MARKET QUOTATIONS TODAY

"Make Salem a Good Home Market."

The first Logan berries of the season, in appreciable quantities, appeared on the market yesterday. The quality is good and the berries are selling readily at $1.50 per crate. The early varieties of cherries are now almost a thing of the past and the later varieties are not ripe. The Royal Annes and other late varieties will be on the market next week.

New potatoes are now getting well matured and the supply is good. Old potatoes are a drug and are scarcely wanted at any price. It is understood that there is a considerable quantity of old stock in the county and the farmers will probably have to feed them or throw them away.

A carload of the Mermaid brand of canteloupes will arrive from California early next week and while the prices will not be very low, they will be by no means prohibitive.

The final passage and was unanimously made a law.

A petition was read from the Fourth of July committee asking for the exclusive use of Marion square on the Fourth. The request was referred to the park board.

An ordinance regulating the erection of poles and the stringing of wires was introduced and referred to the committee on ordinances.

An ordinance was introduced amending the franchise ordinance of the Willamette Traction company permitting them to change the proposed route for their line to the following: Along Mill to High and High to Mill creek; thence along Broadway to Highland avenue, across Broadway and Highland additions. This was referred to the committee on ordinances.

A resolution was adopted allowing the Willamette Traction company to place a temporary track of two blocks for the purpose of carrying material from the Fairground station to the line of their proposed track. Charles McNary, attorney for the company, was before the body, and said that six carloads of steel rails were at the station now and could not be unloaded and taken to the right spot until this request was granted. There was no objection to the resolution.

A motion requiring the Southern Pacific company to remove the fence along the penitentiary switch was referred to the city attorney as to its legality.

Mr. Bayne—"All the railroad crossings in the city are in a fierce condition."

Mr. Downing—"The street committee is not asleep to that condition."
Mr. Bayne—"I suppose the committee is so busy on the South Commercial street matter, that they are excusable."

Another kick was registered about plumbers digging up the sidewalk crossings.

Mr. Downing explained that an ordinance was being prepared that would enable the committee to locate the fellows that do the damage and would punish them.

Mr. Bayne—"I think that if you will look to Mr. Downing, you will find that there is already an ordinance covering that."

A petition from the owners of Broadway addition offering a strip of land making Broadway the regulation width, was referred to the street committee.

A committee on the Elks' Skidoo asked for permission to fence off and use a part of State street during their festivities, which was granted.

Mrs. Edward Lamb presented a petition asking the city for $204.55 for caring for C. A. Wilson, who was quarantined at her boarding house, and for damages for her boarders being scared away.

Seven applications for liquor licenses were referred to the committee on licenses.

DIAMONDS.

If You Want to Make Them, Here Is the Process of Manufacture.

Would you like to know how to manufacture diamonds—real diamonds? The process is somewhat difficult, requiring time, patience and some outlay of money, but then consider the possible results! The diamond, we know, is simply carbon in a transparent crystalline form. It comes of humble parentage and is brother to the lump of coal.

Unlike easily crystallizable bodies, carbon is insoluble in all ordinary solvents, but molten metals will combine with it. Let the diamond maker choose iron for a solvent for charcoal, melting it in an electric furnace, allowing it to take up as much carbon as it can—in other words, saturate itself with carbon. The crucible containing the white metal should then be plunged into a bath of molten lead. The result will be that globules of iron will rise to the surface of the lead and are quickly cooled on the outer surface. Inside the hard crust the iron remains for some time in a molten condition, and as iron expands in solidifying the contents of these little globules receive a pressure unattainable by any other means. When the lead becomes solidified some bullets of iron will be found bonded up in the mass. Dissolve with some powerful acid the lead and then the iron, and a residue of carbonaceous matter will be found to contain tiny crystals—real diamonds. Any chemist with a well equipped laboratory can make diamonds in this way, but the largest of them will not be more than a fiftieth of an inch in diameter.
