HOW TO LOOK KINGISH.

The new king of Norway is probably the best type of what it takes to look like a kinglet.

His hair is thin on top. His moustache has the Emperor William twist at both ends. His ears are pasted close to his head, set well back at the bottom angle. FOR IN THESE DAYS EVEN KINGS MUST KEEP CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

Of course to look kingish one must wear a military coat, close buttoned up, with a dog-collar and gold braids.

Then the kinglet must be cheery, his bosom properly swelled out in front, and hung with badges and bangles like a patent medicine sign stuck all over a Publican river bridge.

There is really nothing prettier than a properly gotten up kinglet.

OF COURSE, THE TIME WILL COME WHEN ALL THESE LITTLE "ME-UND-GOD" RULERS WILL PASS AWAY.

It will be when the people of any country are sturdy and fit for self-government.

There are many people who would fall down and worship a kinglet even in this country, because they have some of that in their own make-up.

BUT THE GREAT BULK OF AMERICANS HAVE DEVELOPED BEYOND THAT POINT, and have no use for monarchic kings, bosses or aristocracy of any kind whatsoever.

Still many so-called Americans want to marry their daughters to them.

While driving the delivery wagon for his father, who has a grocery store in Chastokan, Monsieur McKiel, aged 16, was fatally injured by being kicked in the chest by a horse he was driving. He expired a short time after being injured, without regaining consciousness. The horse became unruly, and while endeavoring to stop it the animal kicked the dashboard, injuring the boy.

A Tragic Finish.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at J. C. Perry's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Crop Weather Bulletin.

The week was variable, both as regards temperature and rainfall. The first two days were cloudy, and cooler than usual, but no rain of consequence. During Wednesday, Thursday and Friday showers were frequent and nearly all portions of the state received some rain; the showers were heaviest in the northwestern counties. During this period several thunderstorms occurred in the northeastern counties, and the temperatures everywhere were below the normal during the daytime and about normal at night. The last three days were clear and the temperature rose rapidly. A hot spell set in Sunday, which continued to the end of the week, with temperatures between 90 and 95 degrees in all portions of the state except the coast counties.

The Gnat, but No Camel.

The fish warden's report shows that the sum of $1047.50 was collected and $704.59 expended, all of which went to the fish hatcheries except $1261.27, which was absorbed by the warden and his deputies. The horse doctor notes an item on the credit side of the ledger of $16.66, one-third of the fine against Joe Fink of Coquille for permitting sawdust to be discharged into the creek. He did not see anything about any of the numerous dams owned by big corporations which absolutely prevent salmon ascending the streams, and thus kill more fish in one season than have been killed or even made sick since Noah built the ark. The hatcheries are all right, but why hatch fish that can't get back to the place of their hatching again?

Brownson's Fleet to China

New York, July 5.—Steps have been taken by the navy department to put the Pennsylvania and the Colorado pig in commission for a long tour of duty on the China station. Not only will the engineering and firework outfits of the ships be thoroughly overhauled and restored, but there will be a material change in the mechanism of the turbines and in the location of the electrical fixtures on board the ships, especially those connected with and situated on the walls of the turbines. It is proposed, in the first place, to minimize the chances of accident as a result of sparks from any of the electrical fittings, as was the case on board the Kearsarge. It will cost about $1000 to make the changes by covering the fixtures or removing them to places outside the turbines. The alterations in the turret mechanism are regarded as necessary in conforming to a policy now adopted of decreasing the speed of the turret. It was once considered wise to be able to turn a turret as rapidly as possible; now the most efficient result is to keep the turret from turning except slowly, the idea being to keep the gun trained on the target. This principle will be applied to the Pennsylvania and the Colorado during the overhauling in anticipation of their departure from the Atlantic station about August 15, with the West Virginia and the Maryland, for the Asiatic station.

Canned Vegetables for the Army.

Washington, July 5.—Commissary General Sharpe of the army is in receipt of some important reports from officers in the Philippines and in Alaska on the value of canned potatoes and canned onions of a new type, sent out for practical experiment in the field with the idea that they would afford a suitable substitute for the desiccated vegetable, and where the fresh vegetables were not obtainable.

The idea is one which was put into trial by General Sharpe shortly after he became the head of the subsistence department, and he is gratified with the generally favorable comment made by the officers who conducted the tests, and the report that the canned vegetables are palatable and will be very acceptable, especially in the Philippines. The canned potatoes were used baked, fried and boiled, and the canned onions were fried with the potatoes, and also with meat, and both were used in a meat stew. The reports show that the canned vegetables are a worthy substitute for the fresh articles and will be of material benefit to the troops. There would be a saving of loss from decay, provided the canning were properly done, and this full vegetable ration, a necessity in the tropics, would be thereby insured. In Alaska the results of the tests were not so satisfactory as is indicated by the reports from the Philippines, this probably being due to the difference in the temperatures and climates. But in Alaska it is realized that there may be a material saving in the vegetable ration by the use of the canned potatoes and onions, provided, of course, the canning can be done at a reasonable cost.

Castro Resumes Presidency.

Caracas, Venezuela, July 5.—President Castro, who retired from the position of president of Venezuela more than two months ago, today resumed the duties of his office, relieving Vice President Gomez, who had assumed the duties of the president during the latter's retirement. It is understood that

Hurry and Worry

Hurry, like a cyclone, whirls you along at a rate that quickly exhausts your energy, and leaves you a nerveless, wretched, broken-down physical wreck.

Worry accomplishes the same results in another way. It drags you through the dark, gloomy tunnel of forbodings, wrecks your nerves and breaks down the constitution.

Then don't hurry; don't worry. But you will; and your nerveless, exhausted condition brings headaches, neuralgia, heart, stomach, liver and kidney troubles. The thing to do is: Strengthen the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nerveine.

"Six months I was bedfast with nervous prostration. I had sinking spells, a cold, clammy feeling, couldn't stand the slightest noise. At times I would almost fly to pieces; stomach very weak. My husband insisted on my taking Dr. Miles' Nerveine, and I began to improve before I had finished the first bottle, and to-day I am entirely cured." MRS. JOSEPH SNYDER, 234 Hudson St., Tiffin, O. Dr. Miles' Nerveine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
