June Fourteenth Flag Day.
Governor Chamberlain today issued a proclamation in which he recommends that June 14th be observed and set apart as "Flag Day," not alone by the schools of the state, but by the people generally, and urges "that the flag be generally displayed on that day on all public and other buildings and places of business." The selection of the emblem of our country was made by the Continental Congress June 14, 1777, and it is fitting that a day be set apart for the holding of patriotic and appropriate exercises for the commemoration of that event by the schools of the state.

HE CAN NOT PAY INTEREST

Secretary Can Pay Bills, But Only for Original Amounts

With reference to the appropriation bill, which was referred to the people for acceptance, in an interview with the attorney-general it was stated that the claims against the state would be met, but without interest, since the principal of law is that the sovereign is not required to pay interest; moreover there is no present law on the statute books making the payment of interest upon claims held against the state. The legislature could, however, take action in this matter.

WOMAN JUMPS FROM AIRSHIP.

Miss Maggie Dailey Accepts Dare, and Drops With a Parachute.

Middletown, O., June 7.—Because she was dared to do it and did not fancy being called a coward, Miss Maggie Dailey, a young woman of this city, took her life in her hands and made a balloon ascension and parachute leap at Midway Park, a summer resort near here.

While horror-stricken friends stood below and watched her whirling several thousand feet above the ground, Miss Dailey cut loose from the balloon and made a leap with the parachute about two and a half miles from the starting point, uninjured, but completely unnerved.

Miss Dailey was with several companions at the park, when Aeronaut Kelly, who makes daily ascensions, was getting ready for the afternoon exhibition.

They commenced bantering and daring each other to make an ascension. Miss Dailey would not take the dare, and prepared to go up in the balloon. She got away safely, ascended 3000 feet, and was but a mere speck in the sky when the parachute was seen to separate itself from the balloon, and the young woman shot towards the earth.

Will Honor Great Chemist.

New York, June 7.—The committee formed by the Chemists' Club of this city to frame plans to commemorate the semi-centennial anniversary of the discovery by Dr. William Henry Perkin of the chemical uses of coal tar has been decided in favor of the establishment of a library or works on chemistry, probably to be known as the Perkin Library, and to cost $50,000 the appropriation of $50,000 for a Perkin medal and a token to Dr. Perkin and a dinner on October 6, at which the distinguished chemist is expected to be present.

It is planned that the Chemists' Club be made a national institution, with non-resident members, who will have the use of the books in the new library for $5.00 a year. There are to be two sets of books, one for local reference, and the other for circulation throughout the country. Ten thousand dollars has already been promised toward the establishment of the library.

The Perkin medal is to be awarded annually to an American chemist for distinguished work in technical chemistry. The dinner was fixed tentatively for October 6, but, if necessary, the date of the banquet will be changed to suit the convenience of Dr. Perkin, who is in England. A feature of the dinner will be a symposium on the development of the coal tar industry. Dr. Perkin's discovery 50 years ago, when he produced his first color, mauve, from coal tar, has become an important factor in chemistry, not only because of the aniline colors produced, but also on the account of the value of the discovery in synthetic chemistry. The anniversary will be celebrated in Germany, where the successful experiments were first made half a century ago, and also in France, Italy and England. The committee appointed to arrange for the celebration in this country includes Joseph H. Choate, General Horace Porter, Nicholas Murray Butler, Woodrow Wilson, Andrew Carnegie, James Speyer, Herman A. Metz, Morris K. Jessup and Arthur Van Briesen.

Official Count Delayed.

The official count of the county vote has been delayed by the failure of the election board from Horeb precinct to send the returns to the county clerk. As soon as the returns from that precinct are in, as well as those from North Silverton, the official count will be made. It is probable that Justices C. M. Crichton and H. Overton will assist the county clerk in that work.

FIREMEN TO HAVE BENEFIT

Salem's Beauty and Chivalry Business and Working-men Will be There

Tomorrow night the firemen give their benefit at the Grand Opera House when they present Mr. Henry Lawrence Southwick in "The Rivals." Mr. Southwick is probably the greatest impersonator on the American platform today, and in "The Rivals" he is to be seen at his best. The press and great men, North, South, East and West speak in the highest terms of his work, and those who avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing him will be well paid for their time and money, besides helping out a worthy cause. From indications the house will be well filled, which will be greatly appreciated by our fire boys.

Multnomah County Complete.

