"PETTICOAT GOVERNMENT"

Portland, May 30.—(To the Editor of The Journal)—The opponents of equal suffrage have sunk so low and have so little respect for their mothers that they are circulating a card bearing a caricature of women's underclothing with the words, "No petticoat government in mine."

They forget that in the countries most opposed to equal rights for women—China and Turkey—all the women wear trousers. It is only a few hundred years since trousers were introduced among white men. There is a bill still extant showing the amount paid for petticoats for King Henry VIII, of England. The conservatives of those days looked upon trousers as most unmanly, and a divine of the Church of England wrote an eloquent sermon warning men against "the effeminate bifurcated garments from Persia." If the mossbacks who have got out this anti-petticoat card had lived in the days when trousers for men were a new thing, their motto would certainly have been "No trousers for us."

MRS. HENRY WALDO COE,
President Oregon Equal Suffrage Association.

An Insult to Women.
Portland, May 30.
To the Editor of The Journal: There has been a good deal of gussing as to the authorship of the card with the picture of a woman's undergarment, which is being circulated by the opponents of equal suffrage. Mr. Lawrence McCamant, lawyer of the Southern Pacific railway, comes out in this morning's Oregonian with the confession that it was he who had these vulgar cards sent out. It has been commonly believed for some time that the Southern Pacific was spending money freely to defeat the equal suffrage amendment, but there might be wiser ways of spending it than on a card which is an insult to ever man's mother. The manly men of Oregon will reward the use of such weapons against women.

THEY HAD A GRAND MEETING

Opera House Packed to the Doors to Listen to Dr. Anna Shaw and Other Eloquent Speakers

The equal suffragist women in charge of the Oregon campaign were greeted by a magnificent audience at the Grand Opera House, last evening, and entertained those present in a most acceptable manner. Half a dozen prominent Salem ladies occupied seats on the platform with the speakers. Mrs. Clara H. Waldo presided over the meeting with great dignity, and introduced the various speakers in turn with most fitting statements. Mrs. Waldo spoke in her opening remarks as representing the Grange, of which she is state lecturer. She said the farmers know how to vote, and that they vote for equal suffrage, for the farmer and his wife work side by side, and have their mutual interests to protect, with no adverse interests to separate them. Mrs. Waldo paid a high tribute to Marion county, as the foremost agricultural county in the state, and the second in wealth, but always the first in reforms. The first speaker of the evening was introduced as a farmer, being Miss Laura Clay, of Kentucky. This lady was immediately recognized as from the South by her rich accent, and whether or not she is of the Henry Clay stock, it was soon apparent that she was true to the blue grass instincts of her native state, by speaking out in plain English and uncompromisingly maintaining her view of matters. She appealed to the audience as a logical speaker, and was applauded on her points.

The second speaker was Mrs. Sperry, president of the California Equal Suffrage Association. She is a tall, silvery haired, middle-aged lady who possesses the typical grace and good sense attributed to California women. She told a little of the earthquake, and what their organization had done since the calamity. At the close of her remarks Miss Shaw stated that the California suffragists had contributed $1000 to the Oregon campaign fund. This talk was followed by the introduction of Mrs. Boyer, of Portland, the state press representative of the suffragists. This lady, in a caustic, telling manner, told of the work being done by the opposition, and how their organization was refuting it. Statistics were read of the relative growth of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Idaho, four equal suffrage states, and compared with Oregon. Of course the comparison was favorable to the states named.

and it was claimed by the speaker to be wholly due to the fact that those states have woman's suffrage and Oregon not. Mrs. Boyer, in a most caustic manner, attacked the anti-suffrage league of Portland, which is composed of the wives of a few millionaires, who defended the "business interests," as against the cause of equal suffrage. The place of honor among the speakers—the closing address—was reserved for Dr. Anna Shaw, the national suffragist president. Miss Shaw told how they had invited the anti to a joint debate, and how they had been ignored, and stated that they had been unable to get a particle of fair treatment from them in the entire campaign, and that the most sensible thing the opposition had done was to keep still. She considers equal suffrage the greatest question ever voted upon, and spoke against special privileges, including a high protective tariff. She said that every special privilege ought to be removed and that if suffragists had any they ought to be deprived of them. The greatest opposition to suffrage comes from prejudice and conservatism said Miss Shaw, and then she defined conservatism as made up of equal parts of ignorance, cowardice and laziness. She ridiculed the objections to woman's suffrage to the queen's taste, and as an English woman, disproved the old story that her countrymen could not appreciate humor, for her whole speech was bubbling over with it, and she made her points thick and fast, largely by the use of her wit and ridicule.

