TERRIER SAVED MASTIFF

"Talked" to the Purser on the Undine Until He Got the Deck Hands to Follow Him

The following story of canine affection and sagacity comes from Vancouver:

How a little ragged fox terrier saved the life of a powerful mastiff over at Vancouver the other day is told by the crew of the steamer Undine.

Although having nothing in common, from size to pedigree, the dogs were great chums. They hid aloof from the companionship of common curs. It is said that no two college boys were ever more inseparable than they.

One of their favorite pastimes was a daily plunge in the river. Whenever they became too fatigued in the sport of chasing floating sticks and carrying them ashore, they would crawl out on the beach and lazily bask in the sunshine. When rested, new suggestions entered their canine minds and started them out afresh to lead frolicking lives. If one got into trouble, or "bit off more than he could chew," the other invariably helped him out.

So their routine and checked career ran on joyously and free of unusual adventure until last Monday. That something out of the ordinary had then occurred was seen when the fox terrier, agitated and bristling with excitement, came tearing along by the dock at which the Undine was making a landing. He ran in front of Purser Malmquist, looked up at him with beseeching eyes and barked with all his might. If ever a dog talked he did. Then he ran back for a distance of 100 yards and followed a path leading to a point underneath the dock. Seeing that he was not followed, and evidently thinking his speech had not been made sufficiently clear, he returned and again began to "talk" to the purser.

The terrier was so earnest that a number of the crew followed him. Underneath the dock he took them to the big mastiff, which was lying a helpless prisoner and nearly drowned. While swimming ashore from his morning's plunge one of his front paws got caught in the crevice of a piling. Try as he would he could not extricate himself. The water was deep and he had become so exhausted in his effort to regain freedom that it was all he could do to keep his head above the surface. When released it was necessary to carry him ashore.

"The terrier never took his eyes off us," said one of the rescue party "When we saved his big friend and started to go about our business, he barked out the finest kind of thanks to us I ever heard. Then he gave full attention to his sick chum."

Patent Medicines.

A man that compounds or invents something that is just a little better than the next best thing, is certainly entitled to the best share of the profits to be derived from the sale of the article. So he patents or copyrights to protect his interests. Patented goods are good goods, poor goods are never patented. We have twenty years of trial behind us to give us the assurance that we have the best medicine compounded for the cure of dyspepsia, sick headache, biliousness, indigestion and all stomach disorders. We protect the public as well as ourselves by keeping the formula a secret, as long as we make it we know it is made right and it cures these diseases. Druggists tell us that it is the one medicine that the sale is ever on the increase. To get the best remedy for dyspepsia or indigestion ask the druggists for Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills, price 25c per box; only one for a dose.

Croup.

Is a violent inflammation of the mucous membrane of the wind pipe, which sometimes extend to the larynx and bronchial tubes; and is one of the most dangerous diseases of children. It almost always comes on in the night. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup and apply Ballard's Snow Linctum externally to the throat. 25c, 50c and $1. For sale by D. J. Fry.

THE FOURTH AND THEN CHERRIES

The Cherry Meeting Will be the Gratest and Most Interesting Ever Held in Oregon

The mid-summer meeting of the State Horticultural society, which will be held here July 6 and 7, promises to be the most enthusiastic in the annals of the society. Practically the entire session will be given to the study and consideration of the cherry industry, and a large number of growers from different sections of the state will be in attendance at this meeting. Through the liberality of many of the Salem business firms, premium cups have been offered for the various varieties of cherries. The prizes offered are as follows:

First prize, for ten-pound box, commercial pack—Lambert cherry, cup valued at $10, donated by H. S. Gile & Co.; Bing cherry, cup valued at $10, donated by Capital Commission Co.; Royal Anne cherry, cup valued at $10, donated by Pacific Homestead; Deacon cherry, cup valued at $10, donated by Wallace Orchard; Black Republican cherry, cup valued at $10, donated by Oregon Nursery; Hoskins cherry, cup valued at $10, donated by E. W. Spencer.

Second prize, for ten-pound box, commercial pack—Lambert cherry, cup valued at $6, donated by Jas. R. Shepard; Bing cherry, cup valued at $6, donated by Roth & Graber; Royal Anne cherry, cup valued at $6, donated by E. T. Barnes.

First prize for thirty-pound box, commercial pack—Any variety, cup valued at $10, donated by Salem Brewing association.

First prize, best assortment of named varieties on plates—Cup valued at $10, donated by Capital National bank.

Second prize, best assortment named varieties, on plates—Cup valued at $6, donated by Oregon Nursery Co.

First prize, unnamed seedling of merit, on plates—Cup valued at $10, donated by Ladd & Bush.

Second prize, unnamed seedling of merit, on plates—Cup valued at $6, donated by Oregon Nursery Co.

First prize for best display of fruits of all kinds on plates—Cup valued at $10, donated by Barr's Jewelry store.

The display of cherries if judged by present indications will be the finest ever seen in the Capital city. Not only are local growers taking an active interest in the exhibit, but cherries have been received from Hood river and points in southern Oregon, which will be entered for competition.

The premium cups arrived yesterday afternoon and were put on exhibition at Barr's Jewelry store. The cups are of exquisite design and will be prized highly as souvenirs by those fortunate enough to win them.

The Grand Opera house has been secured as the place of meeting and to make an exhibit of roses and other flowers.

The meeting will open Friday, July 6, at 1 p. m., and Saturday morning the horticulturists will see the sights in and about the city as the guests of the Oregon Nursery company.

A Tragic Finish.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous leak, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth Melver, of Vancouver, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at J. C. Perry's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Umatilla Fishing Poor.

The East Oregonian of Pendleton has this to say concerning former Salem boys: "A party consisting of C. E. Troutman, Clarence Penland and Claud Penland have just returned from a fishing trip on the Umatilla above Bingham Springs. They caught many fish while there, but say that fish are not as numerous in the river as last season, the shortage being attributed either to the irrigation dams west of here, or to the flood. Between Bingham Springs and the station fishing is not good now owing to the large amount of blasting that has been done in repairing the wagon road along the river."
