THE ANGORA INDUSTRY.

Mohair Pays Even Better Than Wool in Utah.

In several parts of Idaho experiments are being made in the raising of Angora goats and of late there have been some encouraging reports. Not long since Professor French of the State Agricultural college, imported a number of goats for experimental purposes. He has not had them long in charge but long enough to satisfy him that they can be raised profitably in Idaho, says the Boise Statesman.

The Angora goat is a hardy liver and a good climber, and the higher he can get on the rocky cliffs the better he seems to thrive. He flourishes in the hills and mountainous regions and picks up a good living where most other animals would soon starve to death.

Aside from the animal's value as a producer of mohair, kid meat is said to be superior to lamb. Pelts of full-grown Angoras make ideal floor rugs.

In connection with the experiments being made in Idaho, it is interesting to learn that there have also been experiments along the same line in Utah of a highly successful nature. The Desert Evening News of recent date says:

The first carload of mohair ever shipped out of Utah is moving east over the Rio Grande and Santa Fe, it being consigned direct to the mills in Maine. The shipment consists of 24,000 pounds, grown by Rock Hamblin of Kanab, and marks the dawn of a new industry in Utah.

Mohair, which is shorn from the backs of Angora goats, apparently is a better money maker than wool. While fashion and demand regulate the price, there is possibly not 1,000,000 pounds grown in the United States, all the rest utilized in the manufacture of slacks, plush and dress goods, is imported from Asia Minor and South Africa. Mohair has been sold as low as 25 cents a pound; it also has reached $1.25 a pound. As each goat shears three or four pounds, it can readily be seen that it has wool beaten as a source of revenue.

Rock Hamblin has a flock of 3000 Angora goats at Kanab, and they thrive better than sheep. His breeding stock were imported from South Africa and are the genuine article, in fact the Boer goats from the Karoo and the Transvaal are the finest to be found anywhere. Mr. Hamblin paid about $125 each for his bucks and imported them direct. On their arrival from South Africa he was compelled to pay close upon $500 each customs duty on the animals before they were sent west.

LAST WILD HORSES.

Herd of Fifteen of the Famous Mustangs Taken in Oklahoma.

What will go down in the history of Oklahoma as the last roundup of wild horses is the territory took place last week in the Two Circle pasture in the northwestern portion of Beaver county, says the Kansas City Star. A settler's horse ran away with a bunch of native wild mustangs and the owner offered $50 for the recovery of his horse. Wild

We Tell... We have nothing to conceal! No secrets to hide! We publish the formulas of all our medicines. You will find these in Ayer's Almanac for 1906. If you do not have a copy we will gladly send you one. Then show the formulas to your doctor. If he does not approve, then do not buy; if he approves, then buy, and keep these standard family medicines on hand.

Mustangs have been seen here ever since the country was known to white men. Perry Brite and "Con" Jackson, who had lost several horses, undertook a general hunt for their recovery. They took an outfit and put in all last week running down the mustangs and succeeded in catching the entire bunch of fifteen. Several days were given to chasing the horses to fire them out. As the tired ones began to straggle they were roped and hobbled or sidlined, and in this manner all were caught. The work animals soon gave up and were corralled.

The catch consists of eight wild mustangs and seven branded horses. When the hunt was over the mustangs were "necked" to the gentle horses and driven to Mr. Jackson's ranch without trouble. This feat closes the wild horse business in Beaver county. The land on which the chase took place is covered with the homesteads of new settlers.

State Institutions. Reports from the various state institutions were made yesterday to the boards of control. At the reform school, according to the report of Superintendent Looney, there are now 111 boys, and the expenditures for the quarter amounted to $4718.88, of which $2876.17 was paid out for salaries.

