HAS MADE A DISCOVERY.

Editor Davey has made the discovery late in the day that Chief Cornelius was a very unfit man to ever be made City Marshal.

It must be admitted that the people nominated him over Alonzo Gesner, WHO WAS THE ONLY OTHER CANDIDATE offering himself.

Then he had to be elected over the disaffection of the Gesner-Crosan machine, who carried the fourth ward and several wards for his opponent.

Then, not succeeding in defeating Cornelius, the Gesner machine moved on the city council, got control of it, and named policemen of their own choice, and voted out the men chosen by Cornelius.

That was "doing politics" with a vengeance, and SALEM HAS HAD A GESNERIZED POLICE FORCE the past year, and a Gesnerized city council, as far as that political organizer could control matters.

But in all this struggle for the control of the police force of the city it had never leaked out that Mr. Cornelius was an unfit man for the office to which the people elected him.

In his leading editorial Editor Davey discloses what has been the deep secret of the whole situation, and, as usual, the other fellow alone is to blame. He says:

"The entire trouble with the police administration of this city the past year was caused by the stubbornness of a man in the marshal's office WHO WAS NOT ADAPTED TO SUCH DUTIES, and who arrogated to himself rights and privileges not his by natural or charter provisions."

It will be fair to assume that in their personal relations, Chief Cornelius and the men under him were both to blame some, and neither side should bear all the blame.

It has never been charged even by his worst enemy that Tom Cornelius was unfit for the duties of his office, or that he neglected to perform his duties in any manner.

Every time he ran in a hobo or picked up a wayward street-walker it was not paraded in the newspapers as A GREAT ACT OF CIVIC PURIFICATION to reform the morals of this city.

But the charge against City Marshal Cornelius is that he is stubborn, that he was not adapted to such duties. Of course, Editor Davey writes from the standpoint of machine politics.

The adroit editor of the Statesman leaves a hole for himself to crawl out of. He does not tell what the unfitness consisted of. He calls it "stubbornness."

Cornelius, as Chief of Police of the city, was probably unwilling to be run by a boss outside of the city council. The policemen he had selected probably WOULD NOT DO POLITICAL DIRTY WORK in the primaries for the boss.

Cornelius probably had the absurd idea that a portion of all the business men of the city for the retention of an able force ought to have a little weight with a man elected City Marshal by the people.

Like his predecessor, Chief Cor-

Health and Beauty

Beauty is the external proof of health; with failing health comes failing beauty. Woman's delicate organism is frequently over-taxed by arduous household duties, and the demands of society. The constant drain upon her vitality weakens her nervous system. The penalty is a tired, worn-out, exhausted condition which destroys her appetite, robs her of rest, and at intervals causes much suffering and distress. When these conditions exist, the weakened nerves must be strengthened. Dr. Miles' Nervine will do this. It stimulates the action of all the organs, brings refreshing sleep, and drives away that look of care.

"I have taken Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for years, as did my mother before me. Whenever I feel tired, worn-out, or have headache, I always take the Nervine and it strengthens me. I consider it a great remedy for nervousness or debility."

hellus had refused to raise campaign funds by levying blackmail on pimps, gamblers and prostitutes of the city to carry primaries and elections with.

That was his crime. THAT WAS WHY HE WAS DECLARED UNFIT by political bossism outside of the council. That was why he had to have the police force taken away from him.

The stubbornness of Tom Cornelius in this direction will be approved by the people generally. Let men who want to spend money in politics spend a little of their own money, instead of entering into a partnership with vice. Salem wants more Marshals who are stubborn in that way.

POLITICS.

Make strange bed-fellows. Advertising makes strange customers—new business. And new business is an absolute essential for every successful merchant. No matter how carefully and how conscientiously one's trade is treated, there is always a certain falling off—a drifting away to other places and cities. To have, to hold and to build up one's clientele the one practical, proven way is the advertising columns of a newspaper, and for the Salem merchant there is no medium so valuable and, because so valuable, so cheap as The Capital Journal. It reaches the people as nothing else will.

