REPUB'S RALLY TONIGHT

Mayor Fank Waters returned this Reception at Hotel Willamette to the Candidates

Reception committees of the Republican organizations meet at the Hotel Willamette at 7:30 this evening, to extend welcome to the state candidates. Tonight the state candidates of the Miss Barbara Eakin is home from Republican party will speak at Salem. where a grand rally has been arranged for, the large armory having been secured for the meeting. The hall has been decorated for the event, and the quartet and other musical numbers. The Republican clubs of the city will form and march to the principal hotel before the meeting there to meet the candidates and speakers, marching thence through the streets to the hall, headed by a band.

At the hall ex-Governor T. T. Geer, one of the best campaign speakers in the state, will preside and deliver the opening address, and Dr. James Withycombe, candidate for governor, will be the principal speaker, with other candidates following him. The Salem Republicans will make the event one worthy of the party they represent, and the caulidates will be given a most cordial reception in the capital of the state. Ladies especially invited.

Thursday night a great rally will be held in Oregon City, where the people of Clackamas county will gather in large numbers. Some of the principal turned this morning from a visit at state candidates will be present and address the people. The principal address of the evening will be delivered

Is This Heresy?

"The trial of Rev. Algeron S. Crapsey, of Rochester, N. Y., on the charge of heresy, has just been concluded and the defendant still preaches the philosophy which brought this charge against him. The crime against this preacher is charged from the following doctrine to which Rev. Crapsey steadfastly clings:

"The story of the resurrection of Jesus Christ is not history. It is tra- his trial is creating to line a dition merely. The reports of it in the gospel are unreliable. Rev. Crapsey is not the first to advocate such theories, for John Fiske, a valuable professor in Harvard university for many years, devoted a great deal of his time to expounding what he termed the fallacies and inconsistencies of the divinity of Christ. This was based upon material reasoning and the fact that the books of the apostles were not written until many years after the death of Christ, Matthew, the first book, was written some twenty-five years after the events described had happened and the Gospel of St. Paul was a century or two later

During the christian era whenever free thought has been allowed there have always been men who scouted the idea of the divinity of Christ, but oppression always silenced their tengues and pens and it was not until the pres ent era of free thought opened up that the philosophy gained any stronghold in the civilized world. The great German philosophers and thinkers were the first to oppose the accepted miracle and although going to extremes they opened the way for the more careful writers of the Darwin type. The Unitarian church was founded and many schools of philosophy sprung up. This frightened the orthodox churches and a rigid rule of heresy was adopted, al though it had always been on the book of laws of the churches but never very
