair," drawled Farmer Ryetop, rubbing his parched lips, "but, by gum, that thar siphon you sent up had the strongest stream of fizz water I ever tackled. Why, I went to make one of these here high-balls an' the blamed thing came near blowin' me through the window."

The clerk looked puzzled. "Siphon? Why, I didn't send up any siphon."

"Yes, you did. It was red and bound with brass bands."

"Great Scott! Why, that was the automatic fire extinguisher."—Columbus Dispatch.