The report of Superintendent Calbreath, of the insane asylum for the month of June, shows that there were on May 31st 1406 patients at that institution, 960 of whom were males and 437 females. June 30th there were 966 males and 443 females at the asylum. The report says: "The general health of the patients is good. Most all of the patients are out in the yards for several hours each day during the fine weather, which causes them to be more quiet and better contented. Prospects are favorable for a good crop, in both field and garden. We are busy with the hay crop, and will start in cutting ensilage this week. Some improvements in the buildings were made during the month."

A Bride of a Few Weeks.

Perhaps the saddest of the announcements which the cable brought to relatives and friends in New York Monday was the message received by Judge Dugro from his daughter, Mrs. Frederick Cossett, stated briefly that death had ended her brief honeymoon, and that she would return to New York with the body of her husband. Attended by many of the supreme court judges of the city and persons prominent in New York's best society, the Cossett's wedding at the Hotel Savoy had been one of the most notable June nuptials. Miss Dugro was admired by a very large circle of friends, and her husband was one of the most popular men in Princeton. When the young couple sailed they were accompanied to the pier by many of those who attended the wedding.

What adds to the severity of the blow is the fact that Judge Dugro and his family were to sail tomorrow to join their daughter and son-in-law in London. All arrangements had been made for a trip on the Continent together, and Judge Dugro was expecting a message from his daughter announcing their safe arrival in London when the cable received telling of the catastrophe at Salisbury.

Preparing for Guests.

One who did not know San Francisco and California spirit would have said, looking upon the heaps of ashes which represented hundreds of beautiful homes and upon the tents in the parks and squares that San Francisco would have enough to do for many months to house her own homeless citizens. But this would betray an ignorance of climatic conditions. The summer months in San Francisco are absolutely rainless; heaving trade winds blow in from the west, keeping the temperature even, and the nights are cool, but not cold. In such a climate a few months under canvas is by no means a hardship, and people can well afford to "camp" while the debris is being removed, insurance matters adjusted, architect's plans matured and building materials assembled.

On the other hand, San Francisco is a world metropolis, in a very real sense a pivotal center through which flow perpetual streams of travel. These voyages by land and sea must be provided for. California wide and California hospitality alike demand that no man shall say truly, "I cannot go to San Francisco, because there is nowhere to stay."

No sooner were the flames controlled than the great hotels began to rent private residences to take care of the visitors who were already on their way to San Francisco, and also to keep together their help, for it is no light task to gather under one roof the hundreds of trained employees necessary for that smooth, machine-like running in every department, which is the sign of the most efficient first-class hotel. This, however, was only a temporary expedient, and the next step presents an interesting example of private enterprise and municipal co-operation based on a mutual desire for the city's future welfare. The Hotel St. Francis suffered the loss of all its interior furnishings in the great fire, but was otherwise unharmed. Several months must elapse before it can be refitted in its former style. To bridge over this interim permission was obtained from the city government to erect a temporary structure containing 200 rooms on the lawn of Union square. This classic building is now nearing completion. It stands amid the tropic palms and shrubbery of the beautiful park, with a central court from which rises the noble monument unveiled by President Roosevelt in honor of the naval victory of Manila Bay. The opening of this unique hostelry in the second week of July will be signalled by a gathering of all the men who put their shoulders to the wheel in troublous times and who look bravely and confidently to the future. No personal gain is to be made from the operation of the temporary Hotel St. Francis, but the management will donate all the profits to the board of park commissioners for the beautification of Union Square park. With such a spirit manifested, none need stay away, and San Francisco is ready to take care of all who come.—San Francisco Progress.

Education in Pennsylvania.

Altoona, Pa., July 3.—One of the most important state meetings of the Pennsylvania Educational association ever held opened here today at the Altoona High school for a three days' session. It is the fiftieth annual meeting of the state association, which comprises all the educational forces of the state, from the kindergarten to the university. The high school building, where the general and special meetings of the convention will be held is an entirely new structure of the most modern and improved type. The opening session was held this morning and there will be another session in the afternoon. In the evening there will be a celebration in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the association. President L. B. McGinnes of Steelton will preside and will deliver an address giving a review of the history of the association.

