Pendleton Fair Queen.

Miss Anna DeLatoni, of Pendleton, Or., was chosen queen of the mardi gras carnival at the Pendleton fair Saturday night.

Ward-Hill Wedding.

At the home of Dr. J. L. Hill, in Albany Saturday evening occurred one of the most pleasant weddings of the season, when Miss Emily Graham Hill was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Ward. In the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends Rev. S. A. Douglas, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the impressive ring ceremony. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, Mrs. M. D. Brandeberry presiding at the piano, Miss Emily Hill, attended by Miss Pearl Savage as bridesmaid, and Mr. Ward, attended by Mr. Vere Macduffe, of Portland, as groomsmen, entered the spacious library of Dr. Hill's home and were joined for life.

The decorations were of cut flowers and evergreens tastefully arranged. After the ceremony a dainty lunch was served in the dining room.

In here the decorations were of pink and white, asters and roses prevailing. Misses Carrie Ward and Cassie and Ruth Thompson served the repast.

The bride was beautiful in white net and the groom was attired in the conventional black. Miss Mary Thompson caught the bride's bouquet.—Albany Herald.

The groom is the brother of Frank Ward, of the Red Cross pharmacy in this city, and sister of Mrs. Charles Knowland, both of whom were present at the wedding.

STEAMER LETTERS.

Fun and Fancies For the Ocean Traveler.

"Steamer letter" has come to have a peculiar significance in the language of travelers. The scope of such a letter is as wide as the ocean to which it belongs, for in its development it means anything from the gigantic baskets of fruits and flowers which, crowding the saloons on sailing days, are a burden to every one but the honored recipients, down to the humble postal card without even a picture, which has been scribbled by some enthusiastic friend, crammed in a post box and comes out at the last moment by the supplementary mail.

If one's object is simply to give a friend pleasure there is nothing that can accomplish this more surely than to send a package of letters to the purser of the steamer, asking him to deliver one each day during the voyage. After the first day out, when no postman makes his daily rounds, when the only news the wireless telegraph brings is that some actress has again lost her jewels or some great house at Newport has been burglarized, a personal letter, with the least touch of home feeling in it, will appreciate its value every second. Therefore if one is a good letter writer and can write a seemingly spontaneous letter for each day there is nothing that will give the absent voyager more pleasure. But, unfortunately, the talent of good letter writing is bestowed on few and those to whom fate has denied it must devise something else as a substitute for daily letters.

Where amusement alone is desired in a steamer letter the best way perhaps is to have for each day of the voyage a verse with some nonsensical accompaniment. For example, in one box a lemon, with a stick of candy through which it was to be imbibed, had this verse:

If a body feel the motion sailing o'er the sea,
If a body take a notion very sick to be,
Then a body needs a lemon. Here is one for you.
May it prove a strength and comfort, as 'tis said to do.

A box for a college girl had for the first day a tintype of three of her chums waving handkerchiefs in farewells, marked "To be opened on leaving the pier." A package of gum or a bottle of clam bouillon, both of which are said to be specifics for seasickness, will sometimes please those who "feel the motion." A "Jackson ball" can be sent as an "entire voyage souvenir." A collection of funny pictures about the sea or traveling adventures can be made from old copies of Life or Fliegende Blätter and will never come amiss. A clever story of the ocean or of travel cut from an old magazine and bound by itself in a piece of heavy wall paper will surely give pleasure.—Good Housekeeping.

How to Wash a Sweater.

Like all garments made of wool, the sweater will very probably shrink unless great care is taken in washing it. Few laundresses can be depended on for this necessary care, so that it is a good thing if one knows how to wash it at home. To do this satisfactorily fill a small tub half full of soft water that is tepid. Dissolve half a bar of good white soap in a quart of boiling water and add enough to make good suds.

Turn the sweater wrong side out and shake it well, then put into the suds and let it soak for fifteen minutes. Gently dip it up and down and work between the hands to remove the dirt without spoiling the shape of the garment. Pour off the water and rinse in two or three clear waters, making sure that they are of the same temperature.

Do not wring the sweater, but squeeze out as much water as possible and hang it up until thoroughly dry. No ironing is necessary.

In case the sweater is unusually dirty, prepare another tubful of suds and wash the second time before putting into the rinsing water.

The main point to be remembered is that the soap should not be rubbed on the garment, but dissolved in the water.

Wedding Superstitions.

The bridegroom who carries a miniature horseshoe in his pocket will always be lucky.

The bride who dreams of fairies on the night before her wedding will be three times blessed.

