WAVED A HUGE REVOLVER

Indian Woman Kidnaped Children from Chemawa and Held Hundreds at Bay With Gun

Mrs. Dora McKinnon, an Indian woman from the Klamath reservation, living on the California side of the state line, kidnaped her two children from the Salem Indian Training school at Chemawa yesterday, took them to the railroad station, and, with a drawn pistol, held spectators, railroad officials and school authorities at bay for a long time.

She was prevented from taking the train, as was her first intention, but it was not until Deputy Sheriffs Minto and Sach went out from Salem and placed her arrest, that she was pacified and disarmed.

The Indians at Chemawa were at prayer when the trouble came. It was during the Sunday school hour that Mrs. McKinnon gathered up her progeny and set out for the tepees of her native Klamath.

Several people connected with the school endeavored to stop her, and to prevent her placing the children on the train. She whipped out a huge revolver, and with numerous oaths, swore she would kill the first person who attempted to lay hands on herself or children.

For awhile consternation reigned at Chemawa. In an incredibly short time the several hundred little Indians left their Bibles and hymn books and gathered at the depot. The instructors and guards came, too, and all the people living in the vicinity were soon on hand, but no one could disarm the infuriated aborigine.

The superintendent telephoned to the sheriff's office and to Justice of the Peace Daniel Webster, a warrant was procured, and the sheriffs went to the Indian school as fast as possible. They at once arrested the woman and turned her over to the superintendent.

She announced her intention of being a good Indian, and for the remainder of the day was as quiet as a lamb.

She was allowed to remain at the school under the promise not to raise any disturbance, and she was put on the next southbound train, and sent on her way to her California home.

Mrs. McKinnon has a grievance against the Indian school. About a year ago she made application in the regular way to send her two children, a boy and a girl, to Chemawa. They were placed in charge of the superintendent, and everything was lovely until about six months ago, when Mrs. McKinnon wrote an improper letter to a grown girl in the Indian school. The girl was an acquaintance of the McKinnons, and was from the same reservation. The letter was of such a nature that it would get her into trouble with the postal authorities if they had known of it. The superintendent at once wrote a severe reprimand to the woman, and forbade her writing to any of the students.

She felt insulted, and began to try to get her own children out of the school.

Several days ago she visited the school and Sunday morning, when she was starting home, made the gun-play, and attempted to kidnap her children.

GOVERNOR'S SON IS AT UMATILLA

Joseph Gale is Making a Legal Fight for Share of the Reservation

Another pioneer romance of the Umatilla reservation is brought to light in the filing of a suit in Baker City for the recovery of the heirship rights of a mixed-blood Indian boy, Lester Gale, who has been reared by Lee Beam, of that place.

Lester Gale is a son of Joseph Gale, Oregon's first governor, who died in Eagle valley two years ago, at the age of 85, after a most remarkable life in the west.

Gale married a mixed-blood Cayuse woman who was allotted on the Umatilla reservation and whose two daughters, Mrs. Simpson of Weston and Mrs. Page of Walla Walla are also allotted on the reservation.

Mrs. Gale died on the reservation several years ago and this boy, Lester Gale, now 17 years of age, is her youngest child. He was born in Baker City, was never enrolled as a member of the Umatilla tribe, has not been allotted and so far has not shared in his mother's estate on the reservation, although her son and heir.

The birth of this boy was kept secret by his parents. For some reason they did not enroll the child and immediately after its birth it was adopted by Lee Beam, who has reared the boy and educated him and who in justice to the boy will make a fight to secure his rights on the reservation.

The sisters of the boy, Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Page, have recently been in Pendleton to secure legal advice and assistance in establishing the rights of their brother, A. D. Stillman having been employed by the family to establish the rights to the heir and secure his portion of his mother's allotment and estate on the reservation.

The father of Lester Gale was for 45 years a resident of Eagle valley, now a portion of Baker City. He was the first governor of Oregon and one of the earliest pioneers to come to the Pacific coast.

In pioneer days when white women were scarce in this section of the country, the old frontiersman wooed and wed a beautiful mixed-blood Cayuse, who became the mother of his family and who lived with him until a few years ago, when she came to Weston, where she died.

While there is no doubt about the relationship of Lester Gale to his tribesmen, the Umatillas, yet he has never been enrolled and it will require a long legal fight to establish and secure his rights on the reservation.—East Oregonian.

(There was no Joseph Gale's governor of Oregon. The article is probably correct, all except the name, and it probably alludes to J. P. Gaines, who was a Whig, appointed by President Taylor, and was Oregon's third governor, his term beginning in 1853).

Of Interest to Sick People.

