COUNCIL WILL BUILD REINFORCED CEMENT BRIDGE

City Fathers Transacted Only Routine Business at Monthly Meeting of Council Last Night

Mr. Downing, the chairman of the street committee, and Alderman John Bayne of South Salem, cracked merry and ribald jests at each other and merrily and jauntily smiled at each other across the glittering horseshoe at the meeting of the city council last night.

Councilman Jacob of North Salem made only one set speech and as he very skillfully advocated both sides of the question with religious impartiality, no replies were evoked.

Mayor Waters sent a telegraphic message with his face to the bunch, which read like this: "Do your worst; I'll not molest you."

The committee on the dog ordinance reported unfavorably and canine legislation was set aside for the present.

A favorable report was made on the cement ordinance.

The committee on streets reported on the matter of opening, graveling and grading Pine street and on motion of Mr. Jacob the city attorney was advised to set the wheels of the law in motion.

This is Mr. Jacob's pet measure. He dotes on it just as Mr. Bayne did on the South Commercial street matter. It went through with a whoop.

Then the ill-starred, much discussed and cursed South Commercial street problem came up. It is needless to relate that the debaters were Councilmen Downing and Bayne. Mr. Downing said that the contractors had completed 2344 lineal feet of the work, which was 45 per cent of the total, and recommended a draw of some $645.

Mr. Bayne—"Mr. Mayor, what is a lineal foot? How can a lineal foot of paving be so much on one side of the street and a different distance on the other? That's a funny kind of lineal foot to me."

Mr. Downing—"The work is completed further on one side of the street than it is on the other and we struck the average. That's all."

Mr. Bayne—"Oh."

The mayor put the motion to adopt the report and it was carried with a whoop.

Then Mr. Downing, chairman of the street committee, reported that the $300 appropriated for work on the fair ground road was nearly gone and he asked for $400 more. Mr. Bayne saw him that $300 and called him. Mr. Bayne had four aces and a pair of jacks. Mr. Downing had a bob-tailed flush and he got the $400.

It was during this nerve-racking scene that jokelets passed between the leaders of the two sides of the house. Mr. Bayne said some city officers had not paid their poll taxes and Mr. Downing said that Bayne had not paid his. Bayne said he didn't have the money the first time he was hit, but he had paid it since.

It was here that Bayne had a lead-pipe cinch. The motion to appropriate money could not pass without his vote and he was begged to withdraw his motion to refer the request for money. Here Mr. Jacob did the Henry Clay peace-making act and spoke on both sides. Mr. Bayne agreed to support the $400 motion if Mr. Downing would put the whole business in writing so that a record might be kept.

The compromise was effected. Seven liquor licenses were granted. Five of these were for Jack Rogers and the others were to Butte and Wendroth and Bach & Naderstank.

The Misses DeGuire were granted permission to erect a small woodshed within the fire limits.

The committee on bridges reported that the plans and specifications for a reinforced concrete bridge over Mill creek on North Commercial street were ready. The plans call for a 40-foot span, for changing the current of the creek, for a guaranty bond of 50 per cent of the cost from the contractors and that the work shall be completed within three months. The committee was instructed to advertise for bids. The estimated cost is $9000.

The bill of Mrs. Elizabeth Lamb came up. Mrs. Lamb was conducting a boarding house when one of the inmates was quarantined there with the smallpox. She alleged that this broke up her business. Her bill had previously been reported to the committee on health and police, which reported adversely.

The report of City Treasurer Meredith showed the following financial condition:

Balance on hand March 31	$12,096.00
Receipts since	23,583.49
Total	$35,679.49
Disbursements	15,817.79

These balances are in funds as follows:

South Com'l street imp	115.62
State street fund	2,275.99
Oak street fund	131.14
Sewer fund	50.14
Street improvement fund	284.46
Court street fund	142.97
Less overpaid	117.63
Net balance	$19,861.70

Charles L. McNary, attorney for the Willamette Traction Company, came before the council and asked permission to amend the proposed ordinance for granting the traction company a franchise over High street. The members of the committee said they were not ready to make a report, as they had not concluded their investigations on the merits of the question. The committee was granted further time.

