A HORRID TALE OF TORTURE

Marseilles, France, Oct. 18.—The mail advices which reached here yesterday brought another revolting story of the doings of King Than-Thal, of Annam, showing that he went to the extent of cannibalism. After killing one of his wives he caused the body to be carved and served for dinner, forcing his entourage to eat it under pain of death.

Some of the king's wives were bound and burned with burning oil and subjected to other cruelty, while naked women were thrown into cages with beasts, where they were devoured before the eyes of the king. Finally the French authorities stepped in and made a prisoner of Than-Thal, who has been adjudged insane by Dr. Dumas, of the French colonial staff.

The royal guard has been disbanded, the palace has been placed under the protection of 150 native soldiers, and the terror-stricken inmates of the palace have been rescued from further suffering. The majority of the latter were women who bore the marks of revolting tortures. Some of them were terribly mutilated, their faces being slashed and tongues cut out, while others had been suspended by pinchers attached to the fleshy part of their legs.
