ROSTEIN & GREENBAUM

Old Nos. 298 and 300 Commercial St. Salem

All Got Stock.
A Philadelphia dispatch carried by Associated Press, says: "Revelations of an unusual character were made during the investigation of the interstate commerce commission into alleged discrimination by railroad companies in the distribution of cars to coal companies in the bituminous region. Three important witnesses were heard in the persons of George W. Lighton, general superintendent of Pennsylvania railroad company; Bert K. Cassatt, son of President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad eastern manager of the Keystone coal and coke company, and John M. Jamison, of Greensburg, Pa., president of the Jamison Coal and Coke company. Mr. Creighton admitted that the book had been presented to him. Mr. Jamison testified that his company had rented Pennsylvania railroad facilities for securing better treatment of the corporation. He said that Robert Pitearn, now assistant to President Cassatt, had demanded a proffer of stock, saying that he would give the money. Mr. Jamison got the stock back from him for $50. Another interesting witness was George W. Clark, Pennsylvania road car distributor at Altoona, Pa., told of having received a monthly check for $50 from Captain Alfred Stone, a mine operator, and stated he did not know why the money was sent to him." Other dispatches that President Cassatt will resign, saying that he was deceived.

Under the caption, "Diary of a Leading Citizen," John T. McCutcheon furnishes some good reading matter to readers of the Chicago Tribune. As a sample we quote the following: "Saturday—Had my tax assessment reduced from $250,000 to $8,500 today. What's the use of paying taxes when the money is sure to be stolen by grafters in the treasurer's office? Sunday—Went to church today and heard a good, old-fashioned sermon. Told the parson he could put me down for a liberal donation when he needed it. He seemed greatly pleased."

It Is Up to the Doctor.
A lady wrote us from Winchester, Va., that she had been under a doctor's care for four years for dyspepsia, the pain appeared to center under the left shoulder blade, and was so severe at times that she could neither eat nor sleep. She had lost faith in her home doctor, and asked us to send her sample of Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills which had been recommended to her. We sent her two pills, and in a few days she sent for a box. Now she writes that the pain under her shoulder blade has left her entirely, she enjoys her meals and never sleeps less than eight hours every night, and this has all come about in two weeks, and cost her 50 cents for two boxes of pills. Says the doctor charged her $52, and that she told him he had better take the $50 and invest it all in Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills and build up his practice. Sold by druggists for $25c per box. Any one having dyspepsia, bilious spells or sick headache can get a speedy cure by the use of these pills.

OREGON WOMEN GAME

Prove the Proposition by Being Cheerful Losers, and Will Try Again

Tuesday's Telegram pays this tribute to Oregon's women:
The women of Oregon are game. They were game in the initial skirmish, game in the heat of battle and game still in the confusion of defeat. Though the day has been lost for the equal suffrage cause in the state in the present election, the leaders of the movement are going right ahead, cheerfully, bravely and unremittently planning for the joining of the issue again at the first opportunity, which will come two years hence.
Pluck, hope, courage and enthusiasm are as apparent in their actions in the face of the lost cause as they were at any time during the bold and hard-fought campaign, when the fate of the issue was still in the balance, and, while disappointed to a degree, they are not depressed.

The returns at present are complete enough to write the seal of doom for woman suffrage, and the women are accepting the inevitable as stoically as the most experienced veterans of the political arena. They find comfort in the fact that the majority against them will be greatly reduced over what it was six years ago, and by the same token they intend to keep hammering at the opposition until it has dwindled away and the tide has turned in their favor.

Nor will they stop there. With Oregon in the "right" column, and lined up with Wyoming, Idaho, Colorado, Utah and Kansas, the National organizers will move on to new fields.

Worn to a state of approaching total physical and nervous exhaustion by their untiring work at the polls yesterday and by their ceaseless vigils during the long, weary watches of the night while the counting was going on, most of the leaders of the movement showed up at the headquarters in the Stearns building at an early hour today, and the result in each succeeding precinct as the complete count was brought in to them was closely scanned. They anticipated defeat almost from the start, but hope died hard in their breasts.

Some of the ward captains and precinct helpers worked all day at the election booths and acted as watchers all night, and were on hand for any work that might be needed today. Many of them had not had a square meal from the time the voting began until the count was closed and the polling books turned over to the county clerk. They were content to munch away at a sandwich and sip a cup of coffee now and then, and then go on with the work.

