THE PORTLAND COLLECTORSHIP

There are indications that Collector Patterson will hold onto that job until the President is ready to name a man for the place.

It is probable that Senator Fulton's fight with Secretary Hitchcock will make it impossible FOR HIM TO NAME THE MAN.

The Oregonian editor will have a great deal to say about the selection of a proper person for the collectorship.

It is certain that the old Mitchell Machine is barred from receiving the emoluments of federal patronage any farther.

Well, the way many of them have turned out the President cannot be blamed for fighting shy of the aggregation.

They were a good aggregation IN THEIR TIME, BUT THE TIMES HAVE CHANGED, and the change will be a good one for Oregon.

The new collector will be of the new regime. That is certain sure

A SAD ANNIVERSARY.

Twenty-five years ago (September 19, 1881,) James A. Garfield passed away lamented and mourned as one of this country's ideal citizens.

He was assassinated in the July preceding by Charles J. Guiteau, who has hung for the crime he deliberately committed.

A disappointed office-seeker, a man MADDED BY THE FAILURE to secure the recognition he deemed was his by right, he killed a good man.

Few men ever passed out of active life and the high office of the presidency more lamented and more generally missed than Garfield.

He was possessed of many of the qualities of the statesman, and, but for his weakness in being of a student turn of mind, MORE THAN A MAN OF ACTION, he would have left a great name.

His failure to recognize the great and able men of his time, and entrusting too much to Blaine, involved him in factional controversy within the party in a way that destroyed the harmony of his administration. Garfield's real character would have asserted itself, however, in the course of his term.

A GREAT LOSS TO SALEM.

The fact that the Oregon Nursery Company has bought land in Washington county for its nurseries is a serious fact to consider.

That institution has been THE GREATEST EMPLOYER OF LA-

Scrofula

Makes its presence known by many signs,—glandular tumors, bunches in the neck, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, catarrh and wasting diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla Effects permanent cures.

Good business judgment demands that one's capital should be so managed as to always be earning something.

Idle money is a dead asset and the interest it should earn is lost.

It can be converted into a live asset by being deposited in our Savings Department. There it will constantly earn three per cent interest without any risk or trouble on your part and yet be available when wanted.

Savings Department
Capital National Bank

BOR in this community, and has built up a business running into the millions.

Because of a disagreement with the concern they rented their packing houses and offices from, this community is to lose this splendid industry.

The trustees of that concern should have GONE TO ANY LENGTH to save the Oregon Nursery Company from the expensive and almost disastrous necessity of removing their plant from a very favorable location.

The banking business of this city, the postal receipts, the payrolls of this city have been struck a severe blow. The effect will be felt in future MORE THAN AT PRESENT...

An effort should still be made to retain the Oregon Nursery Company at Salem. The trustees should consider the matter from the standpoint of the welfare of the city that has done so much for their institution.

No other city would allow a business with such a payroll to slip away from it without an effort to save it. The business could be retained by a proper effort, AT LEAST IN PART.

Is it not worth while making the effort? Let the business men of the city take up the proposition of keeping the business at Salem.

THE SALEM POSTAL SERVICE.

The time has come to demand better postal service for the Capital City. There are not half enough letter carriers.

We are being treated as A RURAL COMMUNITY, with rural mail service instead of a city of the second rank in the state.

The salary of Postmaster Hirsch was raised three times. It was raised to $2700 in 1904, and clerk hire was advanced.

Postmaster Farrar's salary was raised to $2800 August 1st. That salary is always raised $100 at a clip.

Salem has the SAME NUMBER of letter carriers the city had TEN YEARS AGO, and their wages have not been increased in twenty years.

In ten years the number of clerks has been increased from three clerks and a deputy to seven clerks, postmaster and deputy.

The amount of money allowed FOR CLERK HIRE has been increased fourfold in twenty years. The receipts of the office have been constantly increased.

More carriers—at least twice as many—would increase the receipts of the office, and MORE THAN PAY FOR THEMSELVES.

Salem is entitled to stamp depostories and sub-stations. They are the positive needs of the city. More anon.

X-RAYS

There are some men in Salem, as well as in other towns in Oregon, who if served with Ambrosia by direct orders of Jupiter, would send it back and kick about the flavor.

George Easting, son of the president of the Milwaukee railroad, ran over and automobile dabbled a poor devil of a cyclist in Wisconsin, Monday Easting said he was sorry. There is one grand trait about a "bubble" and that is it kills its owners and strangers with laudable impartiality.

The "took him for a deer" season has arrived, and the blamed fool who couldn't hit the side of the barn intentionally is now taking his usual successful "pop shots."

A man who goes into the woods with a gun and shoots at anything before he knows what it is, should be punished like any other assassin. The fool killer never is around when he is needed.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Thousands Have Kidney

Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours. A sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

BAND CONCERT.

Fine Program to Be Rendered in Wilson Avenue This Evening.

The Salem Military Band will give an open air concert in Wilson avenue this evening. The band has made rapid progress under the efficient leadership of H. N. Stoudenmeyer, and is now an organization of which any city should be proud. An excellent program has been arranged for this evening, and no doubt there will be a large crowd of music lovers present to enjoy it.

Sprains.

S. A. Read, of Cisco, Tex., writes, March 11, 1901: My wrist was sprained so badly by a fall that it was useless; and after using several remedies that failed to give relief, used Ballard's Snow Liniment, and was cured. I earnestly recommend it to any one suffering from sprains. Sold by D. J. Fry.

Notice to Land Owners.

