

A Mild Laxative

Ask your doctor to name some of the results of constipation. His long list will begin with sick-headache, biliousness, dyspepsia, thin blood, bad skin. Then ask him if he would recommend your using Ayer's Pills for constipation. Just one pill at bedtime, a few times, that's all.

WIFE FOR SALE TO ANY MAN

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., under date of October 22, says:

Miss Elizabeth Magie, of Chicago, the young woman who has gained so much notoriety by advertising herself for sale to the highest bidder, was for several years a clerk in the dead-letter office of the post-office department. She resigned about three years ago because, she said, she could not be a party to the government's manner of doing business.

At the time of her resignation she was drawing a salary of $100 a month as a stenographer and typewriter, and after her resignation went to work at a small salary for a business firm. She soon tired of that and opened an office of her own.

Miss Magie's parents came to Washington about sixteen years ago, and her mother still resides here, living with her son, Edward R. Magie, at 28 Seaton Place, Northwest. Her father, James K. Magie, died about three years ago. He was well known in Washington, having helped to found the People's church. Miss Magie was his constant companion during his life, and absorbed many of his ideas. Her father used to say of her, "She wants to fly, but hasn't got the wings."

Has Had Her Own Way.

"We can never tell what she is going to do next," said her mother. "As a child she showed unusual attainments, and since she was thirteen years old, when she left school, we have had to let her have her own way. Early in life she began to write, and when a young girl wrote a parody on 'Carfax' that attracted wide attention."

"I know my daughter is a woman of high ideals. Some may think she is crazy, but she isn't. I really believe she published the notice in Chicago purely for self-advertising purposes. When she read Mary McLaughlin's book, she said: 'People may think Mary McLaughlin is crazy. They will be saying the same thing about me some day.'"

"Elizabeth has always been what one might call eccentric," continued her mother; "but she numbered her friends by the hundreds, and they swear by her. I think she is a genius, but I can't say I fancy being the mother of a genius."

Devoted to Single Tax.

For several years Miss Magie was the secretary of the Woman's Single Tax club, of Washington. She has advanced ideas about the relation between landlords and tenants, and is the inventor of a game called "The Landlord," which has been on the market for several years. Henry George, Jr., is one of her firm friends, and it is said, has done much to strengthen her conviction on the single tax theory.

"I know what she will say," declared Mrs. Magie. "She will tell me not to worry; that she can take care of herself, and I know from past experience that she can. Why, when she was a mere girl she saved money from her earnings to buy a home at Brentwood—a house with several acres, and there she lived with none but an old colored woman and a man servant. She has been writing all her life, and I have stacks of manuscripts now that are only waiting for a publisher."

Love Affairs Numerous.

"Has she ever had any love affairs?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, yes, she has had the usual number, I presume, but she used to say she was disgusted with folks who thought they were in love when they were not. My daughter doesn't want to get married just yet. I presume when the right man comes around she will, but not for some time."

"How old is she?"

"Well, as she says, she wasn't born yesterday."

"Thirty?"

"Yes, she is thirty, and then some, but she doesn't look it. Oh, my daughter will come out all right. She has a purpose in what she has done, and she will tell us all in good time."

Miss Magie now says that she meant nothing by her invitation for bids, except to tender her untiring mental efforts to an employer, who would be appreciative of a $10 a week typewriter who thinks that "typewriting is a—L."

Is Much Misunderstood.

She reiterates her previous statements, but says she has been greatly misunderstood. She declares that she now wishes she had not published the advertisement. The young woman is said to be dazed at the furor her offer has created. Her bold, free doctrine and the inventory of her charms and virtues are causing a great deal of discussion.

Miss Magie's announcements have not met with very warm approval from pastors throughout the country. One clergyman has said the young woman's attitude is too ridiculous and vulgar to be given any consideration. Dr. Scudder, the "Fighting Parson," of New York, says:

"No decent person can look upon this young woman's effrontery with equanimity. It is offensive and a disgrace against morality to bring such a thing before the public. If she offers herself to the highest bidder with her alleged unconventional viewpoint, the whole attitude is pernicious. If she offers herself for marriage only, then she is, I must confess, unusually frank. She would be then, as she says, doing nothing more than other women do every day, in selling themselves to titles and rich husbands."

Attended Brother's Funeral.

Rev. J. P. Farmer, of Portland, formerly a Baptist minister located at Salem, accompanied the remains of his brother, Samuel Farmer to Salem yesterday. The funeral of Mr. Farmer was held in Portland and he was buried in the Odd Fellows' cemetery in this city. Samuel Farmer was 62 years old and his death was due to the effects of the grip which he contracted last winter. He was born in England and came to this country in 1857. He resided in the east until seven years ago when he came to Oregon and since that time he made his home with his brother, and died at his home.

Constipation.

Health is absolutely impossible, if constipation be present. Many serious cases of liver and kidney complaint have sprung from neglected constipation. Such a deplorable condition is unnecessary. There is a cure for it. Herbine will speedily remedy matters. C. A. Lindsay, P. M., Bronson, Fla., writes, Feb. 12, 1902: "Having used Herbine, I find it a fine medicine for constipation." 50c a bottle. For sale by D. J. Fry drug store.

$8,000,000 for New York Schools. New York, Nov. 1.—It was decided today that the recent appropriation by the board of estimate of $8,000,000 for new schools is the city will be provided by the sale of city bonds. So quick is the city extending especially in Brooklyn that schools have to be built in all directions to meet the requirements.