Bids were opened for the construction of two bridges over Mill creek, at State and Twenty-fifth streets. C. E. Royal & Son's bid was $777.58 and W. H. Dalrymple's bid was for $630. The bids were referred to the committee on bridges, with power to act.

To the bridge committee was also referred a bid for ??? for the city's part of the work done on the Willamette river bridge.

The captain of the Salvation Army was granted the concession to run an ice cream booth at Commercial and Chemeketa streets on the Fourth of July.

The Warren Construction Company was granted an extension of 30 days on their contract on South Commercial street.

The bridge committee was given power to act in connection with the county courts of Polk and Marion counties relative to painting the steel bridge over the Willamette river.

Application for license to sell liquors were asked for by Baum Bros., J. C. Cooper and William Anderson. The applications were referred.

A petition and a resolution looking to the paving of State street from Commercial to Church, were read to the council, and, after some discussion, were left over to be considered at a special meeting of the council Thursday evening.

Three ordinances were passed on their first reading. These were:

Bill to provide for a pound master.

Bill to tax second-hand dealers.

Bill to regulate the grading of street surfaces.

Portland After a Brute.

Determined to do all in its power to cause the arrest of the fiend who has been assaulting little girls in various sections of the city the past few weeks, the county court this morning offered a reward of $250 for the arrest of the criminal. There will be no quibbling, it is said, over the payment of this reward upon the conviction of the fiend.

The question of offering the reward was brought before the court by Commissioner W. L. Lightner, and his suggestion was heartily endorsed by Judge Webster and Commissioner Frank Barnes. Every effort will be made by Sheriff Stevens and his deputies to capture the miscreant.

Just Open Doors.

The Y. M. C. A. will not have a float in the parade, as first planned, but will instead throw its doors open to visitors, and the entire building will be offered by the association as a rest room where the visitors from the country and neighboring points will have an opportunity to rest and to clean up after the dusty ride from their homes to Salem. There will be plenty of ice water on tap to quench the thirsty ones, and the bath rooms will also be turned over to the visitors. Nothing will be more welcomed to the visiting crowds than this courtesy on the part of the Y. M. C. A., which will have a special committee to wait upon the people. The mothers who have little children will appreciate such a place, where they can rest to their heart's content.

THE STORY OF CLASSIFIED TOWN

XVI.

In Classified Town there resided a man, Who was built on the "never advertise plan." His methods were ancient, so was his store, And business was rushing—past the door.

He couldn't pay bills, and was forced to fail And his business wound up in an auction sale. On the classified page folks were apprised Of the date of the sale, it was there advertised.

The crowd filled the store, and the bidding ran high, And the bankrupt remarked, as he stood idly by, "Although it's too late, my error is plain; From a word of advice I cannot refrain.

"If you wish success in an up-to-date way, Use Journal want ads, you'll find it will pay." (To be continued tomorrow.)

gestions was heartily endorsed by Judge Webster and Commissioner Frank Barnes. Every effort will be made by Sheriff Stevens and his deputies to capture the miscreant.

At the Edison Theatre.

Last night at the Edison theatre the Brigham-Cooper Stock Company presented the great patriotic drama entitled "For the Red, White and Blue." The audience was very appreciative, and the production was high class. Mr. Charles Caulkins, as the Confederate spy, played a hard part, and gave an excellent performance. Mr. Percy Brigham was the heavy villain again this week, and played his part with his usual ease and grace. The comedy interests of the play are looked after by Miss Gershal and Mr. Chas. Marston, and last night's performance caused many a laugh. Tomorrow being Fourth of July, the Edison will give a continuous show, starting at 2 p. m. and ending at 11 p. m. This is arranged for in order to accommodate the large crowds of people that are expected here tomorrow. The admission prices will remain the same, 10 and 20 cents.
