SMALL SCHOOL BONDS.

The city of Newport, or rather Newport School District, comprising the city of Newport, offers a small lot of bonds for sale.

They are twenty year bonds optional with the district after ten years and drawing five per cent interest payable semi-annually.

THERE ARE NO BETTER SECURITIES than such bonds and already the price is put at $1.03.99 and interest.

This issue of bonds is put out for the purpose of obtaining funds to build a new high school building.

The bonds were sold at once to Portland bankers and are now being sold back to Oregon people at the above advance.

Even at the above price the investment will bring in four and one-half per cent interest, and they are BETTER THAN TAXABLE MORTGAGES.

There are few better forms of investment than the small bond issues of school districts and cities for water and light plants.

PRAYERS IN THE BIBLE.

There are comparatively few prayers in the Bible. Many of the Psalms are almost prayers. But personal prayers are few and far between.

One of the first is Hannah's prayer, and it is one OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL. Another grand prayer is that of Moses for his people.

One of the longest prayers is the one delivered in presence of the entire people of Israel at the dedication of the Temple.

In simplicity and majesty and wealth of spiritual meaning the Lord's prayer surpasses all others. IT IS NOT YET FULLY UNDERSTOOD.

It is a remarkable fact that no part of the Bible is so much changed in the Revised Version of the Bible as the Lord's prayer.

Here is a prayer little known, but simple and beautiful, the prayer of Jabez, in the first book of Chronicles, chapter four:

"Oh that thou wouldst bless me indeed, AND ENLARGE MY COAST, and that thine hand might be with me, and that thou wouldst keep me from evil, that it may not grieve me!"

It is a wonder that the prayers in the Bible have never been compiled in a single volume. The direct personal appeals of individuals in time of greatest need are very interesting.

Liver and Kidneys

It is highly important that these organs should properly perform their functions.

When they don't, what lameness of the side and back, what yellowness of the skin, what constipation, bad taste in the mouth, sick headache, pimples and blotches, and loss of courage, tell the story.

The great alternative and tonic

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Gives these organs vigor and tone for the proper performance of their functions, and cures all their ordinary ailments. Take it.

WALT WHITMAN—POET AND MAN.

The sanest, clearest, most profound appreciation of Walt Whitman is given in the September Craftsman by Edward Carpenter, the English Socialist. Carpenter knew Whitman well; he also knew other great men, among them Oliver Wendell Holmes, who gave him opinions of Whitman's place in American literature.

The attitude of American writers and men of note toward Whitman much interests Mr. Carpenter. He makes no comments, but lets certain passages speak for themselves. For instance, during his first visit to America, he called upon Oliver Wendell Holmes. Here is his impression of the genial "autocrat," and his unadorned account of the latter's impression of Whitman. It is the more interesting because it embodies the opinions of Lowell and Longfellow—three of the greatest authorities in American letters:

"He was then about seventy years of age—a dapper, active little man, full of life and go, rather enjoying the visits of strangers. . . . I said something about American literature and 'Leaves of Grass.' 'O. Whitman,' he said; 'well—well—well—Whitman is all very well—he has capacity, but it won't do—it won't do. I tell you what, it's something like this: you know, skillful cooks say that the faintest odor, the merest whiff, of assafoetida will give a piquant flavor to a dish—and I can believe that but to drench it in assafoetida—no, that won't do. The poets coquette with Nature and weave garlands of roses for her; but Whitman goes at her like a great hirsute man—no, it won't do. Now,' he continued, 'the other day Lowell and Longfellow and I were chattering together, and the subject of Whitman turned up. Said Lowell, 'I can't think why there is all this stir about Whitman I have heard a good deal of his poetry, but I can't see anything in it—I can't see anything in it.' 'Well,' said Longfellow, 'I believe the man might have done something if he had only had a decent training and education.' 'As to my opinion, why,' said Holmes, 'I have already given you that. So you see what we think of him in America.'"