Among the important subjects which will be discussed at this convention are the following: "The Status of Child Labor in Pennsylvania;" Individual Instruction as a Supplement to Class Recitation;" Systematic High School Inspection by the State;" "The School as a Factor in Creating Civic Virtue;" "The Patriotism of Peace;" "Preparation in English for Promotion to High School;" "Preparation in English for Admission to College;" "The Influence of Music in Education;" "Foundations in Education;" "The Child's Part in Nature Study;" "The Relation of Nature Study to the Natural Sciences;" "The Scope of the High School Commercial Course;" "The Township High School and Its Problems;" "How to Study Children With Profit;" "How to Treat the Dull Child;" "How to Deal with the Child Abnormally Bright;" "The Manual Training High

STRANGE ADVICE!

Dr. C. G. Green gives special attention to his great Sarsaparilla contract. In our Almanac for many years past we have given unusual advice to those afflicted with coughs, colds, throat or lung troubles or consumption. We have told them if they did not receive any special benefit after the use of one 75-cent size bottle of German Syrup, to consult their doctor. We did not ask them to urge them to use a large number of bottles, as is the case in the advertising of many other remedies. Our confidence in German Syrup makes it possible for us to give such advice. We know by the experience of over 35 years that one recent bottle of German Syrup will speedily relieve or cure the worst coughs, colds, bronchial or lung troubles—and that, even in bad cases of consumption, one large bottle of German Syrup will work wonders. New trial bottles, 25c.; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. Sold in Salem by S. C. Stone.

School;" "A Concrete Study in Children's Language," and "Expression Through Activity."

Among the prominent educators who are in attendance and will read papers or deliver addresses are Dr. E. T. Jeffers, president York Collegiate institute; Lyman D. Gilbert, chairman of the Pennsylvania child labor committee; J. Horace McFarland, president of the American Civic association; Superintendent W. H. Maxwell, Greater New York; Professor Edward Rymearson, director of the Pittsburg High school; Mrs. Wm. McCracken, secretary of the Pittsburg & Allegheny Free Kindergarten association; George Parke Slinger, Lockhaven State Normal school; Professor George D. Robb, Altoona High school; Dr. Henry T. Colestock, of Bucknell university; Miss Mary J. Cooper, primary supervisor, Johnstown, and many others.

Negroes Want Annex to Exposition.

Washington, July 3.—The meeting of the Negro Young People's Christian and Educational congress, which was to have opened here today, has been postponed until the end of the month and it is expected that it will draw a large attendance from all parts of the country, particularly, of course, the south. This congress had its first meeting in Atlanta about two years ago. It was then pronounced as the largest convention of negroes that had ever assembled in this country. It is a non-denominational congress. The Rev. Dr. Bowen, Bishop Gaines and Professor I. Garland Penn, of Atlanta, Ga., are among the leading spirits of this convention. There were more than 25,000 delegates and visitors in attendance at Atlanta and it is expected that there will be fully 30,000 in attendance when the congress meets on the last day of this month. An effort will be made to secure the concession for an Afro-American annex to the proposed Jamestown exposition.

Pain Wears Out the Nerves.

Do you realize that pain is weakening, and exhausts your vitality? Don't you remember how completely worn out you felt after that last attack of headache, neuralgia, backache, periodical or other spell of suffering? Nearly every case of inflammation, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy and insanity is directly due to the weakening influence of pain upon the brain nerves? For this reason every one who suffers from pain of any kind should not fail to get relief as quickly as possible.

You can do this by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills—others do.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for years, and can say they have never failed. I always keep them in the house. In fact I had rather be without sugar than the Pills. Previous to using them I had always suffered with sick headache, sometimes being in bed for three and four days. I had tried nearly everything I ever heard of, but after a short time the effect would wear off. It is five years now since I began taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the results are as good as at first."

MRS. W. H. MARSHALL, Sopris, Colo. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by the first druggist who will guarantee that if it fails, he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
