CRIPPLE CREEK MONDAY

The latest and by far the best melodramatic production of the season is E. J. Carpenter's "At Cripple Creek," to be presented at the Grand opera house Monday night. It is said to be a beautiful story of life and adventure in a western mining town in the early days when "Gold" was king. The play abounds in strong dramatic situations and powerful climaxes, all deftly arrived at by legitimate means with the assistance of mercurial effects and stage carpentry. The story is full of that element of heart interest so necessary to the success of a play. It aims to settle no social questions, but presents a phase of life as it exists, and the picture is a true one. Good comedy is furnished by the amusing love affairs of Belle and Joe, also by the broad comedy of Ben White "always been black," whose loyalty to Joe through all his vicissitudes form a splendid to the treachery of Martin-Masons. Seats on sale Monday at 9 a. m.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
Large Crowd Witnessed Time-Honored Melodrama Last Night.

A half century ago, when one section of the nation was at dagger's points with the other, and anything that caricatured the people of one section was taken with avidity by the other, the dramatization of Mrs. Stowe's remarkable novel, was considered a great play, and many actors of some ability starred in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" troupes. But time is a great healer, and the passing years has left its imprint on the one-time great play. Good actors no longer take the parts of Legree and Uncle Tom, and the personnel of these itinerant troupes is now mostly made up with disgruntled restaurant waiters.

No one takes Uncle Tom seriously now, and it is well. Women and children attend the "play," and it is usually to laugh.
The aggregation that played this at the Grand Opera House last night was at a par with the common run. Uncle Tom acted as he did in the palmy days of yore; they had the blood hounds; Eliza crossed on the ice just as she always did, and Little Eva had that same old hectic smile.

Of course, some people will still be found to say that Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's book was an important factor in bringing about a great fratricidal war—a conflict that cost the nation a million lives—and some will still be found to say that the least of these lives was worth more to civilization than all the negroes from the days of Ham down to the Brownsville regiment, but, as Rudyard Kipling would say, that is another story.

Many people went to see "Uncle Tom" last night, and they enjoyed it

ALL HAVE DESIGNS ON TREASURE

Ways and Means Committee Leading the Strenuous Life

During the closing hours of this week's session the Oregon legislature distinguished itself, at least the house did, by adopting Knowles' resolution providing for an amendment to section 28, of article 4, of the state constitution, to increase their per diem compensation from $120 to $400 for the regular session. As originally drafted the resolution called for $500 per session but, true to the spirit of retrenchment and unanimity which has predominated thus far throughout the session, the representatives of the "dear people" finally decided to be satisfied with $100 less for the time being and elected to seduce their demands to this extent. This however, was not agreed upon until after a great quantity of condensed logic was expended in the effort on the part of the more modest to convert the selfish element to the conservative way of thinking.

Another feature which developed before the close of the third week of the session was the apparently predominant desire on the part of the state institutions and some of its citizens to get an extra "dig" into the state's hoard of treasure which is the bane of existence of the ways and means committees of both branches of the legislature. Principal among the applicants for a slice of the public funds that appeared before the ways and means committee of the house were Jefferson Myers, who put in a claim for $3500 as compensation for his services as commissioner for the Lewis and Clark fair, at the rate of $200 per month and two Portland ladies who asked the committee to increase the appropriation for the Patton home, from $4000 to $10,000, in order to provide for some extensive improvements and additions to the institution which have been mapped out. It was the sense of the committee, however, to keep the appropriations down to the lowest minimums and it is doubtful if the desires of the applicants will be gratified.

Among the most important actions of the legislature before adjournment yesterday was the adoption of a joint resolution by the house providing for a change of the time of holding the regular general election from June to November in order that the state and federal elections will come upon the same day and reduce the expenses of same, and it is proposed to hold the municipal election upon the same days to further reduce the election expenses and bring all campaigns together. The house also went on record as being opposed to cutting down the number of state normal schools to two and decided to support all of the present institutions by adopting the adverse report of the ways and means committee upon the Purdy resolution, which was indefinitely postponed, providing for two normal schools only. The committee also decided to report favorably upon Vawter's bill providing for one board of regents for all four normal schools. This is a similar measure to that of Senator Miller, of Lebanon, which it has been decided to sidetrack.

