LEBANON PEOPLE HAPPY

She has the talent of another Helen Jackson.

Governor Chamberlain was next introduced, and given a most hearty welcome. He showed that in the past few years Oregon had been put on the map to stay. He showed that there had been great progress and development in all parts of the state. Parts of the state that a few years ago were wilderness were now under a high state of cultivation. He highly complimented the work of the Willamette Valley Development League, and of the Farmers' Institutes. He condemned the immense holdings of lands by non-resident corporations. They were a curse to the state, and ought to be broken up. He mentioned some of the holdings of millions of acres that should be broken up, but he did not know how it could be straightened out.

If the assessor could not do what was necessary to break up these holdings, and compel them to bear their just share of public burdens, and put them on the market, some way must be found to divide them up.

Ed. T. Judd delighted the audience with a fine bass solo. All knew he could raise fine horses, and tell other people how to raise them, not all knew he could sing so well.

J. W. Bailey, state dairy and food commissioner, was switched in place of the traveling state librarian. He highly praised the county school exhibit made by the county superintendent of schools of Yamhill county, and also in Polk county. Last month 21,000 pounds of cream had been sent out of Lebanon. This was three times as much as was shipped the same month a year ago. The output of dairy products in Oregon the past year would amount to about $11,000,000, greater than all the gold product of Alaska. And we had only begun. This was the best dairying region in the United States or the world.

Prof. McKay, of Iowa, after thorough examination, declared that Western Oregon was the best dairying country in the world.

Prof. Farrington, of the Wisconsin Agricultural College, declared to the same effect. He said he could irrigate Western Oregon with milk. He advised against buying $30 dairy cows. Better pay $100 or $150 and get a profitable animal. In Oregon average prices of best butter was 28 cents. In Elgin, Ill., district the average was 21 cents.

Wednesday Forenoon.

The rains poured down, and the crowds poured out to the Farmers' Institute. Prof. Lewis, of the Agricultural College, talked scientific apple-growing, while the people brought in hark loads of the beautiful fruit that tempted Eve, to prove what he said was true. The professor of agriculture at Mt. Angel college talked alfalfa culture, and proved that an educated man could be a practical farmer, and a good story teller. Wm. Kramer can handle a big farm, a bunch of cattle or an audience with equal facility. Growing clover and raising fine draft horses were handled by J. W. Settle and E. T. Judd, both able to hold an audience.

Wednesday Afternoon.

The Development Convention was opened at the Opera House with a ringing talk on the purposes of the Willamette Valley League, that put all in a good humor. Fred Groner made a talk on good roads. Washington county has a great many good roads. He is one of the men who has made many miles of them, and told the large audience about it. The cost of hauling the farmer's crop to market was 25 cents per ton per mile. This can be reduced to 15 cents per ton by expending $5000 per mile on macadamized roads. That saving would build such roads in six years.

W. P. Elmore, of Brownsville, next talked on the transportation needs of Oregon—especially Brownsville. He spoke of the problem of getting cars to ship out their produce—$20,000 worth ready to go forward. That amount of money would be brought to Brownsville within 30 days and distributed among laborers and employes, if they could get cars. He thought the railroad men had done their best to get engines and cars and move the stuff lying at the stations everywhere. It was a great problem, and he did not know how to solve it. The railroad men were facing it squarely, and would find relief in time. He complimented the S. P. Co for its greatly improved train service on the East Side. They could now go to Portland and return the same day.

City Superintendent Barnes, of the Lebanon high school, was introduced and spoke for the educational section of the congress. C. D. Steen talked dairying from a practical standpoint. He claimed it was best of all industries. Ten years hence Oregon would be known for its dairy exports. Lumber would not last and dairying was the basis of successful farming. Principal McDougal, M. A. Miller, Col. Montague, I. I. Swan, Elder McFarland and others made speeches.

Wednesday Evening.

Another immense audience crowded the opera house, with music by the Lebanon orchestra, composed of young ladies and gentlemen led by Doris Gregory, first violin, and her sister as second. There were quartets by the ladies, solos by Milt Miller and Col. Newport. The trains on the Springfield branch and on the main line were all knocked out, and the speakers advertised for the evening were all unable to arrive, except Col. Hofer, who was present, and had to occupy time for nearly two hours, until Prof. Hawley arrived. There was nothing else for it, and the audience had to stand for it from 8:0 to 10:10, when a delayed train arrived with congressman-elect, and the house burst into cheers. The haggard, sleepy looks vanished from the faces of the crowd, and they seemed to welcome a change.

Resolutions were adopted thanking the Southern Pacific train officials for the improved train service on the East Side. This ended one of the largest and most successful development meetings ever held in the valley. The effect upon Lebanon was felt immediately. A man arrived with capital to put in an ice plant.

