MAKE MANILA PROVINCE.

Ide Decides to Give Filipino Capital Representation.

Manila, June 7.—Governor Ide announces that a province will be formed of Manila for the purpose of giving the city representation in the Filipino assembly. The original plan was that Manila, like the District of Columbia, should have no representation in the national assembly. The law provided for representatives from all the provinces, but failed to make a special provision for Manila.

Mr. Ide has construed the law as not excluding this city from representation, and therefore it is his intention to declare it a province for the purpose of assembly representation only. No provisional government is to be established, but in the near future the commission is to pass an act creating the Province of Manila.

A Big Portland Fire.

The Apex mill, controlled by the Enterprise Grain & Mill Co., and the Oregon planing mill, owned by the Honeman Hardware Company, were badly damaged by fire last night. The combined loss to the two companies is estimated at $40,000. Fire originated in a barn in the rear of the Apex mill, and before it could be gotten under control consumed $500,000 feet of lumber, valued at $10,000, and destroyed the plant of the Apex Mill Company.

Thousands of people were attracted to the conflagration, and residents of the vicinity were compelled to protect their homes by throwing water on the roofs of their houses. A number of horses were rescued with difficulty.

Sacramento, Cal., June 8.—After weeks of haranguing and jockeying, and enduring one signal defeat, constitutional amendment No. 2, giving power for two years to the San Francisco board of supervisors relative to streets, parks, boulevards, reservoirs and lands now owned, or hereafter acquired by the city for the purpose of carrying out the Burnham plan for the beautification of the city, by widening certain streets, was reported favorably with 12 amendments to the assembly this morning by the committee on constitutional amendments. The majority of the amendments are merely changes in verbiage. The report was adopted, and the measure was made the special order for tomorrow morning.

The committee, heeding the demand for limitation of the powers of the board of supervisors, completely wiped out the clause giving the board the power to extend or restrict the public service franchises covering wires, railways and conduits, and inserted another which restricts the powers to change or extend public service lines to only such streets as will be widened or extended.

TELEGRAPHERS' SPEED CONTEST

Boston, Mass., June 8.—Scores of the most expert manipulators of the telegraph key have come to this city from all parts of the United States, to take part in an interesting speed contest, which will be held here today at Tremont Temple, under the auspices of the Telegraphers' Tournament association of New England. The contest is not limited to New England telegraphers, but is open to operators from any country and among those who intend to take part in the competition are many of the speediest telegraphers from Canada and Mexico.

The tournament has been arranged by the New England telegraphers to endow a free hospital bed. Life insurance classifications show that with one single exception the mortality is greatest among telegraphers and that more telegraphers die from consumption than in any other profession.

As an incentive Andrew Carnegie has donated a handsome international trophy. It is a solid silver cup, 23½ inches high, with base, and is symbolic of the telegraphers' profession. This cup stands for the championship of the world, and will be decided not alone on fast sending or fast receiving, but upon the greatest number of points won in all classes, accuracy and speed to count. Besides this trophy Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph company, has donated four handsome cups as first and second prizes in a team match.

The last previous contest of that kind ever held in New England, was held in Chickering hall in 1893. As at that tournament, the work will be divided into three principal classes, press work, ordinary telegrams and stock quotations. One of the most interesting contests will be the team contest. Nothing of that sort has ever been attempted here before. The men entered for that contest will work in pairs, and the only test will be the amount of work that each team can accomplish in a given time. No particular attention will be paid in this case to the accuracy and rhythm of the sender, but, of course, correctness is required.

Among the experts who are here to take part in the tournament are some of the best known experts in the country, like W. M. Gibson, the present champion of the world, McClintock, Williams, Emanuel, Faulkner, and many others.

The estimated acreage by states includes: Georgia, 3,826,618, about the same as last year; crops two weeks late, labor scarce and in some sections labor situation acute. North Carolina, 1,038,661 acres, decrease of 7 per cent; crops are late and labor scarce. South Carolina, 2,212,807, about the same as last year; labor scarce. Texas, 7,888,645 acres, an increase of 7.90 per cent over last year; fair labor conditions. Florida, Missouri and Virginia, about 375,300 acres, an increase of 1½ per cent.

