COAST COUNTIES ARE SOLIDLY REPUBLICAN

Bourne Is a Favorite in That Section and Dr. Wythcombe Will Be a Close Second

Marshfield, May 29.—The political situation in this part of the state is in every way satisfactory to the Republicans, so far as the state and congressional tickets are concerned. The indications are that Bourne will lead the ticket, that senatorial candidate having strong hold on the people down here. Among many others he has been an investor in some of the many town-site propositions, to the tune of about $60,000, and the long hard struggle to get railroads into this part of the state has left him and many other investors to hold the sack. But a brighter day has dawned for the Coos Bay country, and the latest announcement of the Harriman management, ordering immediate construction of the Drain-Coos Bay extension has put life and vitality into the whole situation. It has put mettle into the Republican state campaign for the people proverbially turn to Republicanism for assistance when there are things doing in the direction of greater prosperity and rapid development of country along any line.

General hopefulness prevails, shipping takes on greater activity, sawmills throb with a new life, and the already prosperous lumber and logging camps become recruiting stations for the Republican party. The local workers everywhere feel that defeat of state, national or local candidates is a slap in the face of the impending floodtide of material prosperity that will inundate the whole of eastern and western Oregon, and the Republican party, with its proverbial good luck, will as usual get the benefit of the whole situation. The election of the whole Republican state ticket is generally conceded. Political meetings are being held all this week in various parts of Coos county. Col. E. Hofer, who is filling appointments in this part of the state for the state central committee, speaks at four places, closing the campaign at Marshfield and North Bend, which can be relied upon for the usual Republican majorities. The county candidates accompany him, and the first of his meetings at Myrtle Point was a great success. The local workers had the band out and Binger Hermann's old home town will make a flawless record of good deeds for the cause of progress and prosperity, and the development of the Coos Bay region along the line of the least resistance—via the Republicans party.

Col. Hofer made a strong argument for Dr. Wythcombe for governor. He is strong with the people down here, as was shown by the ovation he received when he unexpectedly appeared at the Farmers' and Shippers' congress on Wednesday, and the audience in the North Bend pavilion cheered him for several minutes. He did not talk "politics," but made them laugh with a good story, and left them in the best of humor, and creating the ineradicable impression of honesty and integrity that is the striking characteristic of the man. Col. Hofer referred to this in opening his campaign at Myrtle Point, which was attended by quite a number of the politicians from here and Coquille. He said: "I wish especially to commend James Wythcombe as the true friend of the young men of Oregon. In all his ten years' service as director of the government experiment station at our state agricultural college he has ever been an example of model citizenship to the thousands of young men and young women who have gone there from all over the state to acquire an education and have characters formed for usefulness in the home and on the farm and in the workshops of Oregon. A man of correct habits, of the greatest industry and thoroughness in all that he undertakes, performing his duties as instructor, whether it be in the class room or in the larger field of holding farmers' institutes, with a conscientiousness and singleness of purpose, he has had more to do with making a better, a newer and a more prosperous Oregon than any one man in the state. In doing this he has not excited the envy of his associates, nor called forth the successful criticisms of his enemies, if he has any. As for the young people who have been under him, they are his friends. Go anywhere in the state and you will find the hundreds of boys and girls who came to the Corvallis school and learned to know the real man Wythcombe, have gone home his friends and have been his warmest supporters, regardless of their political affiliations, and that is as high a compliment as can be paid any citizen—to say that he has won the heart and judgment and compelled the sincere admiration of those with whom he has labored day by day, year in and year out, when he was not known as a political aspirant and was not posing in the limelight of politics."

After referring to Dr. Wythcombe as a successful business man, and the owner of a large farm that he had made a model of agriculture with his own industry, Col. Hofer said the election of such a man of strong personality, clean private and public life, would do more to place the politics of Oregon on a higher plane, and would place more of a premium on good citizenship than any moral reform movement ever promulgated in this state. It means that the moral element in our public affairs, so long neglected, is coming to the front. Instead of the old style of partisanship, and waving of the bloody shirt along the lines of sectional hatred and personal condemnation, we are going to enthrone in the high offices in the gift of the people the new type of man, instead of people talking for political effect about voting as they shot in the sixties, they are going to vote as they think and vote as they pray for good government in the present. The country needs it and the Republican party of Oregon needs it. Another new idea that was coming to the front in the operation of the direct primary law, was the opportunity to make reform pledges direct to the people, and in this James Wythcombe has been a fearless leader. He has taken the people fully into his confidence, and they know exactly where to find him on any matter of vital importance. He is a champion of the direct primary, of direct legislation and of direct responsibility to the people. And he is a man of earnest and sober convictions and that is his continuous mental habit. If ever a man in his daily life wore the garment of righteousness, not putting it on just for special occasions, it is plain, honest, Farmer Wythcombe. Col. Hofer paid an equally high tribute to W. C. Hawley, the Republican nominee for congress. If ever the reform elements of this state had an opportunity to assert themselves and send to the halls of congress an elevating, purifying influence in the person of a representative, and at the same time a scholar and a man of great ability and solid attainments as a student of public questions, it would be by electing the Republican candidate for representative to succeed Hon. Binger Hermann. He predicted that he would be elected by at least 9000 plurality, and that he would get a large vote from the moral and religious voters outside of the Republican party.

