SOME RICH STRIKES

Oregon Coming Rapidly to the Front in the Discovery of Rich Gold Mines

Lewiston, Idaho, Aug. 13.—Word reached this city today that the great gold discovery made in Idaho since the palmy days of Florence, Pierce and Newsome occurred in an old abandoned tunnel half a mile from Florence last Sunday, and flaked gold in decomposed ore rivaling the richest placer fields ever worked

Every sack in Florence camp was requisitioned and $60,000 worth of ore has been sacked since Sunday. Assays of 10 pounds showed values of $2.90, while 3 pounds more went over $3.

Ledges Four Feet Wide.

The ledge uncovered is four feet wide and shows no sign of diminishing for a long distance. The wonderful discovery reads like a romance. James Mosher and partner were prospecting the tunnel and were removing rock in the farthest end with a car.

Sucker Creek Bonanza.

Grants Pass, Ore., Aug. 13.—After two years of quietude the Sucker creek mining district and the Wounded Buck claim from which David Briggs and his sons took out some $30,000 in pure gold in less than two weeks, is again exciting the attention of mining men.

Lake County Strike.

Lakeview, Or., Aug. 13.—News has reached Lakeview that a rich deposit of gold-bearing rock has been found in the Coyote range about 49 miles north of this place by Loftus Brothers.

Since the news reached here hundreds of people have flocked to the new strike. Every available rig has been taken and people are leaving in all directions during all hours of the day and night.

The nearest point from which to reach the new Eldorado are Klamath Falls and Lakeview.

Telephone messages from Plush, Ore., state that many of the mining claims which were located by the Fottus brothers for their friends are being jumped and that excitement is running high.

National G. A. R. Encampment.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 13.—Train after train is bringing hundreds of veterans of the Civil war and other visitors to this city and it is expected by tomorrow more than one hundred and fifty thousand strangers will be here who have all been attracted by the fortieth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The arrangements for receiving the visiting veterans, and for supplying them with quarters, food and other accommodations, are as nearly complete as they can be made and everything has been reduced to a perfect system.

The ground parade of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held Wednesday morning, under the direction of the commander-in-chief, General James Tanner.

On Thursday and Friday the business sessions of the encampment will be held at the auditorium on Nicollet avenue and Eleventh street south.

The state of Kansas has sent a very strong delegation and the latter will make every effort to secure the election of Captain Patrick Henry Coney, present department commander of Kansas, to the post of commander-in-chief of the Grand Army.

X-RAYS

Evidently Longfellow saw humanity from a different standpoint from that of "Osler."

This summer vacation business is somewhat paradoxical. You have your innings when you get your outing.

Palmer of the Aurora Borealis complains of dogs that bark all night in that otherwise pleasant little town. Peel'em brother Palmer; knock the bark off.

It looks as though "father" would have a chance to work with the balance of the family if the hops are to be saved. It is time for the old man to redeem his reputation, anyway.

The Toledo Reporter in a little squiblet says "not a single peek-a-boo waist showed up." The Reporter should know that a peek-a-boo does not "show up." Its a show down.

Each of the great political parties is now asking its members to contribute a dollar. This is according to the eternal fitness of things making the individual put up the money to be used in completing his own vote.

Lischen Miller, one of Oregon's greatest singers says that "August makes a pagan of her." The horse editor feels the same way, especially when the weather is as hot as the present month is putting up, a paganism, too, tinged with profanity at times.

COUNTY FAIR AT TILLAMOOK

Coast County Hangs out its Latch String and Bids all Oregon Welcome

The people of Tillamook, Ore., are exerting themselves to make their first fair a pronounced success. The event will take place August 23, 24 and 25. It is an opportune time for the people of the Willamette valley to take an outing to the coast, being after the hay and wheat harvest, and before the hop harvest.

The people of that fertile section have been neglected by the railroads and harbor and coast improvement committees, and a decided effort will be made to call the attention of capitalists, home seekers and transportation companies to the resources of that section, and its great possibilities.

The dairy stock in that section, although not of the fanciest breed in the United States, still possess qualities that place the dairy products there in first rank in the commerce of the west.

The standing timber of Tillamook county without doubt surpasses that of any other county on earth, both in quantity and quality. This source of great wealth will be duly exemplified in samples at the fair, both in lumber and the log.

On August 24th there will be a development congress at which Senator Fulton, Congressman-elect Hawley, Col. E. Hofer, president of the Willamette Valley Development League, and Tom Richardson, secretary of the Oregon State Development League, will be present and participate.

One unique feature of the fair will be a drill of 40 young lasses attired as Indian maidens, carrying spears 6 feet in length, which they handle with the dexterity of veteran savages.

Arches, appropriately decorated with flags and bunting, bearing the motto: "County Fair, Aug. 23, 24 and 25; Welcome," span the highways leading to the city, and hundreds of people who pass that way on their way to the coast, go under these arches, and tell the story to hundreds of campers along the beach of Tillamook's celebration.

Wood and water will be furnished free to the army of campers who occupy vacant lawns adjoining the town. Extra steamer service and reduced rates will prevail from Astoria and many farmers in Tillamook are arranging to go to the railroad stations at Forst Grove, North Yamhill and Sheridan for the purpose of transporting people to the fair.