Miss Shaw said what the world needs is to be mothered—that it has been fathered to death. She took up one after another of the objections to suffrage, and in a masterly way disposed of them, from her point of view. She says there are no real objections to suffrage by women, and that for that reason only ridiculous objections were brought up. Miss Shaw is a logical reasoner, a forceful illustrator and a square debater. She has had worlds of experience, and speaks on every phase of her subject with a telling conviction that must certainly impress her hearers.

The meeting was closed by a few remarks from Miss Gregg on how the suffragists raise their campaign funds, and she illustrated it by having the ushers pass hats for a collection.

GRAND RALLY SATURDAY

The several Republican central committees will join in giving a joint program for the final rally of the campaign at the Grand Opera House Saturday evening of this week, and propose to entertain the public in handsome style with music and speeches.

The Salem band will give a grand musical concert in front of the opera house from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, after which the speaking will begin inside.

There will be some royal good campaign music by the Stalwart Quartet, interspersed between the talks, and the opera house will be decorated for the occasion.

The first speaker of the evening will be Prof. Willis C. Hawley, candidate for congress, and all who have heard him in this campaign say that his logic is convincing, and his style captivating. It will be a treat to hear him.

The other speakers of the evening will be the Republican legislative candidates, Messrs. Thos. B. Kay, J. N. Smith, Frank Davey, L. T. Reynolds, G. F. Rodgers, J. H. Settlemier and Jerome Simmons. These men have been making a warm canvass of the county, and propose to give the Salem audience the best they have.

All are invited to hear these speeches and music, and the seats at the opera house should be filled promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Democrats Gather.

The Democrats have arranged for a rally to be held this evening at the armory. The speaker of the evening will be Charles V. Galloway, candidate for congress, and the county candidates will also make short speeches. Not only will oratory be poured out freely, but there will be plenty of music, as the Salem Military Band has been engaged to play for the occasion, and then the Rose City quartet will appear in their catchy campaign songs. The quartet has accompanied the county candidates throughout the canvass, and has made a decided hit wherever they have sang.

GREAT ANIMAL SHOW

One Hundred Gentle Shetlands for the Children to Ride Free

When Burch and Reiss' World's Greatest Dog and Pony Shows appear in this city today, will be seen for the first time in the west, this, the greatest of all trained animal shows. In this day of mergers and trusts all business enterprises are carried on in a wholesale manner—this applies to the show business as well as to the mercantile line. Time was when a tented exhibition moved about the country by means of wagons, then Barnum instituted the first of all the effects of the great shows, but today it requires not less than four special trains of 20 large cars to move the animals and paraphernalia from place to place. The dog and pony show has kept apace of the circus business. It is only a few years ago that shows of this nature carried only a few dogs and ponies and could easily put all their effects and stock in one small car. When Burch and Reiss' World's Greatest Dog and Pony Shows arrive in this city they will come on a special train of nine double length cars. In addition to the dogs and ponies will be seen trained camels, pigs, goats, Bos Indicus, llamas, sacred cattle, pumas, ant eaters, emeus, zebus, birds, dromedaries and camoways, and all are skillfully trained. The aggregation numbers upwards of 350 performing animals, 100 more than was ever carried by any similar attraction. In addition to the multitudinous animal acts, Messrs. Burch and Reiss have added troupe of acrobats, gymnasts, wife and rope dancers, bicyclists, jugglers, equilibrist and many new and novel acts never presented in the west before. A special feature and one that is calculated to create a sensation in musical circles, will be the appearance with these shows of Gregory's Royal Italian Bands. These organization ever carried with a tented exhibition. This famous organization will give a concert before each performance, which will alone be worth more than the price of admission to the shows. A grand free street parade will be given at 11 o'clock on the morning of the exhibition, at which time the entire company of over 350 animal actors will be seen decked out in their holiday attire. This parade is absolutely new, and without question the finest street demonstration ever seen with a tented exhibition. A special feature of the performance is the free pony rides to the little ones. After the afternoon performance, over 100 Shetland ponies will be turned over to the children, and they will be permitted to ride to their heart's content. This feature will not be omitted under any circumstances. No boy or girl will be allowed to leave the Burch and Reiss Show disappointed.