Never give a telegram to a bride or bridegroom on the way to church. It is a sure omen of evil.

Marriages on board ship are considered unlucky. If you can't be married on dry land remain unwed.

The finding of a spider on the wedding gown by the bride is considered a sure token of happiness to come.

A Kitchen Convenience.

Sieve, with adjustable meshes for powdered sugar, flour, purées and macadamia.

A Hint About Old Gloves.

Old kid gloves or kid slippers may be utilized for making kettle or iron holders. Leather being a bad conductor of heat, these holders are much more effective than flannel ones. Squares of the kid should be cut out, joined and covered with felt or flannel, the edges being bound with braid or strips of thin leather.

Miss Melva Glover was pleasantly surprised by a number of friends who gathered at the home of her parents on Court street Saturday evening to celebrate her 15th birthday. The evening was delightfully spent with games and a dainty luncheon was served.

AN ESTIMABLE WOMAN DEAD.

Mrs. Mary J. Brown Passed Peacefully Away at Her Home Sunday Evening.

Mrs. Mary J. Brown, a well-known and estimable lady, died at her home on Cottage street in this city Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Brown had been suffering from heart disease for the past year, and, although her death was sudden, it was not unexpected.

The funeral will be held from the residence Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and interment will be had at the Odd Fellows' cemetery. The services will be conducted by Rev. H. T. Babcock, of the Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Brown had long been a consistent member.

Mrs. Brown was born in Belfast, Ireland, January 12, 1835, and came to America with her parents when a little child. The family lived in Pennsylvania for a few years, and then settled at Des Moines, Iowa. She was married in that city, and her husband died there nearly 20 years ago. She came to Oregon in 1891, and has resided in Salem ever since.

She is survived by six children: Albert L. Brown, Miss Belle Brown, Mrs. D. C. Minto, of this city, and David B. Brown, Wallace Brown and Mrs. W. O. Moon, of Des Moines, Ia. Mr. Thomas King, of this city, is her brother.

She was highly respected by the entire community, and was a woman of exemplary Christian character.

Shipping Doors by Mail.

Employees of the postoffice have grown accustomed to receiving freak articles sent through the mail, but when a wagon was backed up to the Sixth street entrance recently with a load of wooden doors, they thought the limit had been reached. The doors were only samples, but each was about 10 inches wide and weighed 20 ounces. There were 1000 of them and they are destined to all parts of the United States. The postage on the doors, which were sent by Columbia River Door company, of Ranier, will amount to $200, says the Skamania County Pioneer.

A Funny Incident.

When Senator Walcott first went to Colorado he and his brother opened a law office at Idaho Springs under the firm name of "Ed. Walcott & Bro." Later the partnership was dissolved. The future senator packed his few assets, including the sign that had hung outside his office, upon a burro and started for Georgetown, a mining town farther up in the hills. Upon his arrival he was greeted by a crowd of miners who critically surveyed him and his outfit. One of them looking first at the sign that hung over the pack, then at Walcott and finally at the donkey ventured, "Say, stranger, which of you is Ed?"

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two 50 cent bottles cured me sound and well.

It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity. Sold by D. J. Fry's drug store.

Shaving.

The earliest known mention of shaving is in the Bible (Genesis xiv. 14). "And he (Joseph) shaved himself and came before Pharaoh." Shaving the beard was introduced by the Romans about 300 B. C.

Danger from the Plague.

There's grave danger from the plague of Coughs and Colds that are so prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Mrs. Wallis of Forest City writes: "It's a God-send to people living in climates where coughs and colds prevail. I find it quickly ends them. It prevents pneumonia, cures lagrippe, gives wonderful relief in asthma and hay fever, and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off consumption, coughs and colds. 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by J. C. Perry's drug store. Trial bottle free.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, tumors, ulceration, falling and displacement, or perhaps irregularity or suppression, causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Miss F. Orser, of 14 Warrenton Street, Boston, tells women how to avoid such suffering; she writes:

"I suffered misery for several years with female irregularities. My back ached; I had bearing-down pains, and frequent headaches."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

I could not sleep and could hardly drag around. I consulted two physicians without relief, and as a last resort, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to my surprise, every ache and pain left me. I gained ten pounds and am in perfect health."

Miss Pearl Ackers, of 327 North Summer Street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— I suffered with painful periods, severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen; was very nervous and irritable, and my trouble grew worse every month. My physician failed to help me and I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found it was doing me good. All my pains and aches disappeared, and I no longer fear my monthly periods."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman, and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years she has, under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge.
