GIVE US THE FACTS.

Scarcely has Senator Fulton left Oregon than the land fraud organ turns loose columns of rumors on him.

Then the Oregonian has this editorial comment:

The Oregonian prints today a news article setting forth the effort, or the purported effort, of the land department of the United States government to connect Senator Fulton, W. J. Furnish, J. H. Raley and others with certain irregular land transactions in the Umatilla Indian reserve. It is needless to say that the Oregonian has no notion that these gentlemen, or either of them, have in any way transgressed the laws, or secured from the government, or from any person, anything whatsoever to which they were not entitled, or in any other than a prop-

The home paper can do a great deal to promote enterprises that will build up the town. It can help by paying ITS SALOON AND GROCERY BILLS if it has any, to say nothing of payrolls, telegrams, paper bills, church and lodge bills, club dues, subscriptions to all kinds of enterprises, charities, good roads, new industries, and, if it has anything left, contributing to the poor.

TRIBUTE TO MR. HENDRICKS

No one who has known the life of T. G. Hendricks, banker, from the days he came to Eugene in the full flush and vigor of early manhood need be told of his public spirit, of his efforts for the betterment of town and county, nor will question the justice of this tribute in the Albany Herald:

"All Eugene unites in honoring T. G. Hendricks, who has donated a 47-acre tract for a city park. Mr. Hendricks' action discloses a wholly unselfish public spirit. His act proves that his fellow man and the good of the community in which he lives have a place in his heart; that even in this age of commercialism the accumulation of dollars is not the greatest achievement to which men may attain. The gift of Mr. Hendricks represented cash value of several thousand dollars. He is financially able to live without the money or the land it represents, and he did with it what his public spirit dictated. Such acts are refreshing and encouraging and have a wonderful influence toward driving out the envy and jealousy that too often rule in the minds of men. They point the way of return to that state of fraternity to which extreme selfishness is a deadly foe. Mr. Hendricks has set an example. He has won the hearts of the people of Eugene and the applause of every town and city in Oregon."

THE NEW YORK ELECTION.

(Editorial in Seattle Daily Times.)

No state and congressional election has occurred in the history of the nation, at all paralleling that which took place in the state of New York last Tuesday.

The remarkable features which characterized that election may be properly divided in the following manner:

(1) The fact that Mr. Hearst carried every city in the entire state without an exception is most remarkable, for it never occurred before in the history of elections in New York, by one man.
(2) The fact that Mr. Hearst should do that—and then be the only candidate upon the entire Democratic and Independence League tickets to be defeated is also very striking.
(3) In former years any Democrat who carried the principal cities of northern New York was dead sure of his election, because he could count on about 100,000 majority in Greater New York. While Mr. Hearst carried Greater New York by over 80,000 and every city in the state, he was still defeated by 52,000!

(4) In view of these facts, all precedents upon which political calculations are made were smashed and the future must be reckoned with from an entirely new standpoint.

(5) Hearst's defeat can be charged up to the "plunderbund," as his newspapers characterized the Belmont-Ryan-Parker-Cleveland combination.

It is perfectly apparent that these great moneyed interests expended hundreds of thousands of dollars on election day to bring out the full Republican strength in the villages and agricultural districts of the state—and that was what gave Hughes his lead of 130,000 in spite of the fact that every city of the state gave a majority for Hearst.

It is reported that Belmont issued an order requiring every employee of the street railway system of New York—the elevated system and the subway—all of which Belmont controls—to be on duty throughout election hours—thereby preventing every one of them from voting at all.

If this report be true, then Hearst lost at least 10,000 votes in Greater New York, which he would otherwise have had.

Still, 10,000 votes would not have elected Mr. Hearst—and it is probably correct to say that every man who stood for "gold" against bimetalism in 1896 in New York voted against Mr. Hearst last Tuesday.

They seem to have had no such prejudice, however, against the rest

Hearst got what he wanted. He said he was not running for the office but wanted the power it would give him. Well, he's lost the office but got the power.

"Keep it out of the paper" is the frequent request, and when complied with, the Salem publisher generally has the satisfaction of having the same party buying Portland papers to see what has been said about his little affair.

The Oregonian doth protest too much when it asks its readers to believe in advance that Jim Raley and Bill Furnish could not be guilty of any little land transaction in the Umatilla reservation.

Too much bossism in the city council has given this city what Chief of Police Cornelius called a rotten police department. But what is there left for a boss to do if he can't even boss the city council?

A few alleged Salem politicians can now ruminate on how much hell a little discord thrown into the police service of the city can produce.

After dictating to Senator Fulton whom he shall recommend for Collector of Customs, it is cruel of the Oregon to put him on the land fraud rack so soon.

The idea of Jim Raley and Bill Furnish having sprouted wings so early in life as to be incapable of taking any advantage of the land laws of the government, is the Oregonian's latest discovery.

The Oregon House of Representatives would escape a great deal of responsibility by making one lone Democratic member Speaker. Speaker Herman Rothschild would not be a bad advertisement for Oregon.

Cure For The Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED
Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained.

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into the perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way. She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached back also; has slept poorly, been nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart beats fast; then that bearing-down feeling and during her periods she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Cheer up, have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

But she doesn't get "all right," her hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES.

Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your courage gone, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Mrs. Rosa Adams, of 819 12th Street, Louisville, Ky., niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C.S.A. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:
I cannot tell you with pen and ink what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered with nervousness, extreme lassitude, "the blues," nervousness and that all-gone feeling. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it not only cured my derangement, but it has restored me to perfect health and strength. The buoyancy of a younger days has returned, and I do not feel for any longer with despondency, as I did before. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a boon to sick and suffering women."

If you have some derangement of the female organism write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Some attractive dishes are made with Lard. It's like serving indigestion with a sugar coating

How can you expect digestible food to be made from a product obtained from swine? It isn't reasonable to expect. And yet many people keep on using lard—an enemy of good digestion—through ignorance of something better. It doesn't pay. Your stomach is your best friend, and 'twill be a sorry day for you when it goes back on you.
Cottolene is the product which will set you right. It is the best and purest frying and shortening medium in the world—far superior to lard or cooking butter.
Cottolene is a vegetable, not an animal product.
For your stomach's sake, use Cottolene for cooking. You'll never go back to lard. Cottolene is never sold in bulk—it comes only in sealed white tin pails with a red label and band. In the center of the label is our trade mark—a steer's head in cotton plant wreath.
Take no substitute.
