Piano Recital.

A large and appreciative audience listened to the piano recital given at the Baptist church last evening by the pupils of Miss Margaret Fisher. The excellent manner and delightful touch with which the selections were rendered by the pupils, speak well indeed for the ability of Miss Fisher as a musician and teacher of rare merit. It would be futile to comment on the best numbers, suffice it to state that the pupils acquitted themselves with credit.

The program was as follows:

BANKS
LOSE
SUITHeirs of Late Robert Scott
Win in Final Settlement of the Estate

Judge Galloway, of the circuit court, rendered a decision this morning in a suit involving property to the amount of $45,000 or 50,000. The suit is that of John Scott and others against Chas. Scott and others, including Ladd & Bush, the Bank of Woodburn and Coolidge & McClane.

Robert Scott died in Marion county in 1897, and left his property to his children, share and share alike. The widow, Mrs. Ann Scott, was to receive, in lieu of a dower, an annuity of $500 annually, and one-third interest in the mill property at Woodburn.

At the time of his death Robert Scott held four promissory notes against the Oregon Land Company, aggregating $55,140, secured by mortgage on lands in Marion and Clackamas counties. Charles Scott was the administrator of the estate, and he brought suit to foreclose these mortgages, and the lands were sold by the sheriff in these counties. The Marion county property was sold for $11,500 and the Clackamas county property for $11,000.

It was brought out in the trial of this case that Charles Scott made these purchases, as administrator of the estate of Robert Scott, and bought the lands for the use and benefit of the estate. The banks named in the suit as co-defendants were creditors of Charles Scott, and they took action to possess the land involved, on the ground that the property was the personal holdings of Charles Scott.

Judge Galloway decreed that the widow should have one-third of the realty involved in the suit, and that the balance should be divided into five equal parts and distributed among the heirs. Charles Scott's part, in addition, is to contain certain dry houses, which the banks advanced money to build. The widow's annuity is to cease, and the costs are to be attached to the estate as a whole.

The court appointed as referees to carry out the terms of the decree John W. Roland, of Salem; Frank Fellows, of Woodburn, and Urban Fisher, of Mt. Angel.

The attorneys were H. J. Bigger and C. W. Corby for the plaintiff and W. H. Holmes and George G. Bingham for the defendants.

Other Decisions.

In the suit of E. B. Smith vs. W. S. Fry and wife, asking for the foreclosure of a mortgage, a decree was granted as asked for in the complaint, excepting the attorneys' fees were placed at $75.

In the suit of Mattie Kightlinger against E. M. Kightlinger, a decree was given allowing the plaintiff one-third of the property of the defendant. This suit hinges around two divorce suits. The parties in the litigation were divorced several years ago by a decree given by Judge Boise. They were remarried and again separated. In the decree given today by Judge Galloway another divorce is granted.

Here is the man who's beginning was small;
In fact in the start he had nothing at all.
He earned very little, but every pay day,
A dollar or two he put safely away.

In the Want Ads he read of a neat little store
He bought it—then sold—made a thousand or more.
He new bought a shop and built up a trade;
Then sold out again and a nice profit made.

He then bought a plant where he worked many men,
And soon made a fortune, then sold out again.
"I may be self made," he remarked, "but I had,
The very best partner; a Journal want ad."

C. W. Knowles.
Charles Wesley Knowles, one of the oldest and best-known hotel men of the Pacific coast, died in this city this afternoon, says the Telegram of Tuesday, after an illness of three months. He had been confined to his bed for several weeks, and the end was not unexpected.

The cause of death was a stroke of paralysis which he suffered in the latter part of April. Since then he has suffered other strokes, and before his death the paralysis had affected both sides of his body. When it finally reached the heart he passed away. His wife and daughter, who have been with him constantly since he suffered the first stroke, were at his bedside when death came.

Mr. Knowles was born in Northfield, N. H., 71 years ago, and came to the Pacific coast in 1854. After spending a few years in California, he came to Oregon and settled in this city. He opened the Oro Fino theatre on Stark street, which was the first theatre ever opened in Portland. Later he branched into the hotel business, and together with Al. Zeller opened the Clarendon Hotel, at First and Gilsen street.

In 1883 he left the Clarendon and went to Astoria, where he engaged in the canning business for a time. Returning to Portland, he managed the St. Charles and the Perkins Hotels for some years.

Eight years ago he and Phil Met-sehan opened the Imperial Hotel, and Mr. Knowles was identified with that institution until about a month ago, when he sold his interest to his partners, intending to retire and spend the rest of his days at his handsome home at Seaside. Illness prevented his going there, and he remained in this city.

He leaves a wife and daughter, Mrs. Frank B. Summerville, of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Mr. Knowles had many friends throughout Oregon and California, and was very popular.

NICANOR
TELLER OF TALES

"This was what he loved,—to fare forth at night and come upon some group about the fire; to begin his chant abruptly, in the midst of conversation; to see his listeners draw close and closer, gazing wide-eyed, half in awe; to sway them as the marsh winds sway the reeds. At times, when his sense of power shook him, he took a savage delight in seeing them turn, one to another,—simple-hearted children of moor and forest, whose emotions he could mould as a potter moulds his clay."

AND if you are a lover of old romance you will want to follow the adventures of Nicanor the story-teller, of the lord's daughter who forgot that he was a slave, and of Eldris, who loved him best. It is a novel for those of us who have not forgotten Scott and Kingsley and the nobler traditions of historical romance. It is especially commended to anyone who would like to forget for a time the hard commercial age in which we live.

"NICANOR, TELLER OF TALES," is a tale of Roman Britain, by C. Bryson Taylor, with beautiful illustrations in full color and other decorations by the Kinneys. It is just published, and your bookseller has it today.
