

LAW SMITH REWARD

Harry Draper Gets $750, and Remainder Is Appor- tioned Among 36 Others

Judge J. H. Scott and Sheriff Culver, of Marion county, together with the county court of Clackamas county and the council of Oregon City, this morning apportioned the rewards offered for the capture of the desperado, Frank Smith. A total of $1500 was offered and of this amount Harry Draper, who, with his bloodhounds, tracked Smith to his death near New Era, was given $750. J. M. Culver, George Morden and Andy Vaughn, the three officers who accompanied Draper to the place where Smith was concealed, each received $50, and the balance of $600 is divided equally among the following:

Mrs. Bratten, of Canby; Harry Minton, of Salem; John Doe, of Woodburn; —, Smith, of Woodburn; Frank Snow, of Portland; Sam Downey, of Portland; John Cordano, of Portland; J. K. Graham, of Canby; J. P. Deyoe, of Canby; Charles E. Burns, Charles Ely, J. H. Slattery, William May, J. K. Morris, R. Forsberg, E. C. Hackett, C. Cross, Jack Jones, Ed. Rechner, H. Cook, D. C. Boyles, C. A. Frost, Gus Winsett, Frank Hendricks, H. W. Trembath, T. P. Ryan, all of Oregon City; J. H. Reid, of Milwaukie; David McArthur, David McArthur, Jr., G. P. McNamee, Staul M. Crimp, Bert Willard and L. Ferguson, of New Era.

Frank Smith, the outlaw and triple murderer is dead. That he was killed within a few miles of the spot where he began his career of crime, seems a fitting retribution. He was shot a quarter-mile south of New Era station by Harry Draper, humane officer of Spokane, at 11:10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Clackamas county has a right to feel proud of the part her citizens have taken in bringing to an end the life of this desperate man. A more desperate courage was never shown on the battlefield than that displayed by Canby and Oregon City men at New Era Tuesday morning. Had Smith chosen to do so he could have killed a dozen of these men before giving up his own life. The posse did not underestimate the danger they were facing and every man in the party expected to receive a bullet from Smith's murderous weapon any moment.

For hours before Smith was taken many of his pursuers stood within 20 feet of his hiding place. He heard all their conversation and could have fired a dozen bullets into them if he had wanted to. It is fortunate that none of the posse were killed. A desperate plan to charge on the desperado in his hiding place had been outlined before the bloodhounds arrived and only the counsel of cooler heads prevented the carrying out of this daring piece of work.

"Let the dogs into the brush first," advised a member of the party, "a dog's life isn't as dear as a man's." "That's right," said another with a laugh, "dogs are more easily propagated than men, and dogs are easier to raise."

These remarks were made not more than 25 feet from Smith and could have been heard many times that distance.

When Harry Draper arrived with the bloodhounds the work was soon completed. District Fruit Inspector J. H. Reid of Milwaukie was one of the party who saw the identical spot where Smith slipped into the brush and he put Draper and his dogs on the trail.

Bank Money Orders

Make the best form of remittances—better than postoffice or express money orders. They cost less. You don't have to fill out a complicated "application blank." If a Bank Money Order is lost or stolen you get your money back without trouble, red tape or tedious delay. Another thing: If the party you send your money to claims he did not receive it, you can come to the bank and get the records and documents to prove that you sent it. A $100 bank money order costs 10 cents—just half as much as post-office or express orders.

Draper held his dogs in leash until they reached the desperado. "Throw up your hands!" Draper shouted. "Is this Smith?" he then asked quickly. "Yes," went the revolver. "Bang!"

"We've got him!" Draper shouted, and fired another shot into the air. It is not thought that Smith made any attempt to resist. Draper says Smith started to pull his gun, but the writer was standing over the dying man five seconds after he was shot and his revolver was still in his pocket. His pockets were then searched and five or six razors (stolen from the Canby postoffice), a small pocket mirror, a cheap metal badge or keytag, two cheap finger rings and 16 cartridges and an Ingersoll dollar watch, were the amount of his possessions. These articles were taken by Judge Ryan of Oregon City.

Many people believe that Smith could have been taken alive, in view of the fact that he had not pulled his gun when the bloodhounds reached him. Two things are certain: Smith had either decided to meet his fate with-out resistance or he was so badly stunned by dynamite that he was unable to use his gun. However, Harry Draper, who went into the jungles after him, didn't know this, and expected to be fired on by Smith any moment. That Draper is as brave a man as ever entered a jungle cannot be denied and to him belongs the credit for the shot that ended Smith's career of crime.

