Prominent Roseburg People Wed.

One of the pretty family weddings in Roseburg in the autumn season was that of Miss Ruth Hamilton, daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, to Elbert B. Hermann, the youngest son of Hon. Binger Hermann, of Roseburg, which took place at the Hamilton residence Wednesday evening.

The bride is a native daughter of Roseburg and is a leader in the social set. Mr. Hermann is one of Roseburg's successful young lawyers, and is rapidly building up a lucrative practice. The young couple are spending their honeymoon in Spokane.

Married Last Night.

The wedding of Miss Lou Armstrong and Mr. LeRoy Buckingham took place at 8 o'clock last evening, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends, Rev. P. S. Knight officiating.

The young couple left on the late train for Los Angeles and other California points to spend their honeymoon.

FOR AUTUMN WEAR.

Some of the Fabrics That Will Be Used in Shirt Waists.

Yes, we are going to have shirt waists again, or, rather, still, for there are literally thousands of new designs and kinds. Most of them are made rather closer to the figure than they were. There is a little superfluous material in them to bag down in front or be tucked into a lump under the belt below the waist line. Some of them are almost entirely snug fitting, with just what fullness would naturally be taken up in darts gathered at the front. This gives them a much neater and prettier finish. Only the very sheer silks and batistes for dressy wear are made full. Such materials from their very nature need the extra gathers to make them perfect.

Just now we will not speak so much of the thin waists, for those we have had all summer, and they may be worn until quite late in the season, but of the new, warmer ones which we shall all be glad to have before long. The shops are full of the prettiest and most serviceable Scotch flannels in dainty stripes, tiny checks or entirely plain. But howsoever a Scotch flannel is designed the material is always the same—fine, solid, unshrinkable and fadeless. This flannel is the best of all the stuffs shown this season. The majority of the colors are delicate, but there are more decided ones for those who want them. Some of the waists made of this have deep cuffs delicately embroidered along the cuffs, collar and the fold down the front. Many of them have tiny pockets for watches. The bishop sleeve prevails, but for dressy waists it is cut short and the upturned elbow cuff is highly ornamented. The fine castle braids are as popular as before—perhaps more so—in the garnishing of these woolen waists. There is absolutely no limit to the variety of these braids, and all are lovely. Some are extremely rich—so rich, indeed, that they are considered suitable to trim silk and velvet.

Many of the different woolen waists—and there are many of silk and wool mixtures and also cashmere, mohair and no one knows what all—have additions in the way of lace applique in some form or another. Lace chemisettes, which are made to go on the outside of the waist in a V point with the high collar trimmed with a line of the same kind of lace, are highly prized just now because they are quite them. One cuff "have" several narrow ones or two wide ones or even two half length Gibson plaits from the shoulders. One fetching design is in a flannel of pale tan, scarcely more than biscuit, the sleeves the regulation affairs, with cuffs to button. There is a line of raised embroidery down the front plait and around the high collar. Several plaits down the front add to its dressiness. Plaits in flannel or any kind of wool goods are really handsome as trimming.

Some of the soft grays, tans, resedas and tender hellos are certainly very enticing in these waist materials. Tiny pearl buttons help to trim some of them. Madras with a downy surface is seen, and, in fact, there are too many kinds of material to mention. One pretty thing was of navy blue cotton flannel with a nap cut so close that it looked like velvet.

Of the silk waists one may say they are too many to describe in detail, but they are made up after the same general design and are trimmed with castle braid to match or decidedly contrast with the color. Plaid silks are made for most of the waists intended for ordinary wear, and for street they are liked better than the plain silks, always, of course, excepting black.

Black silk in the rich and heavy qualities of bygone days is now decidedly in vogue. The styles in the cut of skirts have seriously interfered with the wearing of good silks, but now, with the advent of simpler lines, it becomes an economy to get a good silk. The American silks surpass all others in real value, as many of the foreign and even some of the domestic silks are weighted with zinc, glucose, sugar of lead, glue and, in fact, so many things to make it appear all that one could desire that it is small wonder women have almost discarded silk in favor of more reliable stuffs.

THE WIFE WHO POSTPONED

Her Husband's Aunt Says They Do Not Want Any More Like Her.

"I think about the greatest nuisance a man can have around the house is a woman who postpones," remarked old Mrs. Sharpleigh as she inspected through her lorgnette the arrangement of the bride's sitting room.

The bride took her remark personally. "I never do!" she observed with spirit.

"That's right, my dear. I don't believe you do either. My nephew Jack would not have been likely to select another woman of that type. He suffered enough with his first wife in that way."

The old lady helped herself to a generous cup of tea and proceeded with her reminiscences.

"You must have seen your predecessor's photograph—ahem—my dear, and while she was one of those soulful, eth-

"WOULD PUT OFF MENDING JACK'S SOCKS," real blonds with all that kind of prettiness, she had a weak chin. If I were a man I wouldn't marry the most attractive woman going. If she had a weak chin. They hadn't been married four months before things began to go all wrong in the housekeeping and all because she didn't have the get up and go in her to do things right away. She always put off until tomorrow. The worst thing she did was to keep a hundred dollars overnight in the house without depositing it in the bank, as Jack told her to do, and the result was it disappeared and no one knows to this day who stole it.

