BRIER-PATCH PHILOPHOSY

PETER RABBIT'S cheerful philosophy upon the outdoor world and its inhabitants as interpreted by WILLIAM J. LONG, and illustrated by CHARLES COPELAND. For Sale at all book-sellers' $1.50 net.

To go barefoot rather than wear uncomfortable shoes, to get quickly at the heart of a carrot rather than rasp his tongue over the dry husk or the peppery top, and to be in harmony with the brier patch as it is rather than be perpetual-Rabbit's ly fretted because he cannot understand why it should Philosophy not be otherwise,—this is the heart of Peter Rabbit's philosophy, and in it lies many a truth for the thoughtful nature lover. Should the reader care to follow the rabbit's trail, it will take him through the dead timber of science, through thickets of reason and psychology, through the open country of instincts and dawning intelligence, to the origin of natural religion and the distant glimpses of immortality in which we are all interested.

The almost classic simplicity of Mr. Long's style, and his extraordinary powers of observation have already won for his books an unusual popularity. The present volume, however, its interest is written in a vein which his previous works only pretation. half suggests. Send for descriptive circular.

Mid-Winter Carnival.

All is activity at the University, preparing for the mid-winter carnival, which is to be held December 14th and 15th. This will be the biggest attraction ever offered by the University, beside which "Peck's Bad Boy" could not hold a candle for real, genuine amusement. Fun will be handed out by the bushel, and such dainties to eat will be served as would tempt the palate of the most dyspeptic.

The Stage-Carnes orchestra has been secured to furnish music for the occasion, and to the lovers of good music this should prove a strong attraction. Dr. Heritage and the girls' glee club of the University will sing. No comment is needed upon the ability of Dr. Heritage to sing and enter into it will be a great treat. This train—it will be a great treat. This will be one of the first performances of the glee club before the public and it is understood that it has some very pleasant surprises in store.

The class in oratory will have a tea garden; they will also serve hot cocoa and a light lunch. This garden will out-rival the real Japanese article. The third year academy class will have a notion counter; if you have a notion you want anything it can be had here. The second year class will have a country store, where confetti can be had at 29 per cent less than cost.

Candy, peanuts, popcorn, etc., will be on sale at the freshman booth, the candy is guaranteed to be "fresh."

The "baby incubator" will be in charge of the sophomore class. The real, live babies will there be produced—this is no fake.

The "Siberian Passage" and the only Numidian lion, with a human tongue, will be under the auspices of the football boys. If Hercules should encounter this lion he would drop his club and take to his heels. Cages of monkeys will also be on exhibition, and it is safe to say that if a stranger of the monkey species should wander in here he would be thoroughly ashamed of himself.

The booth presided over by the girls' basketball team will be most unique in design, and attractive as well. It will consist of a large basketball, inside of which the girls will have a picture gallery.

The Girls' Student Association, famous for its thrift and enterprise, will serve an excellent merchants' lunch from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. on Saturday.

The above attraction will be in the Tillman Ford building on Commercial street. It is under the management of Wallace G. Trill, assisted by Miss Olive Rigby.

The whole affair promises to be a grand success, not only in raising money to pay off the student body debt, but also as a social and amusement occasion. Everything will be brim full of college wit and fun.
