

Tired Nervous Women Make Unhappy Homes

MRS. NELLIE MAKHAM

MRS. GEO. A. JAMES

A nervous irritable woman, often on the verge of hysterics, is a source of misery to everyone who comes under her influence, and unhappy and miserable herself.

Such women not only drive husbands from home but are wholly unfit to govern children.

The fits of women act like a fire upon the nerves, consequently the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, the sleeplessness, and nervous instability of women arise from some mental derangement.

Do you experience fits of depression, do you experience alternating with extreme restlessness alternating with extreme irritability? Do you suffer from pains in the abdominal region, headache, bearing-down pains, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, and almost continually cross and snappy? If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous troubles than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, and made from thousands of women's testimonies to this fact.

Mrs. Nellie Makham, of 151 Morgan street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:—

"I was a wreck from nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine in the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value."

I suffered so I did not care what became of me, and my family despaired of my recovery. Physicians failed to help me. I was urged to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I want to tell you that it has entirely cured me. I think it is the finest medicine on earth and I am recommending it to all my friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Geo. A. James, a life long resident of Fredonia, N. Y., writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was in a terribly run down condition and had nervous prostration caused by female trouble, in fact I had not been well since my children were born. This condition worked on my nerves and I was irritable and miserable. I had tried many remedies without getting much help but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me back to health and strength. It has also carried me safely through the Change of Life. I cannot too strongly recommend your medicine."

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to communicate promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

DR. THOMAS CONDON DEAD.

Passed Away at the Home of His Daughter—Was 84 Years of Age and Was Professor in University of Oregon for 30 Years.

Dr. Thomas Condon, the noted geologist and for nearly thirty years professor in the University of Oregon, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. F. McCornack, west of Eugene, of senile exhaustion. He had been quite ill for several days past, but was much better Saturday and hopes were entertained for his recovery, but Sunday his condition became worse and he began to sink rapidly. All three of his daughters, Mrs. McCornack, Mrs. F. C. Nolf, of Seattle, and Mrs. R. S. Bean, of Eugene, were at his bedside at the time of his death, which was peaceful and painless. His younger son, Herbert T. Condon, is now on the way here from Seattle, but his other son, Seymour W. Condon, who is at Los Angeles, will be unable to reach Eugene in time for the funeral.

The remains were taken to the Bean home, corner of East Eleventh and High streets, where they were seen by the friends of the family till the time of the funeral.

Born in southern Ireland, March 3, 1822, Mr. Condon was taken at the age of eleven by his parents to New York, where he received his early education and grew to manhood. He next attended a Methodist college at Cazenovia in Madison county, N. Y. After a few years spent in teaching he studied at the Auburn theological seminary, from which he was graduated in 1852. He was married the same year to Miss Cornelia Holt, of Buffalo. He with his wife, set sail with a band of missionaries for San Francisco by the Cape Horn route. The voyage was long and perilous, and for three days the courage and strength of the missionaries was severely tested in the struggle with a fire in the smouldering cargo.

Mr. and Mrs. Condon arrived in western Oregon in the fall of '52, where they found many of New England who had brought their appreciation of schools and churches. After ten years of work they removed to The Dalles.

A minister without study, Mr. Condon climbed the steep bluffs above the town and thought out his sermons while he wandered over the hillsides. He always carried along a geologist's pick and hammer, for while in central New York, as a student and teacher, he took deep interest and spent much time in the study and collection an ancient life forms so common in the limestone of that section. A stronger interest was awakened in the unknown interior when an army officer brought home a few trigonia and other fossil shells. When it became safe to penetrate the John Day valley without an armed escort Mr. Condon entered a new field which kindled an enthusiasm in geological research that never ceased to be one of his delights.

A Great Influence.

Dr. Condon stood as a maker of opinion, a reconciler of men. When the great battle arose in the intellectual world after the publication of Darwin's "Origin of the Species of Man," Dr. Condon was ready to face the conflict. His theory of evolution was twenty-five years ahead of the world; for a quarter of a century he maintained what thinkers are accepting today. He presented to the human mind a wider conception of God than the world has ever known before. This conception involved a beginning of simplest forms which gradually unfolded into the more complex, never losing the continuity of purpose, with a steady progress toward culmination, the spiritual life of man.

Believing it to be his duty to shape the minds of men, Dr. Condon felt that the most effective work could be done with his cabinet, because at this time the study of science, uninterpreted, was leading young men of our colleges into materialism. This, with other motives, led him finally in 1876, to accept the chair of geology and natural history at the University of Oregon. Here he moved his large and valuable cabinet, gathered during his twenty years' ministry in Oregon, and here he remained until his death, retiring from active work at the university four or five years ago.

Mrs. Thomas Condon, wife of the doctor, died at Newport, Oregon, September 2, 1901, of typhoid fever.

Pleasant and Most Effective.

T. J. Chambers, Ed. Vindicator, Liberty, Texas, writes Dec. 25, 1902: "With pleasure and unsolicited by you, I bear testimony to the curative power of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it in my family and can cheerfully affirm it is the most effective and best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used." Sold by D. J. Fry.

Reasons Why you should use Cottolene

- 1-Purity—The source of COTTOLENE is in striking contrast to the source of lard. Lard is made from hog-fat—and COTTOLENE from pure, refined cotton seed oil. Lard contains animal fat and possible impurities; COTTOLENE is essentially a vegetable product; and is pure, wholesome and healthful.
- 2-Palatableness—COTTOLENE makes more palatable food than lard. It makes food rich, crisp and flaky and at the same time free from that "greasy" taste of lard-soaked food.
- 3-Digestibility—Hog lard food is greasy and indigestible; COTTOLENE food is easily digested and will agree with the most delicate stomach, as COTTOLENE contains not an ounce of hog-fat.
- 4-Cleanliness—Lard comes in bulk and insecurely sealed tins, which permit its coming in contact with dirt, dust and contaminating odors. COTTOLENE is sold only in pails with a patent air-tight top which protects it from the air, dirt and odor and insures it reaching the consumer fresh and wholesome.
- 5-Economy—COTTOLENE being purer than lard or other shortenings, one-third less is required.