Army to Have Own Wireless.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—It has been decided that the army signal corps is to develop its own wireless telegraph system. There is an increasing call for this method of communication at the coast artillery forts, and it is found that the installation of such a complete system as that in the southern New York district would represent a great cost, for which the signal corps, charged with the work of equipment, does not possess the funds. The experts of the corps in Washington have decided to experiment with a new system, buying the material in the open market and assembling the parts, to the end that they may have a means of wireless communication which shall answer the purpose of the coast artillery, where it is used in sending messages between the target boats and the shore during the firing of the heavy guns. The system is found to be of great value in that respect, and the signal corps people believe they can get up a system which will be as efficient as the best of the commercial systems, which cost so much money. If the corp electricians are successful, this will mean a substantial loss of prospective business to the wireless telegraph companies, which realized that wireless was to be extensively used along the coast in artillery communication.

Will Try It on Human Beings.

Chicago, June 8.—Dr. Alexis Carrel and Dr. C. C. Guthrie, who have for more than one year conducted a series of important experiments at the Hull Physiological laboratory connected with the University of Chicago, is believed that these experiments have demonstrated the possibility of substituting veins for arteries and changing the whole circulation of the human body.

Diseases that have hitherto been incurable and others that have in general been fatal in a large majority of cases, it is believed, may be cured by the reversal of the circulation of the blood. The experiments have, so far, been conducted on dogs, but they have now reached a stage where it is thought that the same tests may safely be tried on human beings. The discoverers of this new method are confident of success and believe that it will revolutionize surgery.

Stationary Engineers Meet.

Evansville, Ind., June 8.—The annual state convention of the Indiana branch of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, which opened here today, promises to be of unusual interest. It will last three days and will be presided over by State President Emil G. Heeger of this city. The attendance is large and the program arranged for the meeting is unusually elaborate and interesting. It includes a joint meeting with the Kentucky state convention of stationary engineers, which meets at Henderson, Ky., today. Some highly important matters will come up for consideration, including propositions for certain regulations and laws, which the engineers will try to have incorporated in the statute books of the state. Many papers of a purely technical character will be read.

RUSSIAN AFFAIRS.

The Agrarian Controversy Bitter.

It is beginning to be evident that the majority of the Russian dooms is determined to protect political murders by abolishing the death penalty in such crimes, and also to expropriate all land not actually under tillage by owners and without compensation. It also proposes to levy taxes to supply the peasants with the seeds and machinery for working the lands allotted to them, and to make all manner of changes, whereby the property of the who have is to be transferred to the who have not. The more intelligent of them know and concede that the distribution of land to ignorant and skillful peasants will largely decrease the aggregate of production, but they propose to take the chances. Presumably this program, if adopted by the duuma, will be resisted by the government, with a strong probability that the result will be bloodshed on a scale greater than even Russia has heretofore endured.

It is, of course, perfectly evident that the Russian native is wholly unfit for self government, and that the responsibility for that condition was upon the autocrat and the bureaucracy which have so long oppressed, debilitated and plundered the people. The prospect is very dark. The experience of mankind shows that such oppression and misgovernment as the Russian people have for centuries endured from their rulers must be expiated in blood. There is no illusion thus far that Russia will prove an exception.

Her Valuation.

Aunt Evelyn took little Anna to the French church and gave her a nickel to put in the alms basin. Anna look at the coin with evident satisfaction, and then, nestling close to her aunt, whispered, "How much are you going to give?" Her aunt, opening her hand, displayed a quarter of a dollar. "Oh!" exclaimed the child excitedly, "don't do it; it isn't worth it." Lippincott's

Will Try for Diamond Sculls.

Philadelphia, June 8.—William West, of the Undine Barge club of this city sailed for England today to take part in the competition for the Diamond sculls at the English Henley regatta. He is accompanied by Carson, his trainer, who will assist him with his advice.

Mr. West is a well to do merchant, and consequently is within amateur rules. He has taken with him a new scull, which he had built for this special occasion. Until last year he represented the West Philadelphia Boat club. West won his junior sculls in 1902 in the Schuylkill Navy regatta, and in the following year was graduated from the intermediate class. He has been handicapped in his efforts to win a senior event through stomach trouble, from which he now has completely recovered. West has been doing gymnasium work all winter and is now in the pink of condition.