Made Happy for Life.

Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent, at St. Albans, W. Va., when his little daughter was restored from the dreadful complaint he names. He says: "My little daughter had St. Vitus' dance, which yielded to no treatment but grew steadily worse until as a last resort we tried Electric Bitters; and I rejoice to say, three bottles effected a complete cure." Quick, sure cure for nervous complaints, general debility, female weakness, impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by J. C. Perry's drug store. Price 50c.

Carl Neugebauer Injured.

Word has reached here that Carl Neugebauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Neugebauer, of this city, has been injured by a fall, while at work on a building at San Jose, California. The injuries are not serious. It is expected that he will return to Salem in a few days.

Any thin or undeveloped girl or woman will be benefited by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. It is one of the greatest known remedies for making people strong, healthy and well. Tea or Tablets, 35 cents. For sale at Dr. Stone's store.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Connor left today for an extended trip to the Sound cities. Mr. Connor has been acting as manager of the Willamette Hotel during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Conner in the East.

CLUB COMES TO LIFE

Commercial Body Long Comatose Suddenly Wakes Up.

"To be or not to be" was the all-important question which was decided unanimously in the affirmative by the Greater Salem Commercial Club last evening.

There was a larger crowd of representative citizens in attendance upon the meeting of the Greater Salem Commercial Club than has characterized these meetings for more than three years past, the occasion being the revival of the spirit of progress and expansion, long since dead, and the result was even more encouraging than anticipated. In fact it was virtually a resurrection of the old organization, made new again and placed upon the highway to a solid working foundation, which bodes well for the future prospects of the city and this section of the Willamette valley.

Ever since the organization of the club, about three years ago, there has been a gradual dying out of sentiment and ambition on the part of the membership, until it finally became the next thing to impossible to secure a quorum to transact the routine business of the commercial club, to say nothing of collecting the monthly dues of the membership to pay running expenses. At last, in a spirit of desperation and determination to make or break, a circular letter was sent out in the form of an ultimatum, to all business and influential men of the city, calling a meeting for last evening to determine whether the club should continue to exist as an organization or cease to exist altogether. The effect was almost electrical, for, after some soul-stirring and straight-from-the-shoulder addresses by a number of the leading spirits present, it was unanimously resolved that the work of the club should be continued, but that it would be carried on upon a larger scale, and its scope should be extended so as to embrace everything of interest to Salem, Marion county and the central Willamette valley.

The ultimate result of the meeting was that all present renewed their membership in the club, all old accounts and books were considered closed, the organization was launched upon a new footing, and over $55 per month was pledged in support of the work of the club in sums ranging from 50 cents up to $5 each, and many of the members went so far as to pledge themselves to attend every meeting of the club henceforth, providing it was within their power to do so. The next meeting will be held next Wednesday evening, when President Thigelsen, according to the sense of the meeting, will outline a set of plans and recommendations of procedure for the future work of the club, and will appoint a special committee, composed of J. E. Albert, Carey F. Martin, Clarence Hamilton, A. N. Moores and County Judge J. H. Scott, who will assist him in the formulation of these plans. It was also the sense of the meeting, and the suggestion will doubtless be incorporated in the general plans and recommendations, that the club secure permanent quarters, conduct a bureau of information, hold entertainments and receptions and install a permanent exhibit of the resources of the section of the valley coming within its jurisdiction.

Numerous strong and enlivening impromptu addresses were indulged during the progress of the meeting, some of the speakers being so plain-spoken and unmerciful to those of the citizens who had been somewhat derelict in their duties toward promoting the growth and welfare of the community that the erstwhile dormant spirit of patriotism was aroused within them, and all came forward heartily and pledged their unqualified financial, moral and intellectual support to the work of the organization and to do all within their power to make it a success and its work fruitful of beneficial results. Among those who lent voice to the occasion were: George F. Rodgers, Carey F. Martin, F. N. Derby, the retiring president; A. F. Hofer, G. Stolz, President Thigelsen, J. H. Albert, Frank Davey, Rev. Barr G. Lee and several others.

