The hog is found highly developed among a high class people. He is impossible among low class people. In good environment the hog and his twin, the steer, are the chief alchemists of fortune. In Kansas he obtains his Eldorado. He makes iron nerves, cool brains and brave hearts. House Turns Down Two Important Would-Be Laws During Yesterday Afternoon's Session

Almost the entire afternoon of yesterday's session of the house was devoted to consideration of some important bills, coming up for final action, principal among which were Jackson's taxation of mortgages bills, which, despite his heroic fight to preserve, was turned down by a vote of 15 nays and 28 ayes, 3 absent, on the motion to indefinitely postpone, and the measure introduced by Representative Chapin, of Multnomah, for the protection of creditors, which was lost by a helpless majority upon the question of its final passage.

This latter measure, while ostensibly designed to protect merchants, particularly wholesale merchants, from being cheated of the money due on accounts was showed up to be too drastic in its provisions and would operate to the detriment of the smaller dealer, and it was voted down by an almost three to one vote. Several important measures and resolutions were introduced which passed the first reading and the house, at 4 o'clock sharp, took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning.

The house routine for yesterday afternoon follows:

COBURN'S CARICATURE OF THE HOG

Humor of Kansas Hayseed After Dinner Orator . . .

At a dinner given in Kansas City recently under the auspices of the Life and Fork club, Hon. F. D. Coburn, secretary of agriculture for Kansas, talked on the subject, "The Hog from a Friendly Viewpoint." His expressions were highly humorous and well received, and before he finished the guests were in almost continuous uproar. He said: "No reflection, hygienic or sanitary, cast upon your city when I say that for the hog, it is the most unwholesome in the world. I can count $4,000,000 of him that have come to Kansas City and the records are all dead. Therefore, as his friend, and of his family, I come here to make a few remarks and introduce resolutions.

From the repulsive antiquity, through the long progress of years, has become civilized, is a debtor, a mortgage remover and a stress of prosperity. He yields to luxury. He must be reckoned with by the luckless explorer of the moon. He is an automatic reducer of the corn supply and a raiser of the price. He is a bucolic bond, whose coupons are large litters of pigs. He is a patent pig, a condenser of cream, head cheese, glue, bristles, rations, fertilizer, saddle covers and so on. He is a mint, and the yellow corn is the bullion which he converts into coin. In all homes he is on the tables, highborn, rich and poor. He is with the soldier in camp and the sailor on the deep. At $2.75 per hundred he is a pleasure and we won't speak to him when we meet him on the street. At $7.25 per hundred he is a gentleman and a scholar. He stops associating with the country and comes to town and becomes an aristocrat. As soon as he falls under harmful influence, gets it in the neck at the drinking house and is bled to death, he becomes the commerce of the nation, the fat of the land.

Speaking of making pork with corn, there may be other foods, as shown by the story told at the corner grocery. "I can remember," said the philosopher, "when rattlesnakes were so scarce that we couldn't raise corn." "What have rattlesnakes to do with pigs?" was asked. "Why, the pigs used to eat 'em," he answered. "How did they catch them?" "My sister," he said, "put a hat with a stuffed bird on every pig. The snake would try to charm the bird and then the pig would get him. That's the way we kept our pigs alive."

The pigs get one luxury—dishwater. Dishwater contains preserves, molasses, pepper, tomatoes, onions, steak, gravy, milk, pickles, grease, cheese and exiled dishrags. It is sour and sweet, wholesome and toothsome.

In Texas they have the razorback hog. He is made up after Swiss architecture. The highest peak of this corrugated back is six inches above his tail. His tail hangs like a dishrag from a back window. He leaves the impression of a man starting late to his office in the morning. He lives on roots and peanuts. He will help his neighbor gather the crop by crawling under the fence at night. Crossing him with blue blood gives little improvement. The only effective way to cross him is with a railroad train. Then he becomes a highbred Berkshire. His ham is more juicy than the hind leg of an iron dog or a pine knot.

The city hog lives on tin cans and tropical fruits. His tail has been chewed off by dogs—he is curtailed. His picturesque back is enhanced by a scalding from the cook. He can hide himself in a haystack where the hayknife has been rammed in and pulled out. His side meat is sometimes used for window glass. He is imperishable and can be used for a post hole digger. One enthusiast says that the pig would be a better emblem of our nation than the eagle. The pig is thrifty and peaceful, far more representative of American character than the rapacious eagle whose beak and talons signify nothing but war. Napoleon lost Waterloo because his army had soup and the Russians bacon. Ingalls would have gone back to the senate if he had not subsisted on oatmeal and baked apples. If you

Great Immigration to Canada.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—The annual report of the department of the interior has been issued today. There was an increase of $697,439 in the gross revenue of the department as compared with the previous year, and the area of land disposed of by land companies holding grants from the crown was nearly double the acreage sold during 1904-05. These results, the report says, should be considered the strongest possible ground for prosecuting with increased vigor the land and immigration policy of the administration. The total revenue from Dominion lands for the past decade was $13,139,941 as compared with $2,343,834 for the preceding ten years. The homestead entries for 1906 were 41,869, compared with 30,819 for 1905. In 1896 the entries were 1857. The entries for the past year represents a total population of 105,420 souls, over 65,000

NEWBERGERS WILL PLAY HERE.

Pacific College Versus Y. M. C. A. in Basketball Tomorrow Night. Saturday night the people of Salem will have a chance to see another good basketball game. The Pacific College team of Newberg will journey up to Salem and engage in one of the scheduled state league games with the local Y. M. C. A.

These two teams have already had one game this season on the college men's own floor, where Salem won by a score of 22 to 20, which shows that it was a close contest, and that the one tomorrow night will not be lacking in interest. The line-ups of the two teams will be the same as in their former game. Jones is again back in the game with the Y. M. C. A., after a several weeks' absence nursing a sprained wrist. The Salem lineup will be: Jones, center; Rhodes and Basher, forwards; Simonton and Steinbach, guards. Before the basketball game there will be a preliminary indoor baseball game between Ed. Thielson's and Charlie Roth's teams, or better known as the "Bush bank" and "Central grocery" contingent." This will be the first match of the Salem indoor baseball teams.

Horseless carriages—Wireless telegraphy—Now lardless cookery

Improvement is the order of the age. There was a time when Lard was considered the only shortening. To-day, the only people who use lard for shortening and frying purposes are those who are not familiar with the virtues of Cottolene. It pays to be abreast of the times. Cottolene is not only superior to lard from a health standpoint, being a vegetable rather than an animal product, but it will make more palatable food than lard; and it is more economical than lard because, being richer, one-third less is required than of lard or cooking butter. Lard cooked food is not digestible because lard is a hog-fat product. Cottolene makes food more digestible and healthful because it is essentially a product of nature and contains only that which is digestible, healthful, and a real means of sustaining life. If your grocer is an up-to-date, progressive man, he will have Cottolene in stock. More than that, if he has ever used it in his own family, he will recommend it in preference to lard or cooking butter. If he does not do this, it is only because he is unfamiliar with the virtues of Cottolene. Prove our claims to your own satisfaction by giving the product a fair test. Give Cottolene a good, fair test, use it according to directions, and note the benefit to your digestion. You'll never go back to Lard.

COTTOLENE was granted a GRAND PRIZE (highest possible award) over all other cooking fats at the recent Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and food cooked with COTTOLENE another GRAND PRIZE.