TEACHERS BUSY AT INSTITUTE

Marion County Teachers Are Being Drilled in Art of Pedagogy

The second day's session of the Marion County Teachers' Institute found all the school ma'ams busy at work. The sessions began early in the forenoon, and this is really the working day of the institute.

The institute is divided into sections and the different grades hold sessions at the same hour.

In the primary section Miss Sloan lectured on "Reading," and Professor Traver on "Language."

E. D. Ressler talked on "Arithmetic" in the intermediate section, and in the advanced section Professor Mulkey spoke on "Appropriate Literature for the Advanced Scholars."

Henry D. Sheldon talked on "Individual Differences and Their Significances."

The department of "One-Room Schools" was taken charge of by Professor J. H. Ackerman, who lectured on "History." The question box was conducted by R. F. Robertson.

Miss Alice M. Richards and Miss Elizabeth Topping spoke to the high school department. Miss Richards lectured on English classics and Miss Topping on "Advantages and Disadvantages of Outlines."

Bus sessions are being held this afternoon.

The teachers are planning to attend the Western division of the Oregon State Teachers' Association at Portland, beginning November 26th, and the Eastern division of the same body, to be held at Pendleton on the same date.

Yesterday Afternoon.

Superintendent Traver, of Pendleton, lectured yesterday afternoon on "Arithmetic—the Problem." He was followed by Superintendent Ackerman, who made a splendid speech on "Opportunity."

The Night's Session.

The evening session was held under the auspices of the Salem Teachers' Club. The hall was well filled with visiting teachers and Salem people. Professor Powers made an interesting address of welcome, and the "Stalwart Quartet" rendered several selections that simply brought down the house. R. W. Canfield, of Silverton, made the response on behalf of the visitors, and five-minute speeches were made by Traver, of Pendleton; Mulkey, of Ashland, and Superintendent Moores, of Salem.

At the close of the session the teachers were invited to remain and inspect the library and enjoy the informal reception given by the Salem teachers. Punch was served by a committee consisting of Misses Bertha Lick, Lena Clarke, Bertha Byrd, Orietta Krause, Alice Richards, Eda Dayton, Alma Poble and Eva Savage.

The reception committee was composed of Superintendent and Mr. Powers, Professor and Mrs. Marlette, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Graham, Barry Eastham, Mrs. Chapelle, Miss Richards and Miss Cosper. The program for this afternoon is as follows:

Primary section—Katherine E. Sloan.

Intermediate section—B. F. Mulkey.

Advance section—L. R. Traver.

One-room schools—J. H. Ackerman.

High school section—Sophie E. Townsend, H. D. Sheldon.

The institute will close Friday forenoon.

SEE THE DEMONSTRATION—

Buren & Hamilton will serve hot coffee and biscuit free all next week to show off their new ranges.

Elected Officers—

The College Oratorical Association met yesterday and elected officers as follows: President, A. R. Marker; vice-president, Miss Glover; secretary, Miss Olson.

ALL NEXT WEEK—

We will serve hot coffee and biscuit. Read our ad. Buren & Hamilton.

Mr. Kato's Lecture—

The lecture, illustrated with numerous views, at the Grand Opera House last night, by Tatsuya Kato, a Russian-Japanese war correspondent, was very entertaining, and instructive as well. The pictures were well selected, and the young correspondent explained them in a fluent, graphic manner that amply repaid those who attended for their trouble and the small expense.

COFFEE AND BISCUIT—

Buren & Hamilton are serving hot coffee and biscuit free. See their ad.

Thief Was Caught—

The man who rifled the till at W. D. Wheeler's store at Highland a few days ago has been apprehended, and he made a full confession to Mr. Wheeler, who liberally gave the fellow a chance to reform, and is not revealing the name of the culprit. The Miscreant will replace the money.

Sues for Divorce—

Mrs. Iona Jones has begun a suit in Judge Galloway's court for a divorce from Samuel E. Jones. The grounds alleged are desertion.

HAVE A DRINK?

Call at Buren & Hamilton's Demonstration window. See ad.

Will Give an Address—

Rev. B. F. Van Dyke, of Singapore, on the Island of Malakka, will address a union meeting of the First M. E. and Leslie churches of this city at the parlors of the First M. E. church tonight.

Rev. Van Dyke came to Oregon to get his bride, with whom he expects to return to Singapore soon. While in this city he is the guest of Rev. Edward Gittins, on South Commercial street.

Water Front—

The river was at the 11-foot mark at noon today, and is coming up by bounds. A part of the Jefferson bridge was captured here this morning, and the launches are busy landing logs and drift wood.

John Walling, the well-known hop man of Lincoln, is transacting business in the city today.