President Thigelsen called the meeting to order, every seat being filled, and stated the object of the meeting in a few brief and pointed remarks, which were to the effect that it had been decided to determine, once for all, whether or not it was the sense of the business element of the city to allow the commercial club to drop into complete oblivion or whether the time for an awakening had arrived, and the work of the club having been carried on altogether too long already under such strenuous and discouraging conditions, the time had come when a choice one way or the other must be made. If the business men thought the city could get along just as well without an expensive commercial organization, well and good; if it was decided to continue the work of advertising and promotion of the best interests of the community, better still, "but a decision must be reached, and it must be reached tonight."

"We are not going to drop the enterprise," said George F. Rodgers, who was the first to take the floor in reply to the momentous question "We are not going to bury the club. There is too much of a spirit of progress manifest, and we are not going to stand by, as men, and see Salem disgrace itself in the eyes of the smaller, but more progressive communities of the state by dropping the only evidence of enterprise in existence. There are two classes of citizens: The active and the passive. It is our duty to make the passive class active in the upbuilding of the town. It must be done. Make the organization democratic and not a class organization. The great trouble heretofore has been there are too many men that throw themselves in the way of progress, instead of putting their shoulder to the wheel and helping to push the good work along. Of course, the club is not going to die; it is going to live a very lively existence."

Carey F. Martin then took the floor for a few enthusiastic remarks along the same line of reasoning as promulgated by Mr. Rodgers, and he was followed by F. N. Derby, who said, in substance:

"This commercial body is not dead and it is not going to die. Lack of proper organization is directly responsible for the lethargy and attitude of indifference which has been displayed toward its efforts in the past. We must reorganize and get to work upon a more substantial and systematic basis. There is not a page of literature in existence that is fit to send out as advertising matter to attract the prospective home-seeker or capitalist into our midst. This is one of the best and most resourceful counties in the state, and yet it is practically the only one that is not provided with an ample supply of literature that does justice to the city and this section of the valley. Let us renew our subscription list and start all over again."

"There is not the slightest excuse for permitting the club to die or even remain in a comatose state," said A.

F. Hofer. "It can be made a very lively club, even with only a few members present at each meeting. Salem is now at the point where it cannot go backward. We must push ahead. We are sending too many people out of the city, who have already settled here, and tried to be content with conditions, but they finally drift into more progressive communities, and we are doing nothing to hold them. It is simply a matter of personal energy, and each of us can certainly devote some of our time, thought and attention to promote the welfare of the country upon which we all depend for a livelihood, and, incidentally, our own welfare and interests." Mr. Hofer closed with citing the great benefits to be derived even by social organizations, and cited as instances the case of Pasadena, California, which although only about 10 miles from Los Angeles, developed and prospered until it now has a population of about 30,000 souls, and is still growing.

Gideon Stolz did not believe that the sole work of the club should be devoted to sending out pamphlets and literature. He urged that the efforts of the organization be centered upon the establishment of permanent headquarters for the club where a creditable display of the varied resources of the county and central valley may be kept on display the year round, and where the stranger may be tendered a hearty welcome, and the virtues of climate and country pointed out to him in a favorable light. He contended that Salem had lost the greater portion of the immigration on account of the seeming indifference displayed by the people to prospective settlers, and contended that some steps should be taken to afford them suitable entertainment upon their arrival here. He also urged co-operation with the county administration in the collection of a display of the varied products of the county.

President Thigelsen and J. T. Albert made splendid addresses and Frank Davey censured everybody in general. Others spoke forcibly, and then subscriptions were pledged amounting to $55 per month. It is expected that $300 a month will be secured.

HORNER'S HORSE HOOKED.