The special committee to revise and present a new bill as a substitute for the Jones' Willamette locks bill, at Oregon City, reported a substitute measure providing for the appropriation of $300,000 by the state contingent upon the appropriation of a like amount by congress for the building of new locks or condemnation and purchase of the present one from the Portland General Electric company.

The legislature, almost as a body, after adjournment departed on a special train provided for their convenience for Corvallis to accept the invitation of the board of regents of the agricultural college to visit that institution. This is a custom that is followed annually and the occasion is always made a gala one by the citizens of Corvallis and the officials and students of the college. The train was furnished at the request of Representative Carter, of Benton.

VOTERS AT SCHOOL ELECTIONS

Attorney General Says Such Voters Must Have Assessed Property.

The question was recently put to Superintendent of Schools Ackerman if a person could vote at a school election if his property was assessed in another person's name. Mr. Ackerman has issued a circular to the county superintendents in which he quotes the following from a recent opinion of the supreme court:

"The contention that the statute is satisfied if the person offering to vote in fact owns property which is listed on the assessment roll, although it may have been assessed in the name of another, is without merit. The requirement is that he must have property 'as shown by the last county assessment.' The ownership of the property must appear from the assessment and cannot be shown by extrinsic evidence."

Sermon on Noble Life.

Rev. Geo. Engle will deliver an eulogy on the life of the late Rev. H. Lossner Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m., in the German Evangelical church, at the corner of Fourteenth and Center streets.

Rev. Mr. Lossner has given the best part of his life to the work of helping others, has lived a life of devotion to the lowly Nazarine, and has led many into the sunshine of Christianity. The funeral services will be held Sunday at 3:15 p. m. from the church.

Charcoal Stops Gas On Your Stomach

Wonderful Absorbing Power of Charcoal When Taken in the Form of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Trail Package Sent Free.
Charcoal, pure, simple charcoal, absorbs 100 times its own volume of gas. Where does the gas go to? It is just absorbed by the charcoal,—the gas disappears and there is left a pure, fresh sweet atmosphere, free from all impurities and germs.

That's what happens in your stomach when you take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful purifiers science has yet discovered.

You belch gas in company, sometimes, by accident, greatly to your own humiliation. That is because there is a great amount of gas being formed in your stomach by fermenting food. Your stomach is not digesting your food properly. Gas is inevitable. Whenever this happens, just take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges right after eating, and you will be surprised how quickly they will act. No more belchings; no more sour risings. Eat all you want and what you want, and then if there is any gas going to be formed, one of these wonderful little absorbers, a Stuart Charcoal Lozenge, will take care of all the gas.

And it will do more than that. Every particle of impurity in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away by the charcoal. No one seems to know why it does this, but it does and does it wonderfully. You notice the difference in your appetite, general good feeling, and in the purity of your blood, right away.

You'll have no more bad taste in your mouth or bad breath, either from drinking, eating or smoking. Other people will notice your bad breath quicker than you will yourself. Make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, so when you talk to others you won't disgust them. Just one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges will make your breath sweet, and make you feel better all over for it. You can eat all the onions and odorous foods you want, and no one can tell the difference.

Besides, charcoal is the best laxative known. You can take a whole boxful and no harm will result. It is a wonderfully easy regulator.

And then, too, it filters your blood,—every particle of poison or impurity in your blood is destroyed, and you begin to notice the difference in your face first thing—your clear complexion.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow charcoal, and just a little honey is put in to make them palatable, but not too sweet. They will work wonders in your stomach, and make you feel fine and fresh. Your blood and breath will be purified.

We want to prove all this to you, so just send for a free sample today. Then after you get it and use it, you will like them so well that you will go to your druggist and get a 25 cent box of these Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 54 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.
