Willamette Valley Traction Has Six Cars of Rails and Will Build Five Miles a Month

The work of constructing the temporary track on Broadway from the present car track to the building where the material is stored, was begun this morning by the Willamette Valley Traction Company. Six carloads of steel rails are on the siding at the fair grounds, and during the next two weeks enough material will arrive to complete five miles of the road. It is the intention of the company to have material for an additional five miles by August 1st, and material for an additional five miles ever month until the line is completed from this city to Portland. Sixty scrapers have been ordered to this city for the work of grading, and other equipment will be brought here as soon as possible.

J. Running, who is the agent of the company in securing the right of way, is in the city, and he says he believes the road will be well on toward completion before the end of the year.

X-RAYS

This is the longest day in the year, but it is far from being the hottest. ... Anyway, the country now knows what kind of a canal we are going to have in Panama. ... Congress gives Roosevelt as much for traveling expenses as Lincoln got in salary. However it is probable congress is preparing to raise its own wages. ... The jokelet in the Panama canal is the statement that it will be completed in eight years. It has taken two years and nearly $100,000,000 to find out the style of ditch we want.

Is Told to "Git."
Louis Harris and Rudolph Poustin, who were arrested last evening by Night Officer Busick, on the charge of trespassing, were this morning brought before Acting Police Judge F. A. Welch and fined. Poustin was fined $15 and paid his fine. Harris, the colored individual, who has become a nuisance, was admonished to leave town immediately, or serve a three-months' sentence. He decided to leave.

The two offenders were living in the Davenport house on Ferry street, without the consent of the owner.

WITNESS GREAT THROINGS

A Salem Christian Scientist Returns From Boston Gathering

Mrs. J. Q. Wilson was the first of the Salem party of Christian Scientists who attended the dedication of their new church at Boston to return, and relates to a reporter some very interesting points concerning the event. Over 20,000 Christian Scientists from all parts of the world were in Boston to attend this dedication, and it was probably the greatest religious gathering since the time of the crusades. The new building cost in the neighborhood of two million dollars, and this sum was raised by voluntary contributions among their own members, as is the rule with this denomination, and the bills were all paid before the structure was dedicated. It has a seating capacity of over 5000, and was filled to overflowing at the six separate services on the day of dedication. Many formed in line before daylight, to attend the 7 o'clock morning service, and thousands were standing in the sun all day, from morning until night, awaiting their turn to attend some one of the successive services.

The church itself is pronounced to be the finest in the world, notwithstanding it is not the most expensive. Many of the old artists from Europe, who were brought to Boston to do the decorative work, proclaim it as such, and they declared this gathering to be the greatest event of its kind in history.

The city of Boston provided 40 special policemen for the occasion, to handle the crowds, but all except two of these were discharged, and the police commissioners declared it to have been the most orderly throng that ever entered their city. Over 600 clerks were employed at the building taking care of the guests, as facilities of all kinds were provided in the building for their comfort. Telegraph offices, railroad offices, a large postoffice and information bureau, and all other manner of conveniences were provided in the place, and every visitor was supplied with information concerning all matters connected with the service, and with the city generally.

On the Wednesday following, the customary "experience meeting" was held at the mammoth new cathedral, but it was certain that this could not accommodate more than a small portion of the assembled visitors, and overflow meetings were provided in twelve other large public buildings, including Mechanics' Pavilion, Tremont Temple, Old South church. All of these were more than filled, and people turned away.

Mrs. Wilson says the whole affair was a continuous inspiration, and that no one who made the trip would have missed it under any circumstances.

Son—What is a Racycle?
Pa—That is the identifying mark of the best wheel made. It is best for speed, easy running, strength and—
Son—Does he have any other bicycles to sell?
Pa—Yes, he has the Yale, Cornell and the Princeton. They are the best wheels you can buy for the money.
Son—Does a Racycle cost very much?
Pa—No; it costs very little, if any more, than other so-called grade makes.
Son—I guess I will get my wheel of Moore.
Pa—That's right; always get the best, because the best is the cheapest. You will come to the same conclusion if you will consult Mr. Moore, who will be pleased to explain the many good qualities of his wheels, and repair your bike at a reasonable price.