Referring to national politics in all his speeches in this county, Col. Hofer said there was more development possible for this country along the line of the right kind of politics than from any other direction. But development could not take place and become permanent and effective from a political source, unless the policies advocated by the party seeking power were of such a nature as to establish stability to our government. Progress, prosperity and expansion of our industrial wealth were the watchwords of the Republican party. He recited facts to show that while applications to establish banks were more numerous than any other class of business, wages were so high that laboring men were scarce at any price, and there was an actual famine of wage earners. "Wages in the sawmills and logging camps of western Oregon range from $2.00 to $3.50 per day. The greatest difficulty in building the Drain and Coos Bay railroad is going to be securing laborers to put through that gigantic undertaking. That 50 miles of road will cost nearly four million dollars at ordinary wages, but the way labor prices are going up it may cost six millions. I have heard from reliable sources that the Harriman system must search the whole country over to get men to build that road. I have heard that

AN ANAEMIC WOMAN MADE WELL BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

After Other Remedies Failed She Took Them on Her Doctor's Advice and Has Fully Recovered.

Nothing in medical science is more direct and more reasonably certain than the action of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of anemia, a disease which is literary a condition approaching bloodlessness and which, if neglected, inevitably results in decline and death. Anemia is stealthy in approaching its victim and often is well advanced before it is detected. On this account it is necessary to begin treatment as soon as the first symptoms are noted.

"When I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," says Mrs. Nathaniel Field, of St. Albans, Somerset county, Maine, "I was the palest, most bloodless person you could imagine. My tongue and gums were colorless and my fingers and ears were like wax. I had two doctors and they pronounced my trouble anemia. I think the disease had been coming on for three years. I was in bed most of the time for two months, July and August, 1905, only sitting up to have my bed made and to rest my back. I had spells of vomiting, could not eat, in fact, did not dare to, I had such distress after eating. My stomach was filled with gas which caused me awful agony."

"The headache I suffered was at times almost unbearable and the least exertion made my heart beat so fast that I could hardly breathe. But the worst of all was the splitting neuralgia headaches which never left me for seven weeks. I tried everything I heard of, both external and internal, but could get no relief."

"About the last of August Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me by Dr. J. H. Murphy of Dexter, Me., and I gave them a trial. About this time I had several numb spells. My limbs would be cold and without and feeling and the most deadly sensations would come over me. At such times my family thought I was dying. They rushed to my assistance and with friction and hot mustard water restored the circulation."

"Nothing had helped me until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, in fact, I had grown worse every day. After I had taken the pills a short time I could see that they were benefiting me and one morning I awoke entirely free from pain. The distress after eating disappeared and in three weeks I could eat anything I wanted and suffer no inconvenience. I also slept soundly. I have taken several boxes of the pills and have gained in weight from 120 to 154 pounds and am perfectly well now."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure anemia and all anemic conditions because they actually make new blood. They are not a cure-all. They do this one thing and they do it well—they make blood. As the blood carries nourishment and medication to all the tissues of the body this building up of the blood has a direct action on the nerves as well as the muscles. It enables every organ of the body to do the work that nature intended and in this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have corrected serious disorders of the stomach, have revitalized the nervous system and restored to health sufferers from severe nervous disorders. For rheumatism, indigestion, nervous headaches, many forms of weakness and debility Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recommended even if ordinary remedies have been tried without relief.

These pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Rain Was General.

Reports from all over Oregon and Washington say that the rains have been general. In the Big Bend country, Eureka Flat, Grand Ronde valley, Morrow county and in all the wheat districts of the Inland Empire excellent rains have fallen and wheat prospects are consequently advanced greatly. An especially heavy rain has fallen in the Big Bend country, where wheat was suffering considerably. The Eureka flat wheat has also been saved, as it was in bad condition, and a few more days of dry weather would have greatly affected the crop. According to the East Oregonian, some wheat in the foothill districts of Umatilla county was suffering, but the rain has been of immeasurable benefit, and the crop is now assured.—The Dallas Chronicle.
