BUSY AT FAIR GROUNDS

More activity is in evidence on the state fair grounds than has ever been seen before since the organization of the Oregon State Agricultural Commission. There are more race horses on the grounds being trained and exercised than ever before, and the race meet promises to be the biggest and best ever held on the Pacific coast.

A large gang of prisoners from the state penitentiary are at work on the grounds, and will be kept there until the entire premises are in perfect condition. New fences are being built from the Southern Pacific railroad almost to the opposite side of the enclosure, and those, as well as all the buildings, pavilion, etc., will be painted. All the stables and cattle sheds are receiving a coat of whitewash, and the trees in the park are being treated in the same manner.

The commissioners have reason to believe that the different counties in the state are going to send more and larger exhibits of their products than they have been doing on former occasions, and the aggregation of live stock and farm products will be the largest and best ever seen in the state.

Exhibitors in the different counties have been notified that it will be advisable to send in all exhibits that are not perishable, with the end in view that they may be sent to the Jamestown exposition, and this will be the cause of great care taken in arranging some of the exhibits.

SHAW SCHOOL HOUSE

Still Stands on the Old Site Though Subject of Dispute for Twelve Years

The history of the controversy over moving the school house in Dist. No. 80, known as the Keene or Shaw school house, extends over a period of 12 years. The building was erected in 1872, and is located 120 rods from Shaw station. The effort has been to move it 140 rods west therefrom. This effort to move the school house was resisted by the farming portion of the community.

At a school meeting 12 years ago the first effort at removal was made. This was defeated at the school meeting by a two-thirds vote. January 27, 1906, a meeting was called for the purpose of procuring a site and erecting a house thereon at Shaw. This effort was voted down. The Shaw people wanted a larger school house, to employ two teachers and to promote the development of their township. The advocates for the old site were willing to build a new school house and support a school with two teachers, exactly the same in every respect as the Shaw people wanted, but claimed it was more convenient for the district at large on the old site.

The special meeting of February 10 was called for the purpose of making provision to erect a school house on the new site. The progressive element carried the meeting February 10. The advocates of the old site were not satisfied, and called another meeting March 10th, when the vote was reversed, and it was decided to build on the old site. This was a knockout for the Shaw people. The Shaw people were not satisfied, and sued the school board on the ground that they had shut out legal voters. The school board claimed they were excluded because their names did not appear on the last assessment roll. The contention of the Shaw people was set aside in the justice court at Salem, and on appeal to the circuit court it has been decided against them by Judge Burnett. Another suit was brought by the Shaw people on a writ of review, which was sustained by Judge Galloway, and the board of directors have appealed to the supreme court. With the writ of review, the Shaw people secured an injunction and restraining order, to prevent the erection of a new school house on the old site. Pending the decision of this matter by the supreme court, the litigation will rest, and there is peace in the troubled waters of school district No. 80. The whole controversy has been conducted in a good-natured manner, neighbors taking different views of their rights under the school laws of the state. It is expected when it is tried out every one will acquiesce in the decision, and peace and harmony will prevail.

Straight Dinner Comes in Again.

(New York Press.)

London society has taken to dining without the aid of an orchestra, and those gifted with garrulity will now have a chance to hold forth undisturbed in the "musical restaurant." Music and dining are incompatible, say the enthusiasts of this latest fad. For a long time society has had to be content with something besides food, no matter how elaborately or floridly served, to get it to attend a dinner, and music was considered an essential attribute to these entertainments. Now, however, the straight dinner has come in again. Doubtless it is a relief to have a chance to converse in a normal tone, but it is doubtful if London does without music on a compromise of some sort for long.

Baseball Players and Foot Racers!

Louis J. Kruger, ex-champion long-distance foot racer of Germany and Holland, writes, October 27, 1901: "During my training of eight weeks' foot races at Salt Lake City, in April last, I used Ballard's Snow Liniment to my greatest satisfaction. Therefore, I highly recommend Snow Liniment to all who are troubled with sprains, bruises or rheumatism." 35c, 50c and $1. Sold by D. J. Fry.

STILL SHOOT AT MARK

Soldier Boys Are Leading a Warm and Strenuous Life, Making Good Scores

"Camp Willamette" is still a scene of animation. From early morning till 7:15 the contest for the highest individual score was held, on the 800 and 1000 yard ranges.