We have all the sympathy in the world for sick people, and want to treat them in a serious way. There is no humor in pain and affliction, but hard earnest fact. It is impossible for the patient to impress on others the extent of suffering they endure, and their anxiety for relief. To get well or be relieved is their one thought. Any remedy that will bring this about has their everlasting gratitude. We have thousands of letters from people who have had dyspepsia, sick headache and bilious attacks, who tell us how thankful they were for having used Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills. They are sold at all drug stores for 25c per box. Only one for a dose. These pills remove the cause of disease and make the skin clear and healthy looking.

Fires in Washington.

Washington is also having some bad forest fires. Snohomish, on the western slope of the Cascades, is completely surrounded by fire, and loggers have lost heavily in equipment, having to abandon it in the hurry to escape the flames. There are also bad fires at Edwards and Gold Bar.

Meekness.

Meekness is imperfect, if it be not both active and passive, leading us to subdue our own passions and resentments as well as to bear patiently the passions and resentments of others.—Foster.

TRYING TO SAVE OTHERS

One After Another Four Are Drowned in Attempting to Save Miss Jones

Five well-known citizens of Davenport were drowned in the Spokane river Sunday. They were: Miss Winnie Jones, aged 19 years; A. L. Bergett, aged about 40; Mrs. A. L. Bergett, aged about 35; Roy Howard, aged 28; A. L. Inman, aged 34.

The women were bathing and wading at a point near Laughburn's place, close to the scene of the big slide last year in the Spokane river. Miss Jones ventured out too far, got beyond her depth, and Mrs. Bergett immediately waded out to assist her. Mrs. Bergett was soon in the same danger as Mrs. Jones. Both women were struggling in the river, when Al Bergett, husband of Mrs. Bergett, rushed out to save them. He was also made helpless by the swirling waters.

The screams of Miss Irene Danson and Miss Daisy Hutchinson, who were on the bank, unable to reach their drowning friends, brought A. L. Inman and Roy Howard and Mark Paulline, who was a considerable distance away, and the three men attempted to reach those in distress. Mr. Inman ventured out too far, and he also was drawn under.

Horses Prove Useless.
Finding they could not hope to save the others by swimming out to them, Mr. Paulline and Mr. Howard rushed for their horses, hoping the animals could find footing on the bed of the river far enough out to reach the victims. Mr. Paulline's horse refused to venture out. Mr. Howard's horse went as far as the animal found it could stand up, and, upon being spurred by the rider, threw Mr. Howard into the stream. Mr. Howard was swimming ashore, but suddenly was sucked under by the whirlpool and he also drowned. Mr. Paulline saw his friend sink, but was unable to reach him.

Mr. Paulline then went for assistance and found Mr. Moore. They recovered the body of Mrs. Bergett, which floated on the top of the whirlpool, but the other bodies had disappeared.

LOCATORS GOING IN.

Many Settlers Filing on Lands in Cascade Timber Reserve.

Many settlers are going into the two townships that are being surveyed in the Cascade timber reserve in the Cascades on the headwaters of the Santiam river in Linn county. The townships that are now being surveyed are eleven-four and twelve-four, and will be finished by another week.

C. W. Mariels and J. D. Dinamore, of this city, are doing a good deal of locating for their friends in that section, and so far have given eminent satisfaction to their clients.

Mr. Mariels said today that he was settling in scrip and non-scrip lands and had located something over 30 people already. Among these are his brothers and other personal friends.

Mr. Mariels said the land where he has been locating people is steep and rough, but contains fine timber. In all cases the entries made are under the homestead act.

Mr. Mariels says that the published accounts of some people being settled in different locations from where they are intended to be cannot in any way apply to himself or his co-workers, as in every case his people have been settled in surveyed lands, and a competent surveyor has always accompanied the men on all their trips.

The surveys made by this surveyor have always been very nearly identical with those made by the government engineer. In a distance of five miles he only missed the correct line a few rods.

Mr. Mariels thinks that the Northern Pacific railroad is doing more bluffing than actual work in that section and that the company will not claim and hold a great deal of the lands.

Mr. Mariels says that there are some 30 settlers who have been in there for some time. All of these have made considerable improvements. Some 50 or 10 homesteaders have located there more recently.

Wants Committee to Report.

Governor Chamberlain has received a letter from Hon. James D. Phelan, chairman of the finance committee of the San Francisco relief and Red Cross work, requesting that all committees in this state furnish him with a complete statement of the funds collected for the relief of the California sufferers. Mr. Phelan says this should include all moneys already sent, and should show the balance on hand. He points out that, while the fund in the committee's hands is comparatively large, the work of rehabilitation will necessitate the expenditure of enormous sums, and the committee desires to know how much money will be available in order to make plans accordingly.

