The Bank Habit

Possibly you who read this have never kept a bank account. If not, let us suggest that you try the experiment. You will find it helpful in many ways. Aside from the fact that your money will be safe from theft and fire, such a habit tends to thrift and economy, discipline and a general understanding of business principles, all of which are essential to success. It also affords a convenient method for the payment of bills; and, as the checks are always preserved and returned to you, they serve as receipts for the amount paid. We will be pleased to serve you as your banker. Come in and open a bank account.

WAYS TO EARN MONEY.

Abundance For the Woman of Grit, Industry and Common Sense.

No woman with good sense need ever be poor. The matter lies within her own choice. Around her, wherever she be, are opportunities for money earning if she sets herself to find them and is willing to work independently.

For women in the country perhaps nothing pays so well as poultry raising if well managed. The whole land is now invaded in summer by the city boarder. There is good sale almost everywhere for eggs and chickens of all ages, particularly broilers. In a country place where I was in August the people sold eggs for from 30 to 33 cents a dozen at their doors. Boarding house and hotel keepers had to have them at any cost. I was so interested in this subject of poultry rearing for women that I investigated some "poultry ranches," as they are called. One farmer who had gone into chickens experimentally, learning the business as he went along, succeeded from the start so well that he abandoned agriculture and devoted himself to poultry.

Poultry rearing is light work—nothing in it that a woman cannot do. She needs to have, of course, some mechanical skill, which can be acquired, and she needs to tend carefully to her fowls and keep up to date in their management. That is all. A friend who knows tells me that one woman can get a living off 100 hens.

A branch of the poultry business is pigeon and squab raising. It is attracting attention now, for there is much profit in it. The squab market is never fully supplied. One woman who merely raises pigeons in her back yard says she has an excellent income from them.

Cooks.

So long as this old earth rolls there will be universal demand for things to eat and things to wear. A well to do woman declares that if she were a poor girl starting in life she would first of all become a trained, perfect cook, educating herself in some of the many schools of domestic science now within reach of every one. There is such an ever unsatisfied demand for good cooks that she who is skilled in this occupation can almost make her own terms as to pay and quite make them as to hours of rest and recreation. She need not be a drudging slave at all. Cooking is hard work, but what is not, if it is done properly? There is a genuine artistic pleasure in preparing good food and dishing it up in an attractive manner. Many weaking women grunt and groan and say they have not health enough to do such hard work. Bosh! Where there are grit and will power health will always follow.

Millinery and Dressmaking.

The costumer's trade is now so profitable that numerous college women have gone into it, declaring it pays better than any profession they could enter. Some of the best known dressmakers in this country have incomes of $10,000 to $20,000 a year. The country is flooded with batch dressmakers, with no aspiration and no skill or joy in their work, who ought to be starved while till they learn to do decent fitting and sewing. In every city, large or small, there is room for all the really competent dressmakers that put in an appearance. The same is true to a great extent of milliners and the millinery trade. But this trade, too, suffers under the curse of botches and the unambitious.

Varied Work of Women.

It is about proved that a woman can do anything she sets her head to. The only requisite is that she shall thoroughly know her business and attend to it. The woman of enterprise and capability will do better to go into trade for herself than to work for somebody else. A firm of women paper hangers is doing a rushing business in one city. Mrs. Bogue of Denver owns and manages a Hill street car line. Mrs. Shloppy of Wichita, Kan., is an artistic sign painter. She had an art school training and has utilized it to some purpose. Miss Jimetta Kennedy of Emigerville, Pa., is an expert wage painter. A New England girl who is a college graduate is laying up money raising pigs.

How Many Taxpayers?

The Journal recently published a statement that a petition several yards long had been presented to the city council, asking that the saloons be closed at 6 o'clock. A Journal reader wants to know how many taxpayers' names are on the petition. Any one who has taken the trouble to look the matter up, if there is such an one, can answer and go head.

Making Flour in Mexico.

In the vicinity of Saltillo, in the state of Coahuila, Mexico, there are six modern rolling mills running by steam and nine stone mills operated by water power. The flour they produce is of an excellent quality and finds a ready sale in all parts of the republic, so much so that a large amount of wheat is imported here from the United States, keeping these mills in constant operation day and night to supply the demand for the fine grade of flour which this locality has acquired a reputation for. It is shipped in burlap sacks, two bags containing about 200 pounds or one barrel of flour, the demand usually exceeding the supply.

Wheat straw furnishes the principal food for the animals, there being no hay raised here. Owing to some peculiarity of the soil it contains sufficient nutritive element to replace hay in feeding stock, on which they thrive and keep in good healthy condition. The price of wheat straw ranges from $10 to $20 Mexican currency ($5 or $10 United States currency) per ton, owing to its abundance and proximity to market.

The duty on imported wheat was removed entirely during the first six months of this year, and during this period the importation was much larger than any previous year. The importation of American wheat into Mexico during the last twelve months amounted to $2,000,000 gold, demonstrating that this is the nearest available market for American wheat. The supply here is never equal to the demand, and this will prove a profitable field for American wheat exporters. The railroads entering Mexico are all of the standard gauge and are fully equipped for the handling and prompt delivery without change to points of delivery.—Consular Report.

Yukon-Alaska Exposition.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—Senator Piles and Representative Jones of Washington, called at the White House this morning to urge the President to aid the Yukon-Alaska Pacific Exposition. The President will mention it in his message, and perhaps help the coast statesmen to get through an appropriation to aid it.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson, of Burns, Oregon, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Darr, left this morning for Albany to visit friends before returning to their home in Eastern Oregon.
