EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the rush and excitement of the State Fair and Development League people are not forgetting a local issue that has been raised in the Salem board of education. One of the five members of the board saw fit to tell a contractor to put in a concrete floor in the North Salem school house. It is an expensive improvement, and the board had appointed a committee to look after the work. The committee had advertised for bids, and, pending the letting of the contract, a member of the board, who supposed he was a member of the committee, ordered a contractor who had bid on the work, to go ahead and do the work. When the committee found what had been done they objected to accepting the work, on the ground that they had not employed anyone to do the work. The committee found further that the work was not satisfactory, and advertised for new bids and ordered the contractor who had done the work to tear it out, and notified him they would not consider the school district bound to pay for any such work set in such a way, and for which there was not a scratch of a pen on the records.

The contractor in the meantime has mended the cement work where it was exposed to criticism, and will ask for his pay, under threat of suing the school district if he is not paid. Three of the directors say they prefer a lawsuit to allowing work to be ordered over the heads of a regularly appointed committee. One member of the board, they say, has never had the right to order so much work done. One member of the board cannot order a bill paid. They say, while it may not be the fault of the contractor who did the work, they cannot issue a warrant, as there is no legal basis to pay for the work. It looks as if it were a business proposition involving the way the school board transacts business. If one member of the board can let contracts the law requiring the committee to advertise for bids is a dead letter, and should be repealed. The people will watch with interest the outcome of the controversy.

The Development Convention has not been satisfactory, and it is to be regretted that the regular programs of the convention could not be carried out. Delegates came long distances to find that there were constant adjournments. Some paid admission to the fair three times in succession to get to attend development convention programs, only to find that there would be no sessions, and the addresses furnished in advance to the press had in most cases to be cancelled or were published prematurely, and made the newspapers ridiculous. The local committee at Salem did all in their power to make the convention a success. President Dorby and Secretary Turner labored unremittingly, and the Salem Commercial Club supplied badges and furnished flowers and music, and did all in their power. The Portland managers seemed to be

His present deposits may be small, so small that many people would not think it worth banking, but his bank book will show a gradually increasing amount to his credit and what is more important, he is wedding a "habit" lever that will in time open profitable business opportunities. out of touch with the country delegates, and the cause of development will have to rely on other means for continued interest in the future. The cause will, however, go on, and a mere interloper cannot stop the grand work that has been so well carried on by the patriotic efforts of all the people.

The city council could not be expected to have any piece of public work go on in an orderly manner. The South Commercial street improvement was accepted without inspection by the council, and the work was done with little attempt to compel the contractors to comply with the specifications. There are few business men on the council, and the fact seems to be that men who have anything to do or any great amount of business on their own hands cannot afford to meddle with public matters. This is wrong. The time has come in the history of this city when the best and most progressive men should be sent to the council. The Capital City has a splendid future before it, and, with men of the right spirit, men above working petty grafts for themselves, should be sent to the council and kept there. The petty politician who plays all the time for personal tricks is not fit to be employed in any public position. But of such is the political kingdom and the people will have to put up with them until they give nominations and elections the attention they deserve.

President Downing's proposition to hold the fair ten days or two weeks is all right. The fair is an educational organization for the whole people. It is a pity to put in a whole year's work and then have half the good effect spoiled by a few days' rain. The exhibits should be seen by a large number of people. The officers of the fair have a just pride in the exhibits. The fair is a grand one, and deserves the support of the state and the people. The cattle, machinery, the pavilion are all high-class, and as good as anything that was at the Lewis and Clark fair, as far as they go. The pity of the thing is that the hog picking season, or an accidental twist of Jupiter Pluvius makes the whole thing a financial and educational failure. This should not occur again. The fair should last two weeks. The great events should be on movable days. About three days of horse racing would be enough. Let there be special days for the Grange, the public schools, the colleges and the Oregon manufacturer should have a day. We are a great state, and all interests should be recognized at a great state fair. We are not all sporting element.

X-RAYS

Velguth, a clerk for the Portland Gas company, has been arrested, charged with stealing $15,000 from his employers. He probably felt much like the Irishman whose wife awakening him in the middle of the night, whispered: "Pat there's a burglar in the house." "Lie still, Biddy. If the son-a-gun finds anything, I'll get up and take it away from him."

A Missouri farmer has succeeded in swindling a lawyer. One Missourian showed the other.

What's the use of sprinkling the road to the fair grounds anyway since the weather clerk can always be depended on to do it for us.

Sprains.

S. A. Read, of Cisco, Tex., writes, March 11, 1901: My wrist was sprained so badly by a fall that it was useless; and after using several remedies that failed to give relief, used Ballard's Snow Liniment, and was cured. I earnestly recommend it to any one suffering from sprains. Sold by D. J. Fry.

Cure for Sick-Headache.

We had a letter the other day from a lady in the town of Boulder, Colo., that should be of interest to people who are troubled with spells of sick headache. She writes that she had these spells about four times a week, was obliged to go to bed and remain there from 8 to 10 hours each time. Had been troubled this way for several years, and the attacks became more frequent. Doctors done her no good, she tried dieting, as every body said it was from her stomach. Seeing an advertisement of Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills, which said, they cure sick headache by removing the cause, she decided to try one more, and sent 50 cents for two boxes. She said she had taken the last pill more than 4 months ago, has not had a sick spell of any kind for over 5 months. Druggists sell these pills for 25c per box. It only takes one for a dose, they cure sick headache every time.

Abscess.

ABSCESSSES with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver Colo.). He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world." Sold by D. J. Fry.

Notes From Peyrees Hop Yard.

Victor Point is largely represented among the campers here. The hops are good, and so are the accommodations and altogether we are a jolly crowd.

What came near being a serious accident happened to three of our young people, who, with a crowd of fourteen others were in a farm wagon en route for Endeavor at the Willard church last Sunday evening. Standing room was at a premium in the wagon, and the horses gave it sudden lunge, throwing Albert Savage, Frank Doerfler and Bessie Brown backward to the ground. Albert Savage and the young lady were knocked senseless, remaining so for several minutes, but no injuries of a permanent nature were sustained.

H. Lescher and wife, of Butte, Montana, arrived at the yard today. He is a former resident of this vicinity, but some six or seven years ago concluded that he could better himself somewhere else, but has returned to his former home, and says he has found out there is no place like old Oregon.

The Breath of Life.

It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A. Stephens of Port Williams, O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. Oh, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Didn't Mind the Rain.

There is nothing that can prevent true Oregonians turning out at a celebration. The showers of the past few days have not in the least dampened the enthusiasm of the crowds. The Cottage Grove local arrived this morning with five coaches chock full of excursionists. Not only were Eugene and Albany well represented, but all the towns along the line assisted in the swelling of the numbers until they crowded all the available space in the coaches. It was a jolly, merry crowd, too, and all wore the proverbial smiles. They are here to enjoy themselves, and they will, too, as they came prepared to do so.

Starving to Death.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed." Best health tonic on earth. 50c. Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist.

A Smooth One.

He stole a kiss,
And the angry miss
Exclaimed: "I like your cheek!"
"That's good," said he;
"I shave, you see,
Each morning in the week."

Well Worth Trying.

W. H. Brown, the popular pension attorney, of Pittsfield, Vt., says: "Next to a pension, the best thing to get is Dr. King's New Life Pills." He writes: "they keep my family in splendid health." Quick cure for Headache, Constipation and Bileusness. 25c. Guaranteed at J. C. Perry's drug store.