Section Foreman Hutchinson of Canby and all the section hands did valiant service in holding Smith at bay and watching his movement while the armed posse was assembling. Those who went from Canby to the scene of action immediately after they learned Smith was there were J. F. Deyoe, W. L. Jones and George W. Dixon. Harry Bair and George Meeks came down on the local and joined the posse. Others did just as good work by telephoning the information that Smith was cornered. The people of Canby think Mrs. Batten should have part of the reward money because she was the first to notify the authorities that Smith was in the community. Had it not been for her work the outlaw might not have been killed so easily as he was. An effort is being made at Canby to get some substantial recognition for Mrs. Batten.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Bouts, postmaster at Riverton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters, which cured me and have kept me well for 11 years." Superintendent Campbell will be here this afternoon to arrange, if possible, a game of baseball between the Chemawa team and the Washington State College boys. THIRTY MILLION SENT

Under date of May 5th, Clewes & Company says:

A fresh wave of liquidation of almost cyclonic proportions struck Wall street this week. Conditions were more or less unsettled by the San Francisco disaster, and the opportunity was seized to enforce some rather drastic liquidation, which fell chiefly upon a few prominent and rather too optimistic operators. The last decline in the market resulted in a drop of from 10 to 50 points in many of the active shares, inflicting severe losses in quarters which were fortunately able to stand them. In spite of this rather unusual break there are no rumors of serious trouble at this writing, and the financial atmosphere appears to have been much cleared now that the storm has spent its worst force. As has been repeatedly intimated in these advices; it was the monetary situation which furnished the instrument of power for the bears. Had it not been for the large demands of San Francisco upon an already overtaxed money market no such enforced decline would have been possible. Fortunately, we were able to secure material assistance from abroad and thus mitigate the force of the blow. Some $30,000,000 of money has been remitted to San Francisco, and over $40,000,000 of gold has been ordered from Europe, being made immediately available through Secretary Shaw's leniency in depositing treasury gold in return for bonds as collateral. Much of the money sent to San Francisco to strengthen local banks and prevent panic will soon return into the customary channels of circulation, so no further serious difficulty need be apprehended from Pacific Coast monetary demands, although this catastrophe will be a factor for some time to come.

HOPS ARE TO BE LIVELY

There is one phase of the hop market which is mystifying the veterans of the business, and that is the sudden disappearance of the 1905 crop.

According to the reports of experts it appears to have gone out of sight as if by magic. Quite a quantity of hops were burned by the big fire in San Francisco, but that does not in any adequate way account for the shortage that is now alleged to exist in the open market.

One way of accounting for the present small stocks in the hands of growers and dealers is that consumers took advantage of the low rates ruling during the last few months and bought heavily—storing stocks sufficiently to do them for several months ahead.

This is particularly true of the Pacific coast, and to some extent is duplicated in the east.

England is currently reported to be supplied until next September and some sections even beyond.

It is declared by those who have investigated that the consumption of hops in the United States has immensely increased within the past year and this fact has much to do with the cleaning up of the 1905 crop so far as the open market is concerned. One reason for the increased consumption is that, when hops are cheap fewer substitutes are used and the genuine material has the preference. The result is to soon clear the visible supply, and figures naturally tend upward. The open winter back east and the early spring have wonderfully stimulated the beer making business.

White growers of California are looking hopefully to the future some of the conservative men in the business deem it wise to take a look at the situation as it may develop before the next selling season opens.

It is found that the roots in the Sacramento valley wintered well, and present indications are for a full crop. There has been no plowing out of vines, and the output probably will be as great as last year. As seen in a recent review of the situation the product of the United States may reach 350,000 bales, and in that event prices may again be kept down by the manipulators, as was the case last year.

One thing that brightens the local situation is the certainty that the crop hereabouts will be large. All the circumstances go to this conclusion, and even if prices are not high the hop raisers of this community can make a living, with a profit in sight if prices can be held a trifle higher than the latest quotations.

Do You Want to Know What You Swallow?

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of MEDICINES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicines, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has "taken time by the forelock," as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery," the popular liver invigorator, stomach tonic, blood purifier and heart regulator; also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and out-spoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is mailed free to any one desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native, medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules. They regulate and invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. Do not "beat" the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor.

Salem School Notes.

Tomorrow is "Parents' Day" at the North school. A cordial invitation is extended to all the patrons, to all the friends of the school and to teachers to visit the respective departments, and see the pupils at work on the regular daily work in every grade represented in the school. The North school is one of the leading schools in the city school system. The school has never made a better showing of systematic and strong school work in every line than it is doing now.

There will be no elaborate program for the visitors—simply the daily work. In this work the methods of teaching, management of class recitations, plans of government, the discipline maintained in school and on the playgrounds will appear as a visitor will find on any day at school.

There will be public exercises at the North school on Friday, May 25th, on which day the school will be honored by a visit of a committee of the G. A. R. "Patriotism" will be the theme of the talks made by the visiting committee of the G. A. R. on that day.

The purpose of "Parents' Day" is to bring the parents of the children at school into closer touch with the work of the school, and to become better acquainted with the teachers and their duties. The observance of such days occasionally cannot fail to produce much good for the children and to be of encouragement and helpfulness to the teachers.

It is hoped that there will be a good attendance of the teachers—if not for the whole day, at least for an hour or two, at any rate.

Opportunity will also be given to see some of the exhibit work that is prepared from time to time, and preserved for inspection by visitors, all along during the year.

The Big Four.

The Interscholastic Amateur Athletic Association of Oregon, which consists of the University of Oregon, Willamette University, Pacific University and Oregon Agricultural College, will hold a meeting here May 12th, to prepare for the big meet to be held in June, at the fair grounds.

More for 'Frisco.

Provisions are still being forwarded to the California earthquake sufferers. One of the cars of a freight train that passed through here this morning was one bearing a large banner with the following caption: "To San Francisco from Ritzville, Washington, the bread basket of the world." This is a case of charity that is puffed up.