With the count complete in Multnomah county, Robert L. Stevens, Republican, has defeated Tom M. Word for sheriff by five votes. The official canvass gives Stevens 9265 and Word 9255. Complete unofficial returns give Jonathan Bourne, Jr., for United States senator, a plurality of 1688. Governor Chamberlain has carried the county by 181 votes. For supreme judge, Robert Eakin, Republican, has a plurality of 6292. W. R. Ellis, Republican, for representative in congress, has carried the county by 8194. Woman's suffrage is defeated by 10,167 to 5868; a majority against the amendment of 4299. The local option law is defeated by 8368 to 6549; a majority against the law of 1819.

"UNDISEASED AND CLEAN."

Spokesman Intimates Neill and Reynolds Must Have Been Seeing Things.

Washington, June 6.—The house committee on agriculture today decided to comply with the request of the Chicago packers to be heard on the Neill-Reynolds report regarding conditions in the Chicago packing houses. The request was made by Thomas Wilson, who said he was manager of the Nelson Morris Co., but in this instance was authorized to speak for the Chicago packers. Before hearing Mr. Wilson the committee notified the department of agriculture, and Mr. Neill, Secretary Wilson, Dr. A. D. Melvin, of the department, and Mr. Neill at once came to the capital and the hearing began shortly before noon.

Mr. Wilson made a general denial of the existence of conditions in the packing house, as set forth in the Neill-Reynolds report. He began by inviting the committee to come to Chicago and spend a week in personal investigation of conditions. That, he said, would be the only way for members to gain a proper idea of what the conditions really were. Some suggestions made in the report, he said, had already been complied with by the packers, such as additional sanitary facilities.

Cannot Freshen Canned Meat.

As to the charge that canned meats were boiled in water "to freshen them up," Mr. Wilson said there was absolutely nothing in this. Canned meat, he said, was as good five years after it had been put up as it was five minutes afterwards, providing no air had got to it. If air had reached the meat it would be spoiled beyond being freshened up. What the cans were put in hot water for was to soak off the old label, which he said was an injury to the appearance of the goods on sale.

He denied absolutely that there were any diseased cattle or hogs butchered for food. For in every carload of cattle or hogs, he said, some were likely to be dead and some diseased. The dead or diseased hogs and cattle were sent to the Standard Slaughtering Company, although the two were likely to be confused in the mind. The rendering company turned the dead and diseased meat into grease, which was a co-product of the manufacture of soap.

Not Rope, Only Dried String.

Mr. Wilson described, in detail, the operation of preparing canned meats, and when asked by Representative Scott, of Kansas, a member of the committee, "how about the rope and other foreign matter found with scraps on the floor," Wilson explained that what was probably seen in this in-

EIGHT COUNTIES WENT DRY

Eight counties in Oregon "went dry" in the election last Monday, as returns are yet available, and others are still to be heard from. "Dry" counties are: Benton, carried by 170 votes; Sherman, by 179; Lane, by 450; Lane, by 350; Yamhill, by 100; Coos, by 100; Tillamook, by 100; Walla Walla by a small margin.

Counties which rejected prohibition as a whole were Malheur, by a plurality; Polk, by 269; Morrow, by 62; Wasco, by 150. By the terms of the option law, under which the prohibitions were held, a county which rejects prohibition as a whole receives prohibition in the precincts voting for it.

A very active campaign for prohibition was waged in the foregoing counties, between the liquor forces on one side and the prohibition forces on the other.

Exact figures of the pluralities Monday's election will not be known until the official canvass shall be made by the secretary of state on the returns from the several counties. The returns will not, however, change any considerable degree the pluralities as they are already estimated.

Chamberlain's lead over Withington for governor will probably be between 2300 and 2500, and that of Bourne over Gearin for United States senator will fall slightly under 2500.

Woman suffrage was defeated by approximately 10,000, the local-option change by perhaps 9000, and the low road appropriation by about 750. Multnomah county gave the Barker bill 300 plurality, but the bill encountered heavy opposition in other counties, such as Clackamas, Marion and Polk.

The referendum appropriation bill of the last legislature, providing for state institutions, is sustained by perhaps 13,000. Majorities for all the other initiative measures will range from 10,000 to 30,000, the latter figures probably being attained for the gross earnings tax bills, which received a large vote than any of the bills in the election.

The majority for the anti-pass bill will exceed 20,000, and for the voter printer amendment 25,000.

Only partial returns have been secured from the counties on the amendments, but they are complete enough to show the trend of majorities.

To the Asylum.

P. M. Pederson, aged 45 years, after an examination by Dr. W. B. Moore, was adjudged insane by County Judge Scott today, and ordered committed to the insane asylum. He is a farmer residing in Salem. The cause of insanity is due to five years of epilepsy and a probable brain lesion.
