MISTAKEN FOR YEGGEMEN.
How the Immaculate Joe Teal Looked After Two Weeks' Outing.
Apropos of Joe Teal, his immaculate linen and tailor-made clothes, few people know that once he was mistaken for a burglar and all around bad man. This was twenty years ago.
Mr. Teal and some friends had been two weeks in the mountains hunting and fishing. During that time Teal had not changed his clothes or shaved. He looked tough, and no mistake. On their way home Teal was placed in a room at a small country hotel that contained two beds. After he had retired, the landlord put a drummer in the other bed. Mr. Teal feigned sleep, and watched the drummer out of the corner of his eye. The drummer looked at Teal and then hid his pocketbook under his pillow. Then he walked over to Teal's bed and took another good look at the hunter. Then he placed his money under the mattress.
After another look at the unshaven young barrister, the drummer seemed in a quandary what to do with his watch. He placed that under his pillow, then he removed it and put it in his shoe. He took it out, took another look at Teal and held the gold time piece in his hand.
"Why don't you swallow it?" cried out Teal, who suddenly seemed to wake up.

ROBBERS UNDER ARREST
Sheriffs Arrest Four Men Charged With Breaking Into Stores

Chester Larabee, E. M. Regan, James Stewart and R. W. Portcous were arrested in the railroad yards at Woodburn last evening by Sheriff Culver and Deputy Sheriff Minto. They were brought back to Salem, and are now confined in jail charged with breaking into the Fairgrounds store Monday night, and stealing a large lot of clothing and other goods. Charges will also likely be preferred against these men for breaking into the second-hand store of Conrad Dillman, on State street, the same night, and stealing various and sundry articles.
Rutherford & Craig, proprietors of the store at the Fairgrounds ascertained yesterday morning that their store had been broken into and a large lot of goods taken off. The Sheriff's office was at once notified, and the sheriff and his deputies soon located the stolen loot in the hop house on Prince Byrn's place, near the fair grounds. It was learned that four strange men had been hanging out there for some time, and had been sleeping in the hop house. It was also ascertained that these men walked north on the railroad tracks yesterday morning. Culver and Minto took the afternoon train for the north. Mr. Minto got off at Gervais, and the sheriff at Hubbard. Both walked into Woodburn and examined the hobo camps along the route without result. At Woodburn they arrested the four men in the railroad yards, where it was believed they were attempting to take the train back to the fair grounds.
Regan was formerly a brakeman on the Northern Pacific, and Larabee was recently discharged from the United States marine corps at Berkeley for physical disability. Stewart carries papers to show that he has been employed at Cherry Valley, Wash.

The evidence in the hands of the officers is said to be sufficient to secure the conviction of at least two of the suspects, and it is believed that all four men were mixed up in the two robberies.
A dozen pairs of shoes, 19 pairs of gloves, 20 pairs of socks and 24 shirts were among the goods stolen from the Fairgrounds store. Mr. Dillman has been unable to make a complete inventory of his losses.
It is probable that the men will be arraigned tomorrow before Justice Webster, and charged with the robbery at the Fairgrounds store.

Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to Be Here.
The coming of Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on Friday, February 1st, to the Grand Opera House, reminds the writer of the firm hold the old songs, as well as the old play, has on public favor. It also recalls an incident.
It was in a hotel parlor. A brilliant pianist had just rendered one of Wagner's most difficult pieces and a murmur of well-bred applause had followed. Then, very softly and tenderly, like a sweetly tremulous old voice reciting pathetic memories, the ivory keys sent the plaintive melody of "My Old Kentucky Home" sighing through the room. The idle chatter ceased. Every mind was busy with bitter-sweet memories, and the air was filled with the scent of vanished clover, the warm fragrance of new-mown hay and the echo of babbling brooks. The simple tune knocked at the door of every heart, and the ghosts of dead days came trooping forth in answer.
An almost forgotten poet, Robert Hinckley Messenger, quaintly wished for "old wood to burn, old books to read and old friends to talk with." He might have added—old songs to sing and old tunes to be played in the long twilight, while he dozed and dreamed in his easy chair. It is a fact that none of the popular songs of late years survive "May Fly's" existence. They catch the lip, but do not hold the heart for, unlike the old tunes, they have been written to catch the passing fancy—they are not birthmarked with the joys and woes of the human race. So, too, is it with the old plays, and certain it is that no story—between boards, or on the boards, will ever take so lasting a hold on the American public as Harriet Beecher Stowe's unrivaled sketch of incidents during an epoch that will always mark United States history.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH
A PLEASANT, SIMPLE, BUT AND EFFECTUAL CURE FOR IT.
Costs Nothing to Try.

Catarrh of the stomach has been considered the next thing incurable. The usual symptoms a full or bloating sensation on eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, sickle appetites, nervousness and a general languid feeling.
There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.
The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested. It has time to ferment and break the pedicate mucous surface of the stomach. To secure a permanent and healthy digestion is the necessary thing to do and when digestion is assured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.
According to Dr. Harlan, the safest and best treatment is that after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, Nux, Golden Seal and fruit juices. These tablets can now be found in all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their use after meals.
Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am happy and men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and soundness from their use."
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, care of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating of meals.