Dr. Anna H. Shaw, president of the equal suffrage movement in this country, who has been actively engaged in the fight here from the very start, is cheerful and helpful. The outcome does not depress her spirits one whit. She is just as eager for another clash of arms as ever. Discussing the general situation in some of its phases this morning she said:

"One of the lessons of this struggle is that the majority of the voters are indifferent entirely to the question whether we should be allowed to vote or not. Ours is a campaign of education, and it takes a long time to enlighten the voter. The progress and prosperity of the state have a good deal to do with our defeat. Men are satisfied. They are content. There is no poverty or pauperism here in Oregon, and no one seems to be conscious of want. The people are comfortably well to do and they don't seem to care for political issues.

"And so far as I know there were no political issues discussed during this campaign by the candidates or the other spellbinders, and that applies to both parties. It was purely a campaign of personalities, such as I have never witnessed anywhere during the 20 years I have been actively engaged in the movement. Yet there were ten amendments of more or less importance to be voted on, and not a single stump speaker that I heard tried to tell his audience what they were all about, and of course when a man doesn't get interested in an issue it isn't reasonable to suppose he will vote one way or the other one it, except accidentally. The speaker's great stock in trade was throwing mud at the other fellow.

"I have noticed that the amendment that stood at the head of the list got more votes than one farther down, and the legislative candidate whose name began with an 'A' would naturally get more votes than the one whose name began with 'Z.'"

"What impressed me more than anything else as I rode around from precinct to precinct watching the work yesterday, was the very low estimate the men placed upon women. I gathered my impressions from remarks made by loafers around the booths, who did not make the remarks for my benefit, but they didn't seem to be sorry that I had overheard them.

"Most of these fellows who had made insulting remarks were drunken, besotted wretches, who have no other means of support save what they get from their wives' washing or boarding houses. They could not be expected to have a very high ideal of womanhood under the circumstances, and they betrayed their own base natures by the character of their comments around the voting places.

"Of course, the Turks with their harems and the savages of Africa would have treated us worse at the polls, so we really feel that we have reached in this country a plane a little above those represented by the two classes mentioned.

"The men who conducted the voting treated all our workers with fine courtesy. They provided them with chairs to rest in when fatigued, and our watchers were shown every ballot counted, and we found no evidence of being counted out anywhere. We were viciously knifed by the straight Republican voters. They betrayed us the most generally, far more than the Democrats did."

Just as soon as Dr. Shaw can close up her affairs here she will leave for the home in the east. On the way to New York she will stop off at Warsaw, N. Y., and marry a couple of Cornell students. After a short rest at home she will sail for Europe June 25. Following a three weeks' rest at Hotel Scheim, Germany, she, in company with Miss Lucy Anthony, will attend the biennial convention of the International Suffrage League, at Copenhagen, Denmark, beginning August 5 and continuing four days.

This league is composed of delegates from 14 countries and is presided over by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York, its founder. Three languages will be spoken at the deliberations of the body—English, German and French. Delegates will be there from America, England, Sweden, Norway, Germany, Scotland, Ireland, Belgium, Holland, Austria, Australia and other countries.

The purpose of the league is to advance the movement for woman suffrage in all countries of the world and to promote co-operation between all national organizations.

The league was formed in this country four years ago, and the organization perfected in Berlin at the last convention two years ago.

From Portland, Miss Kate Gordon, one of the leading workers for equal suffrage, will go as a delegate.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Inspectors Cause Fire.

The negligence or carelessness of the inspectors who examined the chimney at the house of F. Dantheuser of 50 Grove street was responsible for a fire which called the fire department to the house late Tuesday afternoon. Bags used by the inspectors in testing the chimney had been carried up through the flue by the draft and deposited on the roof, where they gradually smoldered into flame. The fire was extinguished before any damage was done. —San Francisco Chronicle.

Bill Nye's

Comic History of the United States

With 140 Illustrations by Fred Opper

Bill Nye, the great American humorist, has written the story of our country in his own way. He treats fully and accurately on the progress of civilization in North America, from the discovery by Columbus to the last decade. All the main facts are respected, but Bill treats them in a humorous manner, with just enough satire to make it irresistibly funny, yet all in good taste. Every reader, old or young, can get a deal of fun out of this book while adding to his knowledge.

There is a solid education in this book, and it has the advantage of being sugar-coated with fun.

F. Opper, the celebrated humorous artist, has added untold value to the work by 140 illustrations (one of which, much reduced in size, is reproduced here) that will cause many a hearty laugh.