"You always had to ask her at least three times to do things, and if you wanted something done by Saturday you asked her Monday."

"Her very death was caused by postponing. She had a cough, and she put off going to the doctor until it was too late and she had consumption. Oh, don't talk to me, my dear. We have had all the postponers we want in this family," concluded the old lady as she rose and shook the crumbs from her black silk skirt. ELINOR WEST.

WALLA WALLA WON

Whitman College Defeated Willamette in Score of Ten to Five

The Missionaries defeated the Politicians on the Willamette grounds yesterday in a clean and pretty, though colorless game of football in a score of 5 to 11.

The result was somewhat of a surprise, as it is admitted by those who know that the Salem players, taken individually, are more than matches for the sons of Marcus.

Thorough organization, constant training and intelligent coaching did the work for the boys from the sage brush. All these seems lacking in the Willamette team, which has some splendid material, but each fellow was practically allowed to play on his own hook. Laird, the Whitman coach, was cool and confident all the time. He has just cause to be elated, as the effect of his master training was visible at all times during the game.

Willamette's coach, C. O. Boyer, retired dean of the normal college, did not know what position he would play his men fifteen minutes before the game was called.

W. Lair Thompson, of Albany, was referee. He is onto his job. He is perfectly familiar with the new as well as the old rules. Bishop, of Salem, and Laird, of Walla Walla, were umpires.

Salem does not enthuse over football. Only a sprinkling of rooters gathered on the field and pressed their toes to the heated rim of the gridiron.

It is claimed that Whitman was only fooling in the first half of the game, and that all the time the Walla Walla players were resting, saving themselves for the game with Multnomah. However, they deny this, and say they played their best.

Willamette had the best of the first half, and her touchdown came then. Rader failed to kick the goal, and her points were kept down to five. Walla Walla did all her work in the second half, and for about 15 minutes waked up and played as pretty ball as the most enthusiastic could desire.

Lounsbury, Nace, Owens and McKnight did the best work for Salem. This is no reflection on the other boys' capacity, and all the team needs to make a winner is well-directed practice.

Philbrook, Spangler and Ducher were the star players. Rader and Coleman were in good shape and deserve credit.

Fashionable Marriage.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 25.—In St. Stephens Episcopal church here today the marriage took place of Miss Hope Shepley, daughter of Col. Geo. L. Shepley, and Mr. Henry Hollister, of New York. The marriage was one of the fashionable events of the season.

Hurry and Worry

Hurry, like a cyclone, whirls you along at a rate that quickly exhausts your energy, and leaves you a nerveless, wretched, broken-down physical wreck.

Worry accomplishes the same results in another way. It drags you through the dark, gloomy tunnel of forbodings, wrecks your nerves and breaks down the constitution.

Then don't hurry; don't worry. But you will; and your nerveless, exhausted condition brings headaches, neuralgia, heart, stomach, liver and kidney troubles. The thing to do is: Strengthen the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"Six months I was bedfast with nervous prostration. I had sinking spells, a cold clammy feeling, couldn't stand the slightest noise. At times I would almost fly to pieces; stomach very weak. My husband insisted on my taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I began to improve before I had finished the first bottle, and to-day I am entirely cured."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Do Your Meals Fit?

Do You Feel Snug and Comfortable Around Your Waist Line After a Hearty Meal?

Did your last meal taste deliciously good to you, and did you eat all you wanted? Could you have patted your rotundity in glee and felt proud of your appetite, and of your good strong stomach? Do you feel rosy now because you last meal gave you no inconvenience whatever? If not, you have dyspepsia in some form, and probably never realized it.

If you have the least trouble in your stomach after eating, no matter how little or how much you eat, there is trouble brewing, and you must correct it at once.

Most all stomach troubles come from poor, weak, scanty gastric juice that precious liquid that ought to turn your food into rich, red blood.

If you have nausea, your gastric juice is weak. If you have sour risings or belchings, your food is fermenting; your gastric juice is weak. If you have a bloaty feeling of aversion to food, your gastric juice is weak.

You need something in your stomach to supply the gastric juice which is scanty, and to give power to the weak gastric juice. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this very thing.

Now think—one grain of one of the ingredients of these wonderful little tablets digest 3000 grains of food. They are several times more powerful than the gastric juice in a good, strong, powerful stomach.

Besides, they increase the flow of gastric juice, just what you need to get all the good possible out of everything you eat. You will never have that "lump of lead" in your stomach or any other stomach trouble after taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Then everything you eat will be digested, it will give you strength, vim, energy and a rosy disposition. You'll feel good all around your waist line after every meal, and it will make you feel good all over.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will make you feel happy after eating a good hearty meal. Take one or two after eating. You'll feel fine—then your meals will fit, no matter what or when you eat.

We want to send a sample package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets free of charge, so you can test them yourself and be convinced. After you have tried the sample, you will be so satisfied that you will go to the nearest drug store and get a 50c box.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 52 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Slaughter House Case.

The case of the City of Portland against J. H. Cook and others, appealed from the district court of Multnomah county, was argued in the supreme court yesterday afternoon. The case is known as the "Slaughter house" case, and is of interest to every town in the state. The defendants and appellants were found guilty of violating a municipal law in killing animals inside the city limits; the case was taken from the municipal to the district court and then appealed to the supreme court. The city won in the two lower courts.