And this is the Walt Whitman who was known and loved by those who met him daily:

"After some conversation Whitman proposed a walk across to Philadelphia. Putting on his gray slouch-hat he sallied forth with evident pleasure, and taking my arm as a support, walked slowly the best part of a mile to the ferry. Crossing the ferry was always a great pleasure to him. . . . The life of the streets and of the people was so near, so dear. The men on the ferry-steamers were evidently old friends, and when we landed on the Philadelphia side we were before long quite besieged. The man or woman selling fish at the corner of the street, the tramway-conductor, the loafers on the pavement—a word of recognition from Walt, or as often from the other first. Presently a cheery shout from the top of a drag; and before we had gone many yards farther the driver was down and standing in front of us—his horses given to the care of some bystander. He was an old Broadway 'stager,' had not seen Walt for three or four years, and tears were in his eyes as he held his hand. We were now brought to a standstill, and others gathered round; 'George' was ill and Walt must go and see him. There was a message for the children, and in his pocket the poet discovered one or two little packets for absent little ones. But for the most part his words were few. It was the others who spoke, and apparently without reserve."

Cure for Sick-Headache.

We had a letter the other day from a lady in the town of Boulder, Colo., that should be of interest to people who are troubled with spells of sick headache. She writes that she had these spells about four times a week, was obliged to go to bed and remain there from 8 to 10 hours each time. Had been troubled this way for several years, and the attacks became more frequent. Doctors done her no good, she tried dieting, as every body said it was from her stomach. Seeing an advertisement of Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills, which said, they cure sick headache by removing the cause, she decided to try one more, and sent 50 cents for two boxes. She said she had taken the last pill more than 4 months ago, has not had a sick spell of any kind for over 5 months. Druggists sell these pills for 25c per box. It only takes one for a dose, they cure sick headache every time.

Do You Want to Know What You Swallow?

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of MEDICINES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicines, Dr. H. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has "taken time by the forelock," as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery," the popular liver invigorator, regulator, also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and outspoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all hating critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is mailed free to any one desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules. They regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not fret the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor.

$50,000 GIVEN AWAY. In copies of Medical Adviser, a book that sold to the extent of 500,000 copies, at $1.50 per copy. Last year we gave away $50,000 worth of these invaluable books. This year we shall give away $50,000 worth of them. Will you share in this benefit? If so, send only a few stamps to cover cost of mailing only for book in stiff paper covers, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. Address Dr. H. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

GREATEST EVER ATTENDED.

Hal D. Patton at Home from the Development League.

Hal D. Patton returned home last night from Forest Grove, where he attended the meeting of the Willamette Valley Development League. Mr. Patton says this is the biggest and best league meeting he has ever attended. The town of Forest Grove received the visiting delegates with open arms, and the entire city was gaily decorated. Mr. Patton was instrumental in securing for Salem the meeting of the State Business Men's League, which occurs here Wednesday night.

Mr. Patton carried with him to Forest Grove a lot of advertising matter for the state fair, and distrib-

Week for Hayseeds at Coney Island.

New York, Sept. 8.—The management of Luna park has made arrangements for a "Harvest Week," which will begin tomorrow. Farmers within a hundred mile radius of New York have been invited to come and take in the sights. To make everything as realistic as possible a small army of workmen will take charge of Luna park during the night and will transform the resort into a rustic amusement grounds. Sheaves of grain will mask the white pillars, the straight avenues will be transformed into crooked country roads, with worn fences and rickety stone walls and the illumination will consist of lamps and lanterns. There will be the usual country fair attractions throughout the week, in addition to the usual attractions at the resort.

Phoenix Water Carnival.

Phoenix, R. I., Sept. 8.—The annual water carnival, which will be held here this evening has attracted several thousand visitors from the surrounding districts. The program includes a band concert, the singing of several selections by a chorus stationed on a float in the river, a parade of canoes and other decorated boats and fireworks.

Frank E. Churchill, representative of the Western Conservatory of Music, will resume classes in the study of music on and after September 17th. On account of small quarters in Gray building, I have removed the studio to rooms 8 and 9 in the Opera House building. Your patronage solicited.