The men making some of the highest scores are:

- A. J. Rayle 141
- A. A. Schwarz 140
- G. C. Spencer 138
- G. E. Upton 135
- W. McCormick 133
- H. C. Maxwell 133
- R. L. White (Salem) 132
- G. E. Hanck 132
- B. Beard 129

At supper time the camp was honored by the presence of Governor Chamberlain, Captain Frank Settlemeier of Woodburn, and Lieutenant H. L. Knapp of Portland. The governor made a speech congratulating the officers and members of the Oregon National Guard on the great interest which is being taken by the state militia in marksmanship, and especially in this annual event for the state trophy cup. He expressed the hope that the Oregon team that would go to Sea Girt, New Jersey, would be even stronger than that of last year and would do credit to the great state they represent. In a few well chosen words he presented the state cup to the members of Company "D," of Roseburg, who were successful in wresting it from Company "M," of this city. Captain Hamblin responded briefly but feelingly.

The officers also had a shoot, however, was not in the schedule of the official program of the tournament. Captain R. O. Scott, of Portland, proved high man, scoring 25 points.

Today's exhibition will consist of skirmish fire at the 600 and 200 yard ranges. In this contest each is allowed 20 rounds of ammunition. The medals will be awarded to those making the highest score.

Last evening a goodly number from Salem were visitors at the camp and all seemed to enjoy their stay among the soldier boys.

Cheerfully Recommended for Rheumatism.

O. G. Higbee, Danville, Ill., writes, Dec. 2, 1901: "About two years ago I was laid up for four months, with rheumatism. I tried Ballard's Snow Liniment; one bottle cured me. I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering from like affection. 25c, 50c and $1. For sale by D. J. Fry.

Forest Grove Man Owns Famous Cow.

It is reported that a cow, owned by Riley Boyd, at Forest Grove, during the month of May gave 999 pounds of milk, worth at the market price $18.50. The cow, it appears, is of humble birth and breeding and no pedigree is submitted with the account of her wonderful performance recorded in May. She will be made nationally famous by the traffic department of the Harriman lines, which will print in its literature an account of her wonderful performance, and send it broadcast over the country to show the possibilities in the dairying business in Oregon.

Indigestion.

With its companions, heart burn, flatulence, torpidity of the liver, constipation, palpitation of the heart, poor blood, headache and other nervous symptoms, sallow skin, foul tongue, offensive breath and a legion of other ailments, is at once the most widespread and destructive miasma among the American people. The Herbine treatment will cure all these troubles. 50c bottle. For sale by D. J. Fry.

Stoolie Files His Bond.

Every man on the $50,000 official bond of State Treasurer-elect George A. Stoolie, is a Multnomah county politician of the Simon pure branch of the faith. Mr. Stoolie filed his bond in the governor's office this morning. The sureties are: J. Thornburn Ross, Louis G. Clarke, J. H. Peterson, J. W. Cook, M. B. Rankin, Wallace McCamant.

Croup

Is a violent inflammation of the mucous membrane of the wind pipe, which sometimes extend to the larynx and bronchial tubes; and is one of the most dangerous diseases of children. It almost always comes on in the night. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup and apply Ballard's Snow Liniment externally to the throat. 25c, 50c and $1. For sale by D. J. Fry.

FATHER U'REN IN TOWN

Promoter of the Initiative and Referendum and Direct Primary

W. S. U'Ren, inventor and discoverer of the initiative and referendum, is in the city today trying a case in the circuit court. He is very well satisfied with the outcome of his labors in promoting the direct nomination, direct election of senators and direct law-making amendments to the constitution of Oregon. He said to a reporter that he was much better satisfied with work along the line of establishing organic principles than in the office-seeking end of practical politics. Mr. U'Ren says the commonwealth is getting along very well, and if we only make a little progress every year a great deal has been gained. He thinks the legislature that has been chosen will be entirely devoid of the grafting disposition so manifest in the past, and if it is not the referendum will be invoked against it, and will not be let go by default, as it was this time.

WHY MAKE SUNDAY A DAY OF GLOOM?

