BUMPER HOP CROP

The Waterville Times: Continued dullness has to be reported in the hop market, both locally and in the primal sources, as business is at a standstill with brewers, and dealers not showing any interest. We hear of no important transactions on the local market, up-state or on the Pacific coast. Holders of stock are nominally firm in their views, but it is probable some slight concessions would be made, should any buyers appear. Crop news continues very good with conditions unchanged. Good growing weather has been reported in this state and the crop is coming along as well as can be expected. No change in prospects on the Pacific coast; weather continues favorable and everything promises a large yield unless something unforeseen develops later on. There is some talk of vermin from the Continental yards, but it is not thought to be serious. English advices are favorable, although the crop is still backward.

Hop Conditions in England.

Kentish Observer, May 31: Under the influence of the warm sunny weather of the past few days, the young bine has made good progress and now presents a fresh healthy appearance. The recent rains were very beneficial, and the attack of flea has subsided in most grounds. Prospects for this early period are generally fair but the bine has much to do yet to reach its average growth for the beginning of June.

We shall begin our usual plantation reports next week.

An unusual sight is to be witnessed at West Farleigh, on the main road from Maidstone to Paddock Wood. Owing to the bankruptcy of Mr. Lionel Fletcher, who was a large hop grower in the district, the hop poles, wire work and under ground pipes, tanks, etc., for washing the hops on a large acreage have been sold for the benefit of the creditors and taken away, while the hops on the land which, it is stated, has been put up to auction by the mortgagee and remains unsold, are running wild all over the ground, and the crop for this year, therefore, is entirely lost.

Supplies of really choice hops are practically exhausted, and the little trade doing is confined to medium qualities, which are saleable from 2 pounds 5 shillings to 3 pounds. Yearlings make about 2 pounds 5 shillings. California hops are quoted here at from 3 pounds 10 shillings to 4 pounds, the "corner" brought off at San Francisco having stiffened rates on this side.

Messrs. W. H. and H. LeMay, London, S. E., report:—During the past week there has been a very fair demand for English hops, the low prices ruling tempting those who have not stocked up, to do so.

Messrs. Manger and Henley, London, S. E., report:—The demand continues for good, useful, sound hops, which are scarce and difficult to meet with. Prices remain firm with a decided hardening tendency.

Worcester Hop Report.

Business remains in a very quiet condition and values show no quotable alteration, but consumers will seldom operate unless some concession is made. The heavy rains have caused the young bine to make better progress and a continuance of the present warm weather will soon enable arrears of growth to be made up. Fly has appeared.—J. H. Meredith & Co.

Hops in California.

In a letter from Santa Rosa the statement is made that Donovan and Jacks two leading dealers of that city, estimate the coming hop crop of California at 100,000 bales, placing the yield of Sonoma county at 40,000 bales. Last year California produced about 70,000 bales. No matter what the crop is this year, it will probably be an easy matter to pick it, with the large number of idle men at San Francisco.

MORE ROAD TALK

The Eugene Register of Wednesday says: In the absence of Mayor Wilkins Councilman Henderson presided at the postponed meeting of the council last evening. There were present Calkins, McCrady, Spencer, Garrett. No business was transacted with the exception of reading of a railroad ordinance, asking for a franchise on the streets of Eugene. This was introduced formally into the council by Alderman Calkins on behalf of Emery C. Dye, his associates and assigns. Mr. Dye read the instrument for the benefit of the council and herewith are some of the important provisions:

The road will connect with an interurban electric road terminating in Portland; a bond of $2000 will be posted to assure good faith, half of it to be forfeited in case construction does not commence before the expiration of a six months' limit; the company will pay the city one and one-half per cent of its gross earnings in the city; construction to begin within six months and completion made within eighteen months; time to Portland, two and a half hours.

These are the salient features of the ordinance and the council seemed favorably impressed with the same, as a whole. It provides further, for an opportunity for the city to purchase power rights from the company at some points on the McKenzie river, at such time as may be agreed upon.

This new interest in the franchise situation promises to enliven the matter while the M. P. A. is hustling their new ordinance together and before the thing is settled there will likely be enough excitement over railroads to stretch all the way down the valley.

Rumor has it that Mr. Black will resurrect his franchise from cold storage and after trimming off the decayed edges, will present it to the city council again, practically as good as new. With all these before the council and its advisers, there should be material sufficient to hold the attention of most of our citizens for the next four or five months. The more franchises the better, say the people of Eugene, and out of the general scramble for the right, something satisfactory to the most fastidious should develop.

Mr. Dye is the young man who was in this vicinity last week and located water rights up and down the raging McKenzie right and left and he talks like a promoter. Therefore his franchise must be re-regarded as at least formidable, since he seems to be in possession of the leading inducements so far submitted to the city fathers. Council will meet again Thursday night.

Played Good Ball.

The baseball matinee given on the University athletic field yesterday afternoon by the Rambler and Tribune baseball teams was by no means a triumph of harmony, but rather a keen and almost bitter struggle for supremacy. In the last inning a decision of the umpire caused some discord among the two rival camps of baseball tossers, and so strong was the feeling among the Polk county boys that they had been ill treated that they left the field after the game with such expressions as "you robbed us," "you did us dirt," etc. One of the players was seen after the game and said: "We have nothing against the Ramblers; it is the umpire we are after." In justice to the umpire it might be said that he endeavored to do his duty to the best of his ability, and to show no partiality whatever to either team. It was necessary, however, during the game to make some close decisions, which, in a way, decided the outcome of the contest. Both teams played good ball. In the third inning the Dallas Tribunes made two runs, and not until the seventh inning did the Ramblers have an opportunity to break the succession of goose eggs on the scorer's blackboard. Here it was that the locals rallied in splendid shape, and, by bunching their hits, brought in three tallies. Holman pitched a rattling good game, and Syron did some clever twirling for the Dallas team. In the eighth canto the Tribunes scored one on an error, and the score was tied.

In the eighth chapter, however, one of the Ramblers came sailing over the plate and victory perched on the local's banner.

Glass, who was playing at short for Dallas, is a wide-awake player, and picks up the batted sphere cleverly.

The attendance was not large.

Here is the lineup:

Ramblers,		Tribunes
Bashor	c	Baker
Holman	p	Syron (capt.)
Gabrielson	1b	Davis
Fleming	2b	Rice
Roberts	3b	Launer
Cazy	ss	Glass
Kay	cf	William
Dyer	rf	Morton
Perkins	lf	Ransay

The Slumberers.

They do not care, who sleep beneath the snow,
How wild the winds of wintry tempests blow;
It matters not to them the driving rain
Frets on the headstones like the tears of pain;
They heed not anything—in placid peace
They slumber in the city of Surcease!

They do not care, who sleep beneath the grass,
How tenderly the summer zephyrs pass;
It joys them not that valley lilies bloom
In saintly spotlessness above their tomb;
The cricket's cheering chirp, the warbler's psalm,
Intrude not on their everlasting calm.

They do not care, bless God, they do not care,
The grave-girt slumberers, for our despair;
For in their safe retreat we are forgot!
The passion of our pain disturbs them not,
Bless God for this! It comforts our distress
That our keen grief grieves not their blissfulness!
