HAIR PINS RUSTED

And Her Head Like an Ant Hill That Had Been Stirred With a Stick

With hairpins rusted fast in her hair, clothed in filthy rags and in a general state of unspeakable uncleanness, Cleo Culman of Seattle, 22 years old, was visited by Dr. Spencer, deputy health officer, at the Salvation Army home on the east side today.

The attention of Health Officer Wheeler was called to the case this morning by the matron of the home at East Fifteenth and Hancock streets.

"I had her in the bath tub for three hours so as to get her a little bit clean before you saw her," she explained. Dr. Wheeler passed the job along to Dr. Spencer.

Yesterday the proprietor of a lodging house at First and Columbia streets called the attention of the policeman on that beat to a woman in his house who was sick. When an investigation was made by the two men it was found she was simply alive with vermin. The woman was in poor health, but there was simply one thing the matter with her—Dirt!

The patrol wagon was called and Miss Culman taken to the police station. Mrs. Simmons, the police matron, thought the case was too much for her. The hospitals were appealed to in vain. The Y. W. C. A. thought it out of its jurisdiction. The county hospital had troubles of its own. Nobody wanted the dirty woman.

"Why, her head is just like an ant hill when you've stirred it with a stick," said Captain Moore.

Finally the woman from Seattle, which she left a week ago, was received by the Salvation Army, which believes no human being is too far gone to deserve assistance.

That Tired Feeling.

If you are languid, depressed, incapable for work, it indicates that your liver is out of order. Herbine will assist nature to throw off headaches, rheumatism and ailments akin to nervousness and restore the energies and vitality of sound and perfect health. J. J. Hubbard, Temple, Texas, writes: "I have used Herbine for the past year. It has done me more good than all the doctors. It is the best medicine ever made for chills and fever." 50c. For sale by D. J. Big Ship for Coos.

The Coos Bay Harbor of June 9th says: A letter was received Thursday from L. J. Simpson, stating that his father, Captain A. M. Simpson, was on his way to New York to purchase an iron steamship, capable of carrying 1,500,000 of lumber.

Captain Simpson took with him one of his men to captain the ship, and together they will bring it around the horn. Captain Simpson expressed his intention to make that trip around the horn once more before he died.

This vessel will be put on between Coos Bay, San Francisco and San Pedro to carry lumber. Her load will be nearly 300 tons, and she will be the largest ship to enter this harbor.

Death from Lockjaw

Never follows an injury dressed with Bucklen's Arnica Salva. Its antiseptic and healing properties prevent blood poisoning. Chas. Oswald, merchant, of Rensselaersville, N. Y., writes: "It cured Seth Burch, of this place, of the ugliest sore on his neck I ever saw." Cures cuts, wounds, burns, and sores. 25c at J. C. Perry's drug store.

A Pleasant Way to Travel.

The above is the usual verdict of the traveler using the Missouri Pacific railway between the Pacific coast and the east, and we believe that the service and accommodations given merit this statement. From Denver, Colorado Springs and Denver there are two through trains daily to Kansas City and St. Louis, carrying Pullman's latest standard electric-lighted sleeping cars, chair cars and up-to-date dining cars. The same excellent service is operated from Kansas City and St. Louis to Memphis, Little Rock and Hot Springs. If you are going east or south, write for particulars and full information.

KENTUCKIANS' HOME COMING WEEK

Louisville, Ky., June 13.—Home coming week, the greatest state event ever known in Kentucky, began today and the city seems to have doubled its population. A generous share of the 600,000 native Kentuckians scattered all over the United States and the rest of the world, have come here to accept the famous hospitality of Louisville and to help in making home coming week a grand success. Former Kentuckians, who left their home state many years ago and never came back on a visit, could not resist the cordial appeal of the Commercial club, under whose auspices the great reunion is held, and it is safe to say that Kentucky never held as many Kentuckians than at present.

It was a piece of good fortune for Louisville that the new Armory building, which is the second in size in the United States, was completed in time for the home coming, as no other building in the city would have been adequate for the purpose of offering sufficient room for headquarters for the various counties of the state.

It was to the Armory building that every arriving Kentuckian was escorted by special committees, which awaited the arrival of every train entering the city. The arrangements were perfect and everything worked like clock work. Thousands of the visitors had arrived in the city during the last two or three days, but every incoming train brought an additional contingent of sons and daughters of the Blue Grass state.

The forenoon was mainly devoted to the reception and registration of the incoming Kentuckians. By noon, when the opening meeting at the armory was called to order by the president of the Commercial club, the enormous drill hall, occupying the center of the magnificent structure, was filled to suffocation. Henry Watterson, the veteran editor of the Courier-Journal, was greeted with deafening cheers when he arose to deliver the principal address of welcome. His speech sounded the patriotic keynote of the sentiments which prompted the Commercial club to arrange for the home coming of all former Kentuckians. It was a remarkably eloquent address, stirring and grateful to the ears and the heart of every true son of the Blue Grass state.

of Missouri delivered the principal response. Other addresses were delivered by former Senators William Lindsay and John G. Carlisle of New York, associate justice John M. Harlan of the United States Supreme Court, former Governor Thomas T. Crittenden of Missouri and former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

In the afternoon there will be a big civic parade, composed of nearly every organized society and club in this city. In the evening the entire city will be brilliantly illuminated and there will be scores of reunions and other social functions.

