German Veterans in Dubuque.
 Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 25.—The preparations for the great national gathering of the Deutscher Krieger Verein, an organization of German veterans, with branches in every state of the Union, are completed and everything is in readiness for the opening of the Kriegerfest tomorrow. The arrangements for the reception and housing of the delegates are thoroughly systematic and well organized that a hitch is scarcely possible. Reception committees are at the stations upon the arrival of every train. The arriving delegates, many of whom are accompanied by members of their families, are greeted by the members of headquarters of the convention at Germania hall, where lunch is served all day. Several thousand delegates and other visitors are already here and large crowds of them may be seen wandering through the streets, sightseeing and enjoying the festive appearance of the handsomely decorated streets.

The Kriegerfest will not begin until tomorrow. At 6 o'clock a trumpeter on horseback will ride through the streets in the down town district, sounding the "reville," to awaken the veterans quartered at the various hotels. The forenoon will be devoted to sightseeing and social calls at the various state headquarters. At noon the delegates will take their luncheon at the various hotels and restaurants, so as to be ready to assemble in time for the big parade which will start promptly at half past one in the afternoon. The veterans will march through the principle streets of the city and will proceed to the shooting park, where a grand popular celebration will be held during the afternoon and evening. The principle addresses of the afternoon will be delivered by Festpresident A. F. Frudden. In the evening there will be a band concert and fireworks.

The business session of the convention will open on Monday morning and will last all day with only a short interruption for lunch. Mayor Schunk will deliver the address of welcome. In the evening there will be a "Commerz" at Germania hall, with speeches by many prominent delegates. The business of the convention will be finished on Wednesday forenoon and in the afternoon the delegates will take an excursion trip on the river. Supper will be served on the boat.

Total Abstiners' Field Day.
 Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 25.—Today's annual parade and field day of the Connecticut Total Abstiners' union has attracted in the neighborhood of 10,000 members of the union and other visitors to this city. The union is composed of 93 societies, scattered throughout the state and representing a total membership of more than ten thousand. The parade was held this morning and was composed of representatives of the various societies. The delegates of the women's branches rode in carriages and on floats. Handsome prizes will be awarded to a number of the societies represented in the parade. The athletic games will be held at the Steeplechase island stadium and will be conducted according to the rules of the Amateur Athletic union. Many prominent athletes will take part in the contests. James Hogan, of Yale, will be the referee; Merritt Sands, another Yale athlete will be secretary of the course and John Mack, also of Yale will be starter.

Damage to the Illinois.
 New York, Aug. 25.—According to the official report of the experts it will cost about $10,000 to repair the damage done to the battleship Illinois in the recent collision with the Alabama. The Illinois will take part in the president's review and will then be sent to the navy yard for repairs.

Dyspepsia
 Don't think you can cure your dyspepsia in any other way than by strengthening and toning your stomach. That is weak and incapable of performing its functions, probably because you have imposed upon it in one way or another over and over again. You should take

Hood's Sarsaparilla
 It strengthens and tones the stomach, and permanently cures dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Accept no substitute.

FRA ELBERTUS AS PLAYWRIGHT
 Roycroft Actors Will Give Drama About Justinian and Theodora.

Leigh M. Hodges in Philadelphia North American.

Elbert Hubbard has written a play.

In collaboration with Alice Hubbard, his wife, this wizard of the pen has done into a magic drama the historical love story of Justinian and Theodora—theme significant for the far-famed Fera Elbertus of Philistia.

Along in October, when the evenings are crisp enough to admit of people acting strenuous love and hate, the play will be given its first performance, in the green courtyard of the Mountain around which is built the Phalansterie—the Roycroft Inn. The actors will all be honest Roycrofters, though neither of the authors will take part.

Then the world outside this pleasant village may have a chance to see it, for Marc Klaw, of Klaw & Erlanger, has read the manuscript, and says it will do, with the addition of some "stage business." Just when it will be put on the real stage is not yet decided.

How did he come to write a play, this man born in Bloomington, Ill.; farm boy till 15, then cowboy, printer, peddler of soap, lumber-shover, newspaper reporter, traveling salesman, schoolteacher, manager of the factory that made the soap he once sold, then part owner of it; student at Harvard after he sold out his saponaceous business, traveled afoot in Europe, teacher of a night school, breeder of trotting horses, founder of the Philistine, and intended joke, that has made him rich and famous and remodeled a whole town, and author of "Little Journeys," his best claim to immortality thus far?

I asked him the question as he put into my hands the proof sheets of the play, which will be issued in book form in a few weeks.

"A stab at art, maybe," he answered. "All art is autobiography, you know!" Then that subtle smile. "All the stuff that's worth while is written with red ink."

Red ink is Hebbardesque for blood. Now listen!

"Justinian and Theodora: A Drama Being a Chapter of History and the One Gleam of Light During the Dark Ages." By Elbert and Alice Hubbard.

Such is the full title of the play. The first three words and the last four are printed in red! Is it autobiography writ in blood? Only one thing is certain, after reading the play. Some of the situations in it might fit to last five years in some lives almost as well as they fit 500 A. D. in other lives.

Galveston's Sea Wall
 Makes life now as safe in that city as on the higher uplands. E. W. Goodloe, who resides on Dutton St., in Waco, Tex., needs no sea wall for safety. He writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption the past five years, and it keeps me well and safe. Before that time I had a cough which for years had been growing worse. Now it's gone." Cures Chronic Coughs and prevents Pneumonia. Pleasant to take. Every bottle guaranteed at J. C. Perry's drug store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

The Father of Haddam.
 John Ferguson, a pioneer of Washington county, Kansas, is back here visiting his daughter and stepson, Geo. Conn. Mr. Ferguson was born in Ireland, and came to the United States some 52 or 53 years ago. He lived five years in Haddam, Conn., before he came to Washington county Kan., where he homesteaded on section 29 (1/4). He helped to build the first school house in this country. It was located one mile west of Haddam. He also secured the first teacher ever employed here. His daughter, Martha E. Kiffin, now of Narka, was the third child born in this county. Charles Canfl was the second. Mr. Ferguson's claim for a number of years was the farthest west of any homestead in this part of the state he used to kill antelope and buffalo to pass time and many times scouts had been sent out from the settlement east of here to bury Mr. Ferguson, after they would hear of an Indian raid. Mr. Ferguson helped to organize the first postoffice and gave it the name of Haddam. There was no house in Washington city when he came to this country. Mr. Ferguson lived in Washington county for 25 years, but it now a resident of Salem, Oregon, where he has county for 25 years, but is now a resident of Salem, Oregon, where he has an interesting story of the early days here, and we feel sure that the old settlers will feel rejuvenated after a visit with him.—Haddam City (Kan.) Clipper.

Herbine.
 Renders the bile more fluid, and thus helps the blood to flow; it affords prompt relief from biliousness, indigestion, sick and nervous headaches, and over-indulgence in food and drink.

G. L. Caldwell, Agt. M. K. and T. R. R., Checotah, Ind. Ter., writes, April 18, 1903: "I was sick for over two years with enlargement of the liver and spleen, and I had given up all hope of being cured, when my druggist advised me to use Herbine. It has made me sound and well." 50c. For sale by D. J. Fry.
