COMPETITION.

In the mother of advertising, and advertising is a husky youth that has plotted man a man to flowery beds of ease. Many a fortune, too, has been wasted, but not by the merchants who use the home paper. Local advertising space, judiciously used, is business generalship that makes your competitor hustle to stay in the procession. A judicious advertiser is looked upon as a leader in his community, and the "leaders" of every city are invariably the captain of industry who are coping the coin. How about you? Are you one of the captains or just a plodding soldier of the common fold? We are here to serve you—want to serve you—tell you so every day. Our phone number is 82. A call will bring our ad man quick and he will tell you some things about advertising of the judicious kind.

BOSSISM AND THE SALEM POLICE.

Salem had a good police force under the Citizens' administration, and they were continued under Mayor Waters.

At the request of the business men City Marshal Cornelius kept those men, and added to the force when necessary MEN OF HIS OWN SELECTION.

A year ago, by sharp practice, bossism dictated the dismissal of these competent men, who kept order in the city, and the selection of untried men who were not the choice of the mayor or Chief of Police Cornelius. Against the unanimous petition OF ALL THE BUSINESS MEN OF THE CITY Salem's competent police force was discharged and men selected by an outside boss were forced

In as a slap at Cornelius and the mayor.

This police force was not only put in against the wishes of the chief of police and the head of the city government, but had orders from the boss to not report to or recognize the chief of police.

So there has never been a moment the past year when the chief of police was working with a force he could command or who reported to him for duty or reported arrests to him.

If the double murder just committed in this city is chargeable to anyone it is chargeable to the interference with the police department by the bossism that has demoralized the police service of this city.

No man, not even a policeman, can serve two masters. The police of a city CANNOT OWE THEIR PLACES TO BOSSISM, and at the same time be loyal to the chief and the city they serve.

No one will blame the policemen for taking their places at the hands of a Salem boss, but that system should be blamed for producing discord, and making it impossible to have a harmonious, effective service.

Politicians who think it is smart to put up jobs and fool the city council and to override the mayor and chief of police and the business men of the city SHOULD TAKE THE BLAME for the demoralization that follows.

The meddlesome interference of petty local bossism with the legitimate functions of the city council should be blamed for the murder and the suicide that have disgraced this city.

No matter who is chosen chief of police by the voters of the city, he should have the selection of his own force, or at least the recommendation of MEN IN WHOM HE HAS CONFIDENCE, and whom he can trust.

Whoever is elected chief of police of this city on Monday, December 3, should have the right to have men under him with whom he can work harmoniously, and who do not owe their places to the sharp practices of any boss.

Salem has had an inefficient police service the past year, not due to the fault of any man on the force, but due to the demoralization of the force by the meddlesome interference of bossism outside the council.

CLUB LIFE IN SALEM.

The Ilihee Club, of this city, is to move into new and more elegant quarters.

The Commercial Club is to be re-organized and put on a more effective footing.

Both organizations have rendered the community a great service in many ways. These organizations SHOULD BE MORE HEARTILY SUSTAINED, and it is suggested they be united.

Portland and Eugene have set the example of uniting the social and commercial organizations.

The commercial clubs of those cities have elegant homes, where they entertain strangers and visitors.

The affairs of both the Commercial Club and the Ilihee, of Salem, WOULD BE UNDER ONE MANAGEMENT.

More of the substantial and active business men of the city should be in the clubs.

Both of these clubs hold their annual meetings this week, and should seek to co-operate in their work, if not consolidate.

The Commercial Club has a good membership roll, and quite a large cash surplus on hand.

The work of the Ilihee Club could be broadened to include extension of its hospitality to all newcomers or visitors.

The impressions men and women get on first stopping at any city are lasting, and the best advertising.

The Ilihee Club could add a committee of gentlemen and ladies, whose duty it was TO ENTERTAIN STRANGERS AND VISITORS.

This is only a suggestion, and is made in the broader interest of a greater Salem, with a future that we can feel proud of.

Salem could well afford to follow the example of Portland and Eugene in uniting the functions of social and commercial club life.

MR. DAVEY'S DILEMMA.

Editor Davey deserves the chromo for having got himself inextricably entangled over the D'Anna affair.

In an editorial Sunday he charged the whole responsibility of the crime on City Recorder Moores for not having kept D'Anna in jail.

After hearing Recorder Moore's statement that Officer Longcor did not over the telephone inform him that D'Anna was threatening anyone, Mr. Davey EDITORIALLY EXONERATES HIM FROM ALL BLAME.

Then he boasts of the approval by mail and otherwise of the selfsame editorial that was based entirely on misrepresenting Judge Moores.

Then Editor Davey attends the coroner's inquest and comes away GRATIFIED THAT THE EVIDENCE COMPLETELY EXONERATES RECORDER MOORES, and that Longcor corroborated Moores on this very point, that he had not been notified of D'Anna making any threats.

Editor Davey goes further, and editorially corrects the double misstatement of its editorials and news report of Sunday with the following:

MR. MOORES' STATEMENT IS BORNE OUT BY THE SWORN TESTIMONY OF POLICEMAN LONGCOR AT THE INQUEST YESTERDAY in which the latter said he told Mr. Moores that D'Anna was crazy drunk, but he did not say that he told Moores of the threats D'Anna was making.—Daily Statesman, Tuesday.

Editor Davey, who wrote the above, who attended the inquest, then allows the following flat contradiction to appear in the Statesman's news report of the inquest:

At the jail D'Anna asked permission to put up jobs and call up Recorder Moores, and after hearing him, asked for the officer, whereupon Moores said: "I know him, turn him loose, and tell him to come back at 10 o'clock." LONGCOR SAID HE IS ABUSIVE AND THREATENING TO KILL, and Moores replied, "turn him loose, anyway."—Salem Statesman, Tuesday, November 13.

Then, according to Editor Davey, the sworn statement of Policeman Longcor on this vital matter contradicts the editor, or else it was falsely reported.

Then Editor Davey, in the same column, solemnly mixes himself and the babies up a little more by charging that The Capital Journal and City Recorder Moores are playing politics.

Mr. Davey is entirely innocent of any politics in his relations toward the whole matter. He is so ABSOLUTELY DEVOID OF POLITICAL PREJUDICE that he leans over backward.

He started in to crucify Judge Moores, then had to retract, and then lets his news report belie his editorial statement, then cries "politics."

Well, any man caught in those circumstances ought to be allowed to turn a few handspins in his effort to get right and a world of Christian charity will say drop the curtain on all the dead, including Editor Davey.