Tomorrow will be "Foster Day," in honor of Stephen Collins Foster, the author of the immortal song, "My Old Kentucky Home." In honor of the day a chorus of several thousand voices, accompanied by several brass bands, will sing "My Old Kentucky Home." In the afternoon the statue of Foster, modelled by Miss Enid Yandell, will be unveiled. The statue will later be placed in the new capitol at Frankfort. It will cost about $6000, and will be paid for out of the contributions by the school children of the state.

Friday will be "Daniel Boone Day," and the memory of the great pioneer will be duly honored. For that day athletic and popular games have been arranged in all the parks of the city. There will be old fashioned husking, sewing, apple-paring and other "bees," rustic balls at which the Virginia reel will come to honor again.

Special honors will be bestowed upon all persons who are in any way related to Daniel Boone. A handsome medal will be presented to the person who can prove the nearest relationship to the famous pioneer. An excellent statue of Boone, which has been erected in a picturesque spot of Cherokee park, will be unveiled in the afternoon and an elaborate program for the exercises has been arranged.

Saturday will be "Greater Kentucky Day," with barbecues, camp fires and scores of reunions in the various parks and halls of the city. Many old time residents and pioneers of the state

CONSUMPTION'S WARNING

Inside facts soon become evident in outside symptoms.—DR. G. G. GARDEN.

The aid of scientific inventions is not needed to determine whether your lungs are affected. The first symptoms can be readily noted by anyone of average intelligence.

There is no disease known that gives as many plain warnings of its approach as consumption, and no serious disease that can be so quickly reached and checked, if the medicine used is Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which is made to cure consumption.

It is in the early stages that German Syrup should be taken, when warnings are given in the cough that won't quit, the congestion of the bronchial tubes and the gradual weakening of the lungs, accompanied by frequent expectoration. But no matter how deep-seated you cough, even if dread consumption has already attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c. Regular size, 75c. At all druggists.

will deliver reminiscent addresses. Sunday will be devoted to rest and religious devotion. The pulpits in all the churches of the city will be filled by ministers who were born in this state.

Although Sunday will practically end home coming week so far as Louisville is concerned, it is expected that the visiting former Kentuckians will not immediately return to their present homes. All the railroads in the state have granted special rates for the occasion, and it is expected that thousands of the visitors will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the numerous beautiful and interesting places of which Kentucky possesses such marvelous abundance. The week will offer many special features of great interest to all Kentuckians. Among other things there is an exhibition of historical relics. One of the most curious things ever laid under water. The section from the cable which was laid in the Tennessee river, twelve miles above Paducah, in 1854, by T. P. Shafter and Captain J. B. Steeth, who were building a telegraph line from Nashville, Tenn., to Paducah, Ky. The cable, which is of a rather primitive construction, but worked perfectly, is the invention of Captain Steeth, and was made by hand. The insulation consists of jute bagging, saturated with hot tar.

One of the most striking features of the celebration will be the grand parade tomorrow afternoon. The first section will consist of automobiles, decorated with flowers, the second division will consist of victrolas and other open carriages and will so include a large and beautifully decorated float, bearing the Flower Queen and her escort of beautiful maidens. The third division will consist of horse vehicles and tandems, the fourth of coaches, brakes, and other horse vehicles, and the fifth division of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen of Louisville, with hand engines and other apparatus. Handsome prizes will be awarded to the most handsomely decorated vehicles in each division.

Acute Rheumatism.

Deep tearing or wrenching pain occasioned by getting wet through worse when at rest, or on first moving the limbs and in cold or stormy weather, is cured quickly by Ballard's Snow Liniment. Oscar Gibson City, Ill., writes, Feb. 16, 1906: "A year ago I was troubled with pain in my back. It soon got so bad I could not bend over. One bottle Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me. For sale by D. The Destruction of San Francisco

BY EARTHQUAKE AND FIRE By Charles Eugene Banks and Opie Read Special :-: Memorial :-: Volume

This edition will be eagerly sought after by millions of Americans who have demonstrated their sympathy in a substantial manner by cheerfully answering the call of the stricken, and giving money, food and clothing with a generosity truly American. Every city, town and village throughout the land is stretching forth its hands to help those in distress. Human hearts are beating today in every hamlet in the world for friends of relatives dead or dying in the ruins.

There never was a time in the history of the world when all eyes were turned to one city, as now they are toward the once great city of San Francisco.

Interest is at fever heat and there is a demand for this book, by all people, that makes it a duty and an honor to be the means of bringing it to them.

This book tells, by pen and picture, the detailed story as gathered by writers on the grounds, of the awful calamity that befell San Francisco and the smaller cities of the Pacific coast, leaving hundreds of thousands homeless and at the mercy of their fellow men; of the loss of life and the destruction of property; the story of the disaster as told by the survivors; fighting fire with dynamite; murder and pillage by ghouls; food and water famine; army guarding survivors under martial law; the rifle and noose the fate of ghouls; burial alive in tombs of fire; a city turned into an inferno of furnaces; hundreds insane; sympathy of nations; relief work of our people; contributions for the suffering from individuals, cities and congress; a nation's sympathy aroused.