Team Belonging to Lady Near Ricker School Stolen from Postoffice Grounds.

A white horse and a ton buggy was removed from the postoffice grounds some time during the day yesterday, and the indications are that the outfit was stolen. The rig is the property of Mrs. J. D. Horner, who lives east of this city, near the Ricker school house, and was brought into town yesterday by that lady. She tied the horse securely near the postoffice, and when she started home late yesterday afternoon the horse and buggy were gone.

EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGE.

School Teachers Should Investigate the Free Trip to Jamestown.

We would call to the attention of Marion county school teachers now with us the exceptional value from an educational standpoint of our trip to the Jamestown exposition.

During the year 1907 this great international military, naval, historical and industrial exposition will be held on and near the waters of Hampton Roads, Virginia, in commemoration of the three hundredth anniversary of the first permanent English settlement at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1607.

The Jamestown Tri-centennial exposition will differ distinctly from other expositions, as it will have a great international naval rendezvous and military encampment, to which invitations have been extended by the President of the United States. Many countries have accepted and will not only participate in the naval and military features but will also make industrial displays as well.

During ordinary times the vicinity bordering on Hampton Roads so famous in history, possesses sufficient attractions to warrant its selection as a meeting place, while during the exposition period its natural advantages will be wonderfully augmented.

We would be glad to have the teachers call during their stay in the city that we may explain how this trip can be obtained. Some young lady from Marion county will have the time of her life and help give our county such advertising as it has never received before. All expenses will be paid by The Capital Journal and The Pacific Northwest, with which The Journal has associated in what will prove to be the biggest longest and best newspaper excursion ever given in the United States. Come in and obtain full particulars. CAPITAL JOURNAL.

56,400 Meals Did Him No Good

How One Man Wasted Fifty Years of His Life—Thousands Like Him

"What's the use of eating, how?" said the scrawny dyspeptic his rotund, prosperous-looking friend. "Here I've been eating five times a day, and sometimes twice a day, for 50 years and look at me! I'm rawboned and skinny, still at the bottom of the ladder, surer on the world, and a pessimist. I know and I can't help it. If I had it over again, though, I would take care of my stomach, for I don't believe I ever really relished a meal in my life, not even mother's Christmas dinners, and I firmly believe my way of eating or whatever it was brought along with it darkness and impossibility of success."

"You're right," nodded his companion. "Of course, that isn't always the case. But in this age must not only 'Trust in the Lord to keep our powder dry,' but we must swallow sunshine with our breakfast. Cheerfulness, especially while eating, which is the most essential of man, is as necessary to his sunshine is to the flowers. Nothing normal can be produced in darkness."

"But this is what you have been doing, Mr. Dyspeptic. Your brain and your stomach, remember, are twins, and you have to treat them accordingly. Why not now and repair the damage you've done. It is never too late, you know. You mean at my age? And suppose you can't always get the sunshine?"

"Absolutely, yes. Science has made it possible to get the sunshine, the health and the strength your stomach needs, all put up together in little tablets. They're Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the most effective tablets in the world for this very thing. One ingredient in these tablets digests 3000 grains of food without the help of the stomach. Two tablets after each meal can do more work, in digesting the stomach can itself. The stomach each need not work at all. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets does all the work and gives your jaded stomach a rest it needs. Meanwhile, you secure yourself of brash, burning, burning sensation, heartburn, acid stomach, acidity, fermentation, indigestion. You get rid of these all time. An then, besides, you eat all you want, and you will relish mother's Christmas dinner you will take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating. That's the sunshine I was talking about. Your face will reflect the better change going on, you'll be more energetic, your mind will be clear, you'll be happier, and you'll be yourself again."

"Your heart will change and you feel rosy. You'll enjoy your meals—and live. Let's walk down to the drug store and let me introduce you to one little package of these Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them at any drug store in the world for only 50c a package. It is worth it, Mr. Dyspeptic."

Sent Back.