Sealed proposals for the sale of land to the State of Oregon for a site for a School for Feeble Minded and Epileptic Children will be received from owners by the State Board of Public Building Commissioners of the State of Oregon, until 1 o'clock p. m., October 22, 1906. The land wanted must be within ten miles of the City of Salem, in a healthy locality, have a good water supply and good drainage, and convenient to transportation facilities. It must be in a body and contain from 500 to 1000 acres, one-half of which should be under cultivation. The soil should be variable, and suited to gardening, dairying and farming. Persons not owning the acreage wanted may submit bids jointly with adjoining owners.

Bids must be enclosed in sealed envelopes directed to the Board, care of the Secretary of State, Salem, Oregon, and plainly marked "Proposals for the Sale of Lands."

Bids must be on blank forms which will be furnished, together with any other information that may be desired, upon application to the Secretary of State.

The State of Oregon to have an option for four months to purchase, and the right to reject any and all bids.

GEO. E. CHAMBERLAIN,
Governor.

F. I. DUNBAR,
Secretary of State.

A Pleasant Way to Travel.

The above is the usual verdict of the traveler using the Missouri Pacific railway between the Pacific coast and the East, and we believe that the service and accommodations given merit this statement. From Denver, Colorado Springs and Denver there are two through trains daily to Kansas City and St. Louis, carrying Pullman's latest standard electric-lighted sleeping cars, chair cars and up-to-date dining cars. The same excellent service is operated from Kansas City and St. Louis to Memphis, Little Rock and Hot Springs. If you are going East or South, write for particulars and full information.

BREAKS INTO JAIL

There is a gray bearded maxim, honored on account of its venerable age, which runs thus: "Opportunity knocks once at each man's door."

John J. Ingalls once went a-sonneting around this proverb, and some say he wrote the finest sonnet ever written by an American. The actual fact is that in this day opportunity not only knocks at your door but is playing an anvil chorus on every man's door, and then lays for the owner around the corner with a club. The world is in sore need of men who can do things. Indeed, cases can easily be recalled by every one where opportunity actually smashed in the door and coiled her candidate and dragged him forth to success. These cases are exceptional, usually you have to meet opportunity half way. But the only place you can get away from opportunity is to lay down and die and opportunity does not trouble dead men, or dead ones, who flatter themselves that they are alive. Let no man repine on account of lack of early advantages. Rare-ripes, run away from advantages—they cannot digest them. If I had my say, I would set all the young folks to work and send the old ones to school," said Socrates four hundred and twenty years before Christ. What Socrates meant was that after you had battled a bit with actual life and begun to feel your need of education, you are for the first time, ready to take advantage of your opportunities and learn. Education is the matter of desire. An education can not be imparted, it has to be won; and you win by working and the benefit lies in the work—in the exercise.

The only way to make muscle strong is to use it. If you want a strong, well developed body you can get it in only one way, that is by exercising your body and in passing it is well enough to state the truth, that the best developed men are those who get their exercise in work, and this fact also holds: The best educated, are those who get their brain development out of their work or at the same time they are doing their work. Quitting work in order to get an education was the idea of a monk who fled from the world, because he thought the world was bad, an idea we have happily out grown. The man who exercises his "sky piece" at the same time he does his hands is a sure winner. When you are engaged in actual, useful effort—no matter what—you will see plenty of chances to make use of all the phosphorus you possess. You keep ideas by using them; you hold your education by giving it away. It takes work to get an education, it takes work to use it, and it takes work to keep it. The great blunder of the colleges is that they have lifted men out of life in order to educate them for life. All educated college men know this and acknowledge it. In his last annual report President Eliot, of Harvard, made a strong appeal to parents to get their children into the practical world of life as soon as possible, and not expect that a college degree of itself would insure success. Those who want to grow and evolve should not give too much time to the latest novel and daily paper. Don't spread yourself out thin. Concentrate on a few things; the very best educated men do not know everything! Choose what you want to be, and get at it. You'll win. "Oh," it will look discouraging after your first fine burst of enthusiasm, and there is just where you will have to bring your will to bear. Keep at it; don't lose your nerve; why adopt the Goodyear vertebrae? If you quit it simply shows that you did not want an education, you only thought you did, you are not willing to pay the price. In the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson there is in a convict cell three architects designs tacked to the wall, and on a shelf were several books from the International Correspondence School of Scranton, Pa. Is it possible? The question was asked of Dr. Pray, the prison doctor, is it possible that a convict is taking a correspondence course in architecture? "Not only that," was the reply, "but a good many of our men are studying hard to better their mental condition. This particular man you see, has been working at the course for three years. He draws plans for us and is doing work for parties outside. The man was hunted up and found in the marble room. He seemed pleased to know that his work had been noticed. "You see," he said, "I only work six hours a day for the state, and after that my time is my own, and I try to improve it. There are no bowling alleys, pool rooms, and saloons here, no place to go." And he smiled. A convict and getting a practical scientific education, and so many of us who think we are frittering away our time. Then it was learned that one of the prison guards seeing the progress that this particular convict had made in drawing and designing, had taken up the same course himself, studying several hours a week; the prisoner and the guard working together preparing their themes. And now we are going to lose both, said the doctor with an unprofessional grin, "for the Board of Pardons having seen that this convict by acquiring a useful education has really earned his right to pardon, and are going to set him free, and the guard has been offered forty dollars a month more than he is now getting to become assistant foreman of a construction gang. If, in its anxiety to present itself, Opportunity will break into jail, surely those outside cannot complain of opportunity's lack of persistence in hunting out the ready and the willing. Ages ago, man was educated only BY HIS WORK; later, attempts were begun to educate him FOR HIS WORK; the I. C. S. system is designed to educate HIM, FOR HIS WORK AT HIS WORK.

This wonderful institution has a fully equipped branch office at below address, where information and catalogs can be had for the asking. A postal card or letter from any interested party will bring catalogs on subject interested in, or a personal call from the Representative who will explain the system and methods employed, also terms and prices.