The Dominion of Canada is governed on the British plan, with a dummy governor-general, corresponding to the crown, and the real authority lodged in parliament, with a cabinet or ministry at its head. This ministry is known as "the government," and it seems to have been drinking copiously from the fountainhead of the old Blue Laws of Connecticut. It has fathered one of the most severe of Sabbatarian bills, and ministerial responsibility for the measure makes it almost certain to become a law. This bill prohibits on Sunday all games or sports to which admission is charged, and all business, even the sale of foreign newspapers, is forbidden. All pleasure excursions are barred. Freight trains must not move, unless under way when the Sabbath begins. But through passenger trains are excepted, and also certain work classed as necessary.

It is probable that this measure suits a large majority of the Canadians. There is little that may be called cosmopolitan in the dominion, its people being generally provincial in their ideas. With the exception of the French population of the Province of Quebec, the views of the Canadians regarding the Sabbath are commonly narrow and puritanical. Hence the disposition of the majority, as evidenced by this bill, to force their ideas of Sunday observances upon the minority. Should the measure pass in its present stringent form, it would in all probability do more harm than good. But to a large extent it would be disregarded in many communities, where public sentiment would not support its enforcement. This would be especially the case in the Province of Quebec, where what is known as the "continental" view of Sunday praysals. The French Canadians are Catholics, and their church does not interdict harmless sports or recreation on the Sabbath, provided religious duties be first observed. This is the view generally prevalent in the United States, among all classes, whether Protestant or Catholic, save in New England and some other parts of the nation.

The notion that piety may be promoted by making Sunday a day of solemnity and gloom, repressing all pleasure and amusement, and even interdicting secular music and the publication and reading of newspapers, is irrational as well as narrow. Far from disposing of the minds of the young to religion, it makes them dread the coming of Sunday and rejoice when it is gone, as they would in the passing of an eclipse. People cannot be better or more pious by Sunday laws, and the result of attempted Sabbath repression of things in themselves innocent is invariably bad.—Sacramento Bee.

Newer Wore the Same Suit Twice.

(New York Times.) On $15 a week Harry H. Forsyth, assistant treasurer of Proctor's 125th street theater, was the Beau Brummel of Harlem for a time. He never wore the same suit of clothes twice in succession, it is said. Now he is in the toils, held in $2000 bail, on a charge of stealing $440 and withholding 550 theater tickets. Central office detectives appeared as complainants against him in the police court, where he pleaded guilty. He was held for further examination.

AT WORK ON THE ROAD

Men and Teams Put at Work as Fast as They Can be Procured

Work on the new line of the Willamette Valley Traction Company, between this city and Portland, has actually begun, and there seems to be little doubt that cars will be running between Salem and the Indian Training school at Chemawa by the opening of the season, September 10th. A considerable number of men and teams were put to work yesterday on Broadway, in North Salem, and this morning the number, both men and teams was augmented by several additional gangs.

Contractor Tiffany is giving employment to all the laborers he can procure, and is hiring all the teams he can. Owing to the scarcity of teams he put a ten-horse power traction engine into commission yesterday to do a scraper. If a sufficient number of men cannot be secured in this vicinity to complete the work in time, help will be brought from Portland, Seattle and San Francisco.

Just as fast as the grading is done ties are laid and the rails put in place. There has already been several hundred feet of track laid, and by the time the men quit work tonight a considerable section of road will be completed.

The Traction Company people say that they have no intention of quitting the work when the line to Chemawa is complete, but the work will be rapidly pushed until cars are running all the way from Salem to Portland.

Real Estate Changes.

The following land transfers have been filed with the county recorder for yesterday:

La Follette on the War Path. Senator Robert M. La Follette begun in earnest his open fight for presidency. He has opened a campaign against every senator who posed his amendment to the rate including among the leaders Senator Fulron of Oregon.

The senate stood out against the Follette amendment as being too radical and so ragged in a technical way that they would vitiate the measure. If attached to it, Senator La Follette, however, has determined upon his vengeance and will take the risk of incurring the undying enmity of practically every Republican senator by a series of open attacks, naming the leaders in the senate in his new campaign.

In taking this step he is taking leaf out of the book of Wisconsin, which contains the story of his fight for the governorship of Wisconsin. It was his custom to assail his name in his home districts through assemblymen and state senators who failed to vote as he directed.

This is his method to be adopted against Senator Fulron and Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania. In his campaign against Senator La Follette he declares that the corporations and roads corrupted congress, and concludes by dramatically reading the names of those who voted against the measure. He has already done the bit of campaigning four or five times, most notably at Evansville, Ind., where he will repeat the system when he lectures in the West.
