

NEWPORT VIGNETTES.

Seen at the Summer Capital—Casino Frocks, Dinner Gowns, Fashionable Hats, Narragansett Bathing Suits.

The girl in the moon should be to earth to see the very latest in fashionable apparel she will better come straight to Newport for it whispered styles that first seen here in August worn the elect will be the reigning in late fall and winter toll-

Parisian Wrinkles.
Famous Parisian makers send the best to some of the fastidious here who drop a style at once if it becomes too popular, and lavishly to be always gowned in the latest of the fashions. The girl in the moon then or any other member of her sex can find valuable hints, as to colors, materials, general lines, and the so-called minor details, that go to make up a really smart whole effect.

Shoes, Gloves, Parasols.
Shoes, gloves, parasols, belts, girdles and sashes or the innumerable little touches in draped velvets velvet dog collars, of those with jeweled clasps, serve to bring out the best points of the gown and its wearer. The mushroom hat, the one that has the brim drooping all around, the crown low, and the bandeaux underneath, shares with high crown flat rimmed shapes first place in fashionable favor.

The New Helvetia Silks.
Another Parisian fad that is in favor here is the toilette of Pekin stripes in black and white, or the same combination achieved in other ways. The new Helvetia silks that come only in black or white, but in a variety of weaves, satin, armure, or a particularly soft lustrous taffeta that wears as well as it looks, will be in great demand by the time society goes to winter quarters.

French Creations.
Gowns recently sent over from Paris are made up of these silks and for colored satin toilettes Paquin, Worth and others are using the soft lustrous Sapho silks on account of their texture and exquisite colorings. A gown of this fabric worn at one of the small dinners that are Newport's favorite form of entertainment, was in one of the new reds, that is exactly matched by the shade of a pink topaz. Another was in a soft yellow tone and the set of matching ornaments was made of yellow topaz and pearls.

Illustrations.
Thanks are due the McCall Co., makers and designers of fashion for handsome illustration accompanying this article.

Semi-Precious Stones.
Matching sets of semi-precious stones, topaz, amethysts, aqua marines, olivines and others of this class are made up into bracelets and necklaces, which are more often than not of the dog-collar order. Corsage pins, and various head ornaments (not tiaras), are as much of a fad for function dress as are matching parasols, hats, etc., for street attire.

Bathing Suits at the Pier.
Narragansett is very popular this season, and at the bathing hour on its beautiful beach, or dining in groups of intimates afterward in the pavilion one recognizes many members of Newport's smartest contingent. As always one sees the top notch of attractiveness in the bathing suits worn here. They vary from all black to pale pinks and baby blues, but the cut and trimmings are of the best and where elaborate dressing is so general these suits are not so conspicuous as they would seem in less ornate surroundings.

Silk the Material.
Whatever color may be selected the favorite material for these suits is silk, usually taffeta and if a grade made of pure silk is used, nothing is so satisfactory. This material does not cling or shrink, and holds its color as well as anything in the salt water.

LUCY CARTER.

Makes life now as safe in that city as on the higher uplands. E. W. Goodloe, who resides on Dutton St., in Waco, Tex., needs no sea wall for safety. Now it's gone." Cures Chronic Coughs and prevents Pneumonia. Pleasant to take. Every bottle guaranteed at J. C. Perry's drug store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

REBUILDING SAN FRANCISCO.

The City Practical Must Come Before the City Beautiful.

In an interview printed in yesterday's "Chronicle," Theodore Starrett, president of a great eastern construction company, and as experienced a city builder as the country affords, expressed his admiration of the policy being pursued in the restoration of the business district of this city. The first thing for the city to do is to hold and provide for its business. Business can be done in shacks, inconveniently, it is true, but it can be done. Merchandising and industries will occupy more ground space than when tall buildings are available, and the offices which formerly occupied the lofts of many buildings will be temporarily thrust back, as they are now, into the residence districts. But the business of the city will go on. There will be profits in it, as there has always been. With those profits permanent buildings will be erected on modern lines, and under the influence of the artistic feeling which has come with our advancing civilization; and so, little by little but surely and in due season, the city beautiful will replace the city practical, which will earn the money for its ultimate adornment.

In the main, the new buildings in the business district will be far better buildings than those destroyed. Even, however, when money is abundant, and in hand, it takes time to prepare even the plans for a first-class building. It takes time to let necessary contracts and to prepare for their execution. It takes from six months to a year and a half to complete the superstructures. Meanwhile, if we do not do business in shacks, we shall not do business at all, and so shall have no money to rebuild. It is not a bad thing that property owners do not all get ready to rebuild at one time. The street on which such operations were going on would be impassable during the process. Nor could labor and material be had. We are doing well enough. We are transacting the business by which the city is supported, and are winning the admiration of observers for the energy of our efforts and the rapidity of our progress. There are as many first class buildings at this time in course of construction or reconstruction as existing facilities can well provide for. With the clearing of streets and the restoration of services, facilities will increase, and as labor is released from temporary work, permanent construction will receive a new impetus. We have surprised the world by the rapidity with which we have prepared temporary quarters. We predict that there will be a still greater surprise at the rapidity with which temporary shacks are replaced by permanent buildings.—S. F. Chronicle.

GAME DOGS AND GAME.

A Remarkable Instance of the Influence of Heredity.

The setter ate the mutton chop greedily, but he would have none of the partridge bones. "A good game dog," said his master, "can't eat game. Its taste is repugnant to him. This is a remarkable instance of the influence of heredity." "Game dogs have been trained for many generations not to eat the game—the birds and rabbits and what not—which they bring back to their masters in their mouths. They have been trained to consider that the eating of such game would be a disgrace and an unpardonable sin, the same as bank clerks have been trained to consider that the pocketing of a few dollars from the millions they annually handle would be a disgrace and a sin."

"And the result in the game dogs case has been that this moral abhorrence of game, suggested to them by their masters, has been transmitted in its passage down from one generation to another, into an actual physical abhorrence in the matter of game, thanks to heredity, game dogs now are never tempted. They can't sin."

"It would be a good thing for policy holders if, in the same way, man's moral disinclination to steal had been changed by heredity to an actual physical aversion of other people's money."
