The water front strike was further complicated this morning, when several hundred boiler makers and ship-smiths from the various iron works throughout the city presented a demand for an increase from $3.50 to $4 per day. Unless this raise is forthcoming or a compromise effected another strike will undoubtedly result. Up to this afternoon all members of the riggers' and stevedores union, numbering some 1800, returned to work on all the docks with the exception of the American Hawaii Company. The stevedores' demands were conceded. They were for an increase from 40 to 50 cents an hour, for eight hours' work, and from 50 to 75 cents for overtime on coastwise vessels, and 55 cents for loading and discharging deep water vessels.

Chief Savage Explains.

In the account of the fire in the Litchfield pasture Saturday evening, it was stated that the fire department declined to attend. This was evidently a mistake, as the call for the department was sent over the telephone, and the informer said that the apparatus was not needed, but that men were wanted to fight the fire. At that time Chief Savage and the apparatus were at another grass fire and there were no men at the department to send. Chief Savage went to the scene of the blaze as soon as he returned from the other fire. As it was, the engine and hose wagons would have been entirely useless.

FIRE SWEEPS THE SANTIAM

and the damage done threatens to be enormous.

The forest rangers in the Cascade range, within reach of the fire, hastened to the scene and all the available men were taken into the woods to fight the flames and confine them to the smallest possible space but it was feared that the loss would be far greater than that sustained a couple of weeks ago when a fire started the other side of Gates and burned for several days until the rain aided the firefighters in quenching the flames.

The fire last night was burning principally government timber, but the flames were rushing in the direction of private holdings and it was feared that if they were not checked, they would reach the large holdings of the Curtiss Lumber Co., and other large owners of timber lands in that section of the reserve.

The fishing excursion to Detroit, advertised for last evening, was in part at least called off. The train went out but it was expected that Mill City would be about the end of the run for the excursionists and those who did not wish to go there remained behind.

A number of Albany and Salem people are known to be camping in the woods along the Breitenbush river and further up in the mountains and last evening some uneasiness was felt for these summer campers in the mountains. But it was pointed out that the campers had doubtless seen the fire in time so that they were enabled to reach Detroit or some other point where they would be safe from the flames and that no cause existed to feel uneasy as to the fate of the camping parties. Further up in the mountains there are large tracts that have been logged over in the past and people caught before the fire could easily reach one of these tracts and there escape the fire though compelled to undergo some discomforts for a day or two.

Mill City Anxious.

Mill City, Ore., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—The fire on the east end of the C. & E. railroad, in the Santiam canyon, is doing great damage and is the worst fire seen there in years. It is burning from a point a mile this side of Berry station to Detroit, a distance three miles along the road and river and the flames have invaded the timber in each direction, doing enormous damage. Several railroad bridges on the upper end of the road have been damaged but none destroyed. The town of Berry is badly scorched and several ranchers in the woods are in the danger of losing their property. One of the logging camps of the Curtiss Lumber company has been burned out and a logging engine destroyed and another logging outfit is in serious danger tonight.

The Curtiss company has sent the entire crew from this place to fight the fire. The men were taken up on the logging engine, used on the new road across the river from this place. More men will be sent as fast as they can be collected and every effort will be made to stop the progress of the flames, an undertaking that is herculean in view of the extent of the fire. The damage can not yet be estimated and in fact will be much greater than it is now before the flames are under control. The fire is one of the worst in the history of this part of the state and grave apprehension are felt regarding the outcome.

Campers in the woods on the Breitenbush are in no particular danger as they will be able to escape the fire zone if they see the flames in time.

As most of the parties live out of town, and those residing here could not be found, the rumor could not be verified.