RIVAL OF THE OLD WOMAN

Who Herded Her Family in a Shoe Because She Did not Know What to do

A dispatch from Roberval, Province of Quebec, Canada, says:

Canucks are noted for raising large families, but seldom do they reach the record of Henri du Foin, who lives in a small cabin on the banks of the Little Peribonka river. Du Foin has 28 or 29 children, and the odd part of it is that he doesn't know which, for a couple of years ago several went away to seek their fortunes, and the tally stick he kept on the mantel and fell into the fireplace and was burned.

This tally stick was quite necessary, for Henri can neither read nor write, and his counting ends when he gets up to 15. The priest taught him to keep track up to that number, after which he used the stick to record the births and other statistics of importance.

Henri was married when he was 18, and a year later, when the first child was born to his wife of 16, he was overjoyed. It was a great event in his family, and he sent off for his own mother, who had born 23 children. She stayed awhile, and the mother of the wife appeared. Her husband having died, she was forced to take the younger members of the family with her, and when she reached the cabin it looked as though they couldn't all get in. There were an even dozen born in as many years. The youngest was four weeks old. How many grown-ups there were in her family no one knows. Thus it may be seen that Henri came by his anti-race suicide notion legitimately. Although Henri's family grew yearly he never enlarged his one-room-and-loft cabin. He declared that the 18x20 foot structure could comfortably accommodate 14 people, and that when a child reaches the age it was time for it to go to work. As fast as one went away another was dropped by the stork, and the average never varies.

Saved From Drowning.

Chester Ashby came very near being drowned in Mill creek Saturday afternoon. He was in swimming with several other boys, and all the others had left the water and were dressing when Ashby was seized with cramps and sank out of sight. For some time the other boys thought he was joking, and paid no attention to his cries for help. Finally, when it was seen that he was really in danger, young Hager jumped into the water with his clothes on and rescued his drowning companion.

Plenty of Talk.

"You say that public official had nothing to say?" said the editor.

"Yes," answered the self-confident reporter, "but he talked three-quarters of an hour before I discovered it."—Washington Star.

IVORY HAS A NEW RIVAL

The manufacture of galalith, a new composition made from casein, that is likely to supplant celluloid and other like substances, was recently reported on by Consul Brunot at St. Etienne. Further particulars furnished by Vice-Consul-General A. E. Ingram, of Paris, in connection with a factory established at Levallois-Perret (Seine), just outside of Paris, will also prove of interest, owing to the many inquiries on the subject.

This company has also a factory at Harburg-sur-Elbe, Germany, and the factory at Surgeres (Charente Inferieure), mentioned in the former report on the subject, is devoted simply to the separation of casein from milk for this purpose. Galalith is a plastic substance made by a patented process from the casein in skim milk, 126.78 American pints of skim milk furnishing 2.20 pounds of galalith. The substance is made in all colors, and excellent imitations of tortoise shell, amber, coral, ebony, horn, etc., are produced. It possesses the advantage over celluloid in being odorless and absolutely unflammable, since it contains no camphor or similar ingredients. In hardness it resembles horn, and it can be worked in a similar manner. It takes a high polish, and it is not affected by oils, ethers, benzine, etc.

COLONIZATION OF ECUADOR

The American minister to Ecuador reports that on June 11, 1906, the government of Ecuador signed a contract with Oscar Alexander & Co., who have an agency at Guayaquil, for the purpose of importing immigrants into the lower and eastern portions of the republic.

The company is to be called "The Ecuadorian Immigration Company." It binds itself to import 5000 families. It is specified in the contract that the immigrants shall be white, and preferably of the German or Dutch races. The company is to receive 500,000 hectares of land, but no land which interferes with the construction of the Curaray railway. All necessities of life shall be entered free of duty, and also all animals, implements, seeds, etc., which the colonists bring with them. The company will sell land in the proportion of 50 hectares to each family. The price shall be adjusted according to the company's expenditures in the delivery of immigrants. For ten years the government will exact no taxes from the colonists.

Within three years from the date when the contract is confirmed by the congress the company must have initiated the immigration. If within ten years from such date the 5000 families are not installed in Ecuador the contract lapses. However, those immigrants who have arrived anterior to this period will be allowed to hold their proportion of land, but all the unused balance of the 500,000 hectares shall revert to the government. The land in question lies low on the eastern slope of the Andes, and transportation therefrom can be accomplished by means of various tributaries which eventually flow into the Amazon. The territory is said to be very rich in rubber and dye woods, but not particularly healthful for Europeans.
