FRANK DAVEY SPEAKERSHIP OFF

Lane and other counties. The local Davey supporters feel somewhat humiliated that their leader has fallen by the way, but are still hopeful of controlling the organization of the house. A conference of the Davey supporters in Multnomah county has been held today, and all the Davey followers are to meet and caucus tonight at Portland and agree on another candidate, who as yet is unknown. It is not the intention of the Davey people to permit Mr. Vawter to walk away with the organization, if they can prevent, but it is natural to suppose that the Vawter people will consider the Davey downfall a windfall to their candidate, and seek to win over some of the Davey people who were willing to take Vawter as second choice.

His Downfall Regretted.

Frank Davey has been acting editor of the Salem Statesman, and was a leader in local and state Republican politics, championing the cause of one faction in the city council. He led all the candidates for nomination at the primary, and had the highest vote of any man on the Republican ticket at the June election. He has had the backing of the machine politicians generally, and would have stood for a strong machine organization of the legislature. The effect of this retirement from the speakership contest, in the manner in which it has come about, will be to retire him from the leadership of the Republican party in this county and state. Last spring at the peace conference he was chosen as chairman, and was regarded as a coming aspirant for congressional and state honors, had he gone through the legislative session in a creditable manner. His failure at this critical moment will be greatly regretted by his friends, who were legion, and whether agreeing with him or not all liked Frank Davey and wished him well.

What the Oregonian Says.

Dissolution of the Davy forces in the fight for speaker of the Oregon legislature is imminent, owing to the disappearance of Davey, and surmise that it is due to thirst for the cups, which he had held under subjection so long a time that his friends had confidence in his continued abstinence.

After a lively campaign of several weeks throughout the state for speaker, he had practically won the fight against Vawter, of Jackson, whose followers gave up the contest as lost.

The effect is the reanimation of the Vawter boom and a shifting of political lines. Should it turn out true that Davey has vanished for the cause suspected, there will probably follow a slump to Vawter or the unification of the hitherto discordant elements, in the Multnomah delegation of 13 members for a new Multnomah candidate.

Disappeared in Portland.

Davey on previous occasions like the one now suspected has been wont to seclude himself from friends and family. Since last Thursday night his whereabouts have been unknown. He was then in Portland and wired to his home in Salem that he would return next morning. Since that time nothing has been heard of him. Search has been made for him high and low in Portland by his friends. Mrs. Davey came down to Portland yesterday to join in the search.

Davey's friends hope that he may be found in some distant part of the state, possibly eastern Oregon, where he might have gone to round up votes for the speakership. Some think him the victim of foul play of political enemies who may have turned him to liquor or given him drugs like "knockout" drops. They aver he had too strong a hold on himself to let go at so critical a time unless trapped by foes.

Political activities have been almost paralyzed in the last three days because of the uncertainty as to Davey. Nothing could be done by his supporters until he was found and the fear dispelled or confirmed. Every trail that could lead up to him in Portland has been followed by his friends during the suspense. The news was kept very quiet, but yesterday began to leak out in Salem and in this city. The many inquiries for him in Salem were answered by: "Gone to Portland." "Don't know when he will be back," "Can't say just where he is," until suspicions began to crop out. The inquiries were brought to Portland with the same result, until it became frequently whispered that Davey could not to be found.

Davey Had Thirty-four Votes.

Lane county's three members are of this class; also Linn's three and Washington's three, all of which Davey was reasonably certain of securing in his support. He had made inroads into Vawter's southern Oregon support and had almost the solid support of eastern Oregon. Yamhill county's two votes were his, and he had strong assurance of obtaining Clackamas county's three. Davey apparently had the support of at least 34 members, or three more than needed to elect.

Vawter will undoubtedly start in to recoup his losses, and indications are that he will become the leading candidate, unless Multnomah shall bring out a candidate against him.

OFFICER BUSICK DISCHARGED

No Crimnial Intent Srown in the Shooting of Dietz

Police Officer J. Busick was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Webster this morning, on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, committed upon Frank Deich, at the passenger depot about six weeks ago, and, there not being any evidence introduced to show criminal intent on the part of the officer, he was discharged.

Officer Busick was prosecuted, for the accidental shooting of Deich, a German subject, under section 1771 of the code which prescribes the penalty for assault with a dangerous weapon. Under this section criminal intent must be shown before conviction will lie and it being clear that there was no criminal intent involved in this case, there was nothing to do but discharged the officer from custody.

Some little feeling seems to prevail among the public that Officer Busick should have been prosecuted for "criminal carelessness" but there is no law on the Oregon statutes under which one can be prosecuted for that offense and the one under which he was prosecuted is the only one applicable to the case. Deputy District Attorney C. L. McNary appeared for the state as prosecutor and in the absence from the city of Attorney P. H. D'Arcy, Officer's Busick's counsel, Carson & Cannon appeared in the defendant's behalf in his stead.

Cured of Lung Trouble.

"It is now eleven years since I had a narrow escape from consumption," writes C. O. Floyd, a leading business man of Kershaw, S. C. "I had run down in weight to 135 pounds, and coughing was constant both by day and by night. Finally I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and continued this for about six months, when my cough and lung trouble were entirely gone and I was restored to my normal weight, 170 pounds." Thousands of persons healed every year. Guaranteed at J. C. Peery's drug store; 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
